

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 506

Minefield was self-explanatory. There were landmines buried in those woods. If one were to accidentally step on one, they would be blown to pieces.

Thus, Sean's words carried a double meaning: was he willing to enter the dark woods to look for her, and was he willing to die for her.

Elliot looked toward the dark forest.

He had made his decision in a matter of seconds. He strode into the forest.

Avery was feeling antsy as she waited in Sean's house. Sean had said that he would help her test Elliot.

Half an hour had passed. "Why are they not done yet?" she wondered. She did not know what Sean was doing Elliot had a strange temperament. "Would there be friction between them?" she wondered.

Emily stared at Avery. She noticed that Avery's brows had been tightly knit with worry the entire time she had been here. "Don't worry Miss Tate. Sean always does things within reason. He would surely bring him here later," said Emily in an attempt to comfort Avery.

Avery nodded. "It gets dark quite early here."

"Yes. The weather here is quite different from Avonsville," Emily said and changed the topic, "The child in you is his, isn't it?"

Avery was a littleza stunned.

“Haha! You’re so worried for him, I saw through you immediately.” Emily held Avery’s hand and said, “If he came all the way here because of you, he still cares for you. In any case, Sean’s tactics tend to be more intimidating than the regular ones, so I’m a little more wore worried that he might not be able to withstand that. If it does not go well, it does not mean that he does not love you. It could just mean that he has a little more self-preservation.”

When Avery heard what Emily said, she immediately jumped up from the sofa. She thought back to the time when Elliot had abducted her and taken her to the mansion in the woods. She remembered when she had been so terrified by his men that she had run into a wall.

Avery did not want such terrifying things to repeat themselves again! Whether it was to her or Elliot, she did not want such things happening to them!

Avery furrowed her brows and strode outside.

“Miss Tate, wait up! I’ll go with you! I roughly know where they are.” Emily was afraid that something might happen to Avery. She immediately chased after Avery.

Outside the forest, Sean was discussing having a discussion with Hunter. They were discussing whether they should accept the donation or not. Elliot’s would be donating a considerable amount of money.

“Since you want to accept his donations, why are you making things difficult for him?” Hunter asked.

“How is this making things difficult? This is not a minefield. I’m just scaring him.” Sean crossed his arms over his chest. “Didn’t you see how troubled Miss Tate looked just now! That man has done something bad to her. I'm just helping Miss Tate out!"

"They're a couple. They fight. Why are you worrying about them for nothing?"

"What do you mean by worrying for nothing? Once they are here. It is our matter,"

"Hahaha! Be careful! Don't end up aggravating him or he might decide not to make the donation!"

"Even if he does not make a donation, it's not like we are starved for money. We'll be fine! Furthermore, Miss Tate is selling the drones to us at production cost."

"Then, we should accept Elliot's donation! We shouldn't let Miss Tate charge production cost. We should allow her to profit from Elliot."

"Hahaha!"

They chatted in delight failing to notice Avery's and Emily's approach.

"Miss Tate, do you see the forest in front of you? The minefield sign is a fake. The forest isn't a minefield," Emily said. "Elliot should be inside!"

When Avery heard what Emily said, she immediately walked into the forest.

Before Sean and Hunter could react, Avery had already entered the forest,

The sky was completely dark.

Avery switched on the torchlight on her phone and quickly headed deeper into the forest.

“Elliot!”

After five or six minutes of yelling out his name, all she could hear is her voice reverberating through the forest.

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 507

Suddenly, she saw a ray of light.

When she saw the light, her tensed heart relaxed instantly.

Hearing his familiar voice, Avery felt a burn in her nose and eyes.

“Avery, don’t move! You’re in a minefield!” Elliot had seen the light from her phone. He reminded her of the fact that they were in danger after he had made sure that it was her.

Avery began to cry. If this was truly a minefield, would Sean have allowed him to risk himself? Did he leave his brain at home that day? Furthermore, if this was truly a minefield, she would not have entered to begin with!

If she remembered correctly, Elliot was a smart man, yet why was he behaving so foolishly at the moment?

“We’re not in a minefield!” croaked Avery. “Come here quickly!”

Upon hearing Avery's words, Elliot immediately ran toward her. Avery's vision was blurry from the tears. She only saw the light getting brighter as he ran toward her. She seemed to be able to feel the heat of his breath.

Avery raised her hand and quickly wiped away her⁸⁷ tears.

A moment later, he was in front of her.

"Avery, they said that you were lost. You didn't get lost, did you?" Elliot's breathing was rather heavy. He grabbed her shoulders^{7a} tightly.

"I'm not a three-year-old child. How could I have gotten lost?" She shrugged his hands away and looked at him. "Since when did you become so gullible?"

"I'm here to apologize." Elliot did not care that he had been tricked. All he cared about was that he got to see her. "Avery, did you come here because you were trying to avoid me?"

His gaze burned into her.

Though there was barely any light, he could see the tears that stained her face.

"You know why I'm here, so why did you come?" She looked down, not daring to meet his eyes. She was afraid that the moment she saw his face, all her principles and determination would vanish.

"Mike said that you came alone. I was worried." His palms slowly slid down her arms until he held her hands tightly. "Let's get out first."

Elliot picked her up in his arms!

Avery was stunned. Then, she punched his shoulder. “Let me down! I can walk!”

“It’s hard to walk here. What if you fall?” He looked at the pathway that lay before him. Every step he took was stable and firm.

Avery was silent. No matter what feud or resentment she had, it could be settled after they left the forest.

Five minutes later, they emerged from the forest. She squirmed and got down from his arms.

Her expression was dark as she walked back to her quarters in silence.

Elliot followed her calmly.

“Why are you following me?” said Avery as she looked over her shoulder. “Aren’t you here to make a donation?”

She could see his handsome face in the dim light of dusk.

“I came here to find you.” His tone was firm. “That day, I had taken Shea to see a doctor called Frederick Lock. Zoe introduced him to me. She said that he could cure Shea.”

Avery took a deep breath. Her eyes were red. “Frederick Lock can’t cure Shea! Stop getting tricked!”

Elliot’s lips hardened into a thin line. He said nothing. “Stop getting tricked. Did that mean that Zoe has tricked me before?” he wondered.

“At four thirty in the afternoon, we were about to head back, and Zoe asked for a ride back,” said Elliot. He was being absolutely honest.

“So, you gave her a ride?” Avery sneered. Tears fell from her eyes. “You gave her a ride just because she asked you to. You’re so obedient. Do you still have feelings for her?!”

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 508

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 508 – Looking at how heartbroken Avery was, Elliot held her hand tightly and placed it on his heart.

“Avery, it’s not what you think.” Elliot looked into her eyes and said, “I only agreed to give her a ride because she had treated Shea.”

“Zoe treated Shea?” Avery could hear the sarcastic laughter in her heart.

From Elliot’s point of view, Zoe was Shea’s savior. If not, he would not have given Zoe three hundred million 35 dollars.

Avery struggled and broke free from Elliot’s grip.

“Because of you,” Elliot said without even thinking.

Avery’s heart skipped a beat. She felt like she had tripped over something. “Did Elliot say that he broke up with Zoe because of me?” she thought.

“Although Shea has not fully recovered, I am already very satisfied with her current situation,” said Elliot, explaining himself. “I can’t force myself to be with her any longer, nor could I continue lying to myself that I did not care for⁸⁷ you.”

When Avery heard Elliot’s explanations, she did not feel lighter. On the contrary, she felt exhausted.

“Where are you staying tonight?” she asked Elliot as she looked at her accommodation.

“I don’t know.” Elliot looked around and asked, “Where are you staying?”

“Don’t tell me you’re thinking of staying with me? You can dream on!” Avery saw how Elliot

“I’ll rest at your place for a little while. I’m a little tired.” The exhaustion on his face was obvious. Other than running around the entire day, Elliot had only had time to have breakfast. Not only was he exhausted, but he was also famished.

Just when Avery was deliberating as to whether to allow him to stay with her, Elliot’s stomach let out a loud rumble.

She had never seen Elliot in such a wretched state.

If he had not come here for her, he would have been in his luxurious mansion, enjoying a scrumptious feast prepared by his servants.

“Go back tomorrow morning.” Avery led Elliot toward her place. “This place is rather tough for a spoiled master like you.”

“Come back with me,” Elliot said stubbornly. “If you’re not leaving, I won’t leave either.”

“I’m here for work, not play.” Avery glared at him before grabbing her key and pushing it into the keyhole. “If you’re not leaving, so be it. Do you think you can threaten me?”

After the door to the room was open, Elliot entered first. The room was rather simple. Other than a bed, desk, and chair, there was nothing else. Apart from the washroom.

Elliot headed to the washroom. As there was a public bathhouse, the suite did not have a shower.

Elliot looked at the simple facilities in the washroom and thought deeply.

Avery saw how Elliot was standing by the washroom. She teased, “Do you want to leave? Did your bodyguard come with you? Get him to pick you up! If your bodyguards did not come with you, then call your men right now. Get them to pick you up by plane! I know you have a plane.”

Elliot heard Avery’s jabs. He did not retaliate. If mocking him made her happy, then he would allow her to do so.

“I’m not leaving.” Elliot looked at her. “It’s quite nice to experience a different lifestyle.”

“Oh, then I’ll call Mr. Tennant to arrange a room for you.” Avery took her phone out and was about to call Sean.

The moment she unlocked her phone, Mike video called her. Avery answered the call without knowing why.

“Avery, what’s going on over there right now? Have you seen Elliot already?” Mike asked.

Avery held onto her phone. She glanced at Elliot with her eyes, silently commanding him to stay in the washroom. Elliot was rather reluctant, but he obeyed and remained in the washroom.

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 509

“I met him.” Avery picked up her phone and quickly changed the topic. “Where are Hayden and Layla?”

Mike looked sad. He sighed. “They won’t be able to talk to you tonight. Hayden cried today.”

In the washroom, Elliot had clearly heard what Mike said.

“Why did Hayden cry?” he³⁵ wondered.

Elliot walked out of the washroom. He looked at Avery with darkened eyes. Avery did not have the time to deal with him at that moment. She was even more stunned than he was.

Hayden was a child who rarely showed any emotions. He was so calm and often did not act like a⁸ child.

“What happened to him? Did he get bullied in school? Did you look for his teacher?” Avery said quickly. She wanted to return home and comfort her son.

“They had a pop quiz today. Someone scored higher than him. He could not take it.” Mike shrugged. “He can’t accept that there are people smarter than 79 him.”

Avery sighed in relief, but she still felt bad.

Hayden had always been living in his own world. In his world, he was the 87 best.

“He is the youngest in his class. It’s acceptable that he is not as good as someone else, but he refused to listen. The more I comforted him, the sadder he became.” Mike thought back to the situation that night. His head hurt. “This is the first time I saw him losing it!”

“I’ll head back tomorrow,” Avery said.

“Hmm. I suspect that Wanda has planted a mole in our company. When you left on your business trip to the Border Security Force today, coincidentally she left for the slums on her business trip! She even took a team of photographers with her. Hahaha!” Mike’s laughter rang out throughout the entire room.

Upon hearing Wanda’s name, Avery lost in talking to him. She looked at Elliot, who standing by the washroom door, from the corner of her eyes and said to Mike, “I’ll see you tomorrow.”

“Hmm. Send me your flight details once you book your flight. I’ll pick you up from the airport tomorrow.”

“Okay.”

After hanging up, Avery began searching for a flight that left the next day.

Elliot carried a basin of hot water and placed it by her feet.

“Are you booking flight tickets?” He looked at the screen of her phone.
“Book one for me too. We’ll go back together.”

Avery glanced at him coldly. “Can’t you do that yourself?”

“My phone ran out of battery.” Elliot bent down in front of her. He grabbed her foot with his slender fingers.

Avery was stunned. She immediately pulled her foot back. “Elliot, what are you doing!”

Elliot grabbed her foot tightly and took her socks off. He looked at her.
“Book a flight ticket for me.”

His eyes clearly told her that he was going to wash her feet as she booked their flight.

Avery had goosebumps.

“Let go of my feet! I’ll book one for you!” His hand was wrapped tightly around her foot. She felt warm.

Elliot placed her foot in the basin. He did not let her go.

Avery was a little annoyed. She was not used to him being so sappy.
“Where the hell did you learn this from?”

“Let me stay here tonight,” Elliot demanded hoarsely. “I’m worried about you staying alone. If you’re not willing to share the bed with me, I’ll sleep on the table.”

Avery was speechless. He stared at her with his dark onyx eyes. Her mind was a mess.

Her lips moved. She wanted to say something when a rumble came from outside the window. It started pouring!

Rain pelted her window. The sound was deafening.

Avery furrowed her brows.

She wondered whether the flights the next day would be canceled because of the heavy rain.

What really ruined her mood, however, was the fact that she would be unable to refuse Elliot's request.

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 510

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 510 – Elliot calmly washed Avery's feet and then gently wiped them dry with a tissue. He took his time.

Avery was blushing. She tried to retract her feet back a few times, but Elliot stopped her from doing so.

The tingling in her feet that bloomed with every caress of his hands traveled to her heart.

“Do you think the flights will be canceled tomorrow?” Elliot finally let her go.

“Don’t jinx it!” Avery was desperate to return at that moment.

Elliot picked up the basin and went over to the washroom to pour out the dirty water. When he went back to her, he saw that she looked gloomy and agitated.

“Are the flights canceled?” He guessed.

“Hmm.” Avery placed her phone down, feeling depressed. “There are fruits and snacks in the bag, have some.”

Although Elliot was hungry, his appetite had vanished when he saw her in that state.

Avery was holding onto a kettle, intending to boil some water. Elliot took the kettle and said, “Go and lie down.”

She listlessly walked over to the side of the bed and sat down. All she could think about was Hayden.

Before Hayden had turned one, he was just like any other kid. He would occasionally cry and throw tantrums. However, once he had turned one, all the crying and tantrums had ceased.

Avery could not even imagine what her son would look like if he were to cry.

Hayden was willing to stay in the elite class because the elite class was not as rigid as the ordinary class.

The elite class was taught using a curriculum that was tailored for child geniuses – which all the students were.

Geniuses exceeded the intellect of an average person. They were usually more self-absorbed, and they rarely paid attention to other people. This was the other reason why Hayden had decided to stay on with the school after the first day.

Avery was initially happy that Hayden had found a suitable place, but she had forgotten the pressure that he would face when placed in such an environment.

“Are you worried about Hayden?” After plugging in the kettle, Elliot looked at her. “Don’t worry, he will learn how to handle the stress.”

Avery looked at him, stunned. “How do you know?”

Elliot pursed his lips. Instantly, a thousand thoughts ran through his mind.

“How do I know? I know because Hayden is my son,” he thought.

Hyden’s temperament was just like his. He was always hard on himself. If he failed to achieve something, he would sink into self-denial and depression. However, his failure would only serve to motivate him to work harder to achieve his goal.

“Because he is your son, I believe in him,” Elliot said while looking at her deeply.

Avery’s heart skipped a beat. She staggered and lay down in bed.

Elliot strode over to the bed and tucked her in.

“Avery, can I have a look at your tummy?” Elliot sat down on the side of the bed. His eyes pleaded for her to allow him this one request.

Avery's face felt hot. "Why do you want to look at it?"

He felt as if a ball of fire was stuck in his throat. He said hoarsely, "I want to look at our child."

"You can't see it now," said Avery, turning down his request.

"Oh, then how much longer?" When he asked this question, he felt extremely bitter.

Five years ago, she had stayed with him till she was about to give birth to Hayden.

He wanted to know how her pregnancy had escaped his notice? Did her stomach not grow bigger?

Avery did not know that Elliot knew that Hayden was his son, so she did not think much about his question.

"About five to six months!"

Avery had deliberately eaten less when she was pregnant with her children. This enabled her to maintain her weight and better allowed her to hide her pregnancy.

However, with this pregnancy, she did not control her food intake. She guessed that in five or six months, she would begin to show.

Elliot's eyes filled with tears. He sighed and said, "Avery, you are right. I'm the world's stupidest man."

"Have I ever said such a thing?" Avery looked at him, taken aback. She did not know why he had suddenly said that.

“You said it before.” Elliot felt helpless beneath Avery’s gaze. He turned away. “I’ve never really been willing to admit my mistakes, but this is a mistake.”

“Everyone makes mistakes.” Avery looked at his handsome side profile. She could not help but lower her voice a little.
