

Honey, Please Love Someone Else

Chapter 110 - Best Wishes

I prayed in my mind that the surprise gift won't backfire on me. Stella was looking at those earrings with such amusement. Those pretty eyes were gleaming like the stars.

"Of course I love them..... but how did you....." Finally she spoke. Hearing her words made me feel relieved.

"Telepathy." I replied with a smirk. The answer did not satisfy her. She made a 'are you kidding me?' face.

"Jeez! I was just there." I revealed the truth while rolling my eyes. There no point in acting all high and mighty.

"Oh! That's why you asked me that time if I got anything else."

"Bingo!" I took those earrings from her hand, "I'll put them on you." When I was done I took a glance at my wife. She looks so gorgeous. The earrings matches her perfectly.

Oh god! Is she really my wife?

"Thanks." A smile plastered on her red painted lips. I wish I can kiss her right now but her lipstick will be messed up. Can't let her beauty be tarnished by my indecent behaviour. Let's wait till we return from the dinner.

"Of course honey. Anything for you. But in future, if you ever like something don't think twice. Just get it. Okay?" She was embracing me tightly. Her slender arms were ticklish yet so comfortable. I felt like teasing her.

"Although it doesn't apply for a new husband." I deliberately addressed the word 'Husband' as a 'Thing' which triggered her.

God! She looks adorable when she's mad. In fact she's pouting at me.

Stella slaps my shoulder as I laugh hard on the floor. Honestly I'm laughing at my own sarcastic remark. Seems like I can be sneaky if I want. Never knew I had this side of me hidden inside the depth of my aloofness.

All these years, I was just a plain, boring guy.

But now my life is filled with so many colours. Everything is so bright and beautiful. Even such activities like teasing and fighting seems to be enjoyable with her.

We arrived at the place where we were supposed to meet our friends. They were already there waiting for us. As we spotted them on the table, we went to there.

" Congratulations guys!" I shook my hand with Luke then we hugged each other.

" Thanks bro."

" Here take it." I handed him the gift. Luke's eyes were widen up with shock.

" Aww! You really got a present for me? You could have just gave me some còndòms." Yes my friend, that was my first choice. Regina and Stella laughed. Stella already handed out the present to Regina.

" See! I told you!" Pointing at Luke, I told my wife.

" I'm gonna open it." Luke unwraps the gift and takes out the sunglasses. His eyes were focused on it. The excitement is visible in his eyes, in his face. I knew that my choice was right.

" Remember when we went to the beach and you lost your sunglasses in the middle of the ocean? You really liked them so, I got the same ones."

" Dude..... that's..." He was lost, completely speechless.

" And it was actually last the gift from your grandpa." The incident happened a long time ago. When Luke lost those sunglasses he was really upset. But since he is the type of guy who doesn't dwell in the past, he forgot about it.

Although I have a feeling that he will be thrilled to see the same model of sunglasses again. The store I visited they had some vintage models. Luckily my eyes fell upon it.

" I can't believe you remember all this. I'm so touched! Come here! Gimme a hug." He threw his body on me while sitting on his chair. It was extremely awkward.

" What the hell Luke! Let me go. People are watching." I tried to free myself from his grip. Thank god there was no food on the table. Luke was overwhelmed deeply, loosing his common sense.

" There was no need for the gifts. We are actually going to have a proper wedding."

Regina chuckled.

" For real? Then what's with the rush!" Okay. I literally got irritated hearing about it.

" It was Luke's idea. He proposed me and we got married straight away-" Regina tried to explain it but I interrupted.

" Fast and furious. Well done guys! So what did you achieve after that?" My voice was gotten aggravated. Suddenly I received a tight pinch on my arm.

" Ow!" I cried out in pain. My masculine arm seemed to be twitching in anguish. Why Stella, why? Why must you punish me for them.

" Everything just happened. Ya know ?" With a dumbfounded smile Luke said.

" I'm not buying another gift for your wedding ceremony." I hissed at them in a vexing manner. Like, what's with all the drama?

" Theo!" Stella yells at my ear.

" It's fine bro. Your blessings will be enough." I cooled down my brain. My behaviour was bit rude. I need to properly show my sincerity to my only best friend. His stupid smile is melting my heart.

" My blessings are always with you. And you too Regina. I hope both of you can be happy together. Don't mind my words. You two are very close to me. I'm really happy that you guys got married.

Maybe I'm little bit worried since you two are very different. But from the bottom of my heart, I know you guys love each other. I have known you two from a long time. That much I can tell." There. I said it. Wasn't really hard at all. Who am I to give them lectures on their sudden marriage plan? They felt like doing it so they did.

" Me too. I wish you the best. It may happen suddenly but I really wish you two a beautiful married life with all the happiness." Stella holds my hand firmly. She must be proud to see me acting like an adult.

How strange.

In reality I'm the one who's older than her yet I behave so childishly.

" Thanks." The newly weds said with a bright smile on their face.

" So how did it happen?" The mood has gotten back to normal. Stella asked them about the further details of this flash marriage.

" We were dating for a while. It hasn't been that long since we got to know each other so closely. Then Luke proposed me out of nowhere. I was really happy with his efforts. So, without thinking twice, I said yes."

" And you got married on the same day. Gosh! It sounds like a scene from a movie." Stella giggles. The girls are sure enjoying the dinner and the gossip.

" Yeah. From the movie ' Hangover '.... wait, did you got married at Vegas?" I suddenly had a ominous thought. What if Luke was drunk and he got married in that state?

" No. We were here on the new year eve. We got married at a near by church." A sigh of relief. But how come the church was open that time?

" It was open?" I frowned.

" I paid them." Luke replied.

" Oh. So you had planned it before hand." I let out a deep breath. Luke chuckles like an idiot. But I noticed something different about the new couple.