

I Have Immortalized: I Frankenstein
by Simon E. Evans

Chapter 1 Prologue

Authors Note "Warning" story might contain mystery and strong language, readers discretion is advised.]

Slowly and slowly every fall will begin and I was descending with a little bit of momentum and some little speed.

I can feel the cold-warmth breeze
all around me humming ancient songs of various kind, and it appears I was walking on air. Smiles!

Astounding smiles, what a fabulous experience as gravity was having a pull on me.

My first experience in existence kept me wondering as I spread my hands openly wide, meditatively and happily receiving cosmic energy into my terrestrial.

You probably didn't know what excite me the most and what I was really anxious about as my descend was about to be completed.

BANG!

BANG!

BANG!!

Splashes, There was it, just landed like one who has taken a long fall from the top of a high mountain, I gaze at the sky, from where my descent began and can't figure out the altitude from which I have fallen, the reason behind my fall and how I manage to survived the fall was still a mystery to me. My name is Frankenstein and I am the first origin of my kind, I wasn't birthed, I was created, I was formed by the hands of creation and brought down here to exist in the world of men.

By my very nature, I am masculine, an alpha specie without any resemblance of an alien in characteristics or personification.

I certainly do not know all that I am, I knew nothing prior to my descent, but soon after I have completely descended, I discovered that someone has died, then I knew that this realm, is a realm of mortals but I Have Immortalized: I Frankenstein, and this is my story.

ADVERTISEMENTS

NOTE: The novel will be updated daily. Comeback and continue reading from where you stop.
Everyone!