Chapter 22 The Waging Sword of Hades

Edniel Yoshida was silent to me as she looks ephemerally into my eyes.

What she wouldn't say is that I was changing forms consistently and more stronger than even a monster.

She has seen it all and she knew what it means, but couldn't say it to me in surprise.

She believed more in me now than ever before, but wouldn't force a damn thing on me, she wanted me to find out, answers myself, rather than telling me anything.

That was the waging flames of Hades, burning on that sword, it only devours whenever those that are chosen takes possession of the sword.

And the sword answers to me and it only means one thing, I was chosen.

I was found worthy and true to bear it's powers.

And as it happened in sudden evolution, I Frankenstein creature became an epitome of strength, valor and power, I became gifted beyond knowledge.

I Frankenstein Creature, now Possessor of the waging sword of hades have awakened deeper than reality itself.

I have returned in the name of redemption.
you do not see me but I am, and will be always.

I am here now, so don't be afraid my children, i'll keep watch over you against the deadly dragons.

O' fairest one, I'm losing patience, I want a fight with the dragons..

I began manipulating on how to chop off the head of the red and black dragons using the flaming and waging sword of hades.

I may have struck and pierce the air into sunder in many occasion, eagerly and in desperation for a fight with the dragons...

I was about slicing in-between the brains of queen dragon with the waging sword of hades, and all of a sudden, Yoshida defended against my strike with her mantle....

I almost got it, if not for your unconscious moves, I said, heartedly.

Its never going to be as easy as you expect, Yoshida said, try harder and keep trying and you may just succeed.

I maneuver the sword, and attempt on a ceramic blade technique but Yoshida was able to defend against it..

She went low and tries to put me off balance to my feet while simultaneously engaging her magic mantle against the sword of hades.

But I was relentless against her brilliant moves, so I counter- attack and got her disarmed immediately before placing the sword of hades to her throat.

It was a cool practice session, but I prove beyond reasonable doubt, ain't joking with the dragons.

Show me, who's next? I can't wait to unleash it.

Edniel Yoshida looks into my eyes and saw nothing but rage and she feel frightened by what she'd seen.

The mountains must be put out of place and more practice I think could make a difference against the beast,

She spoke in a tiny little voice.

My wrath will be spared, but not in a fight with the dragons because I was going to unleash my vengeance like a mighty storm on all of them..

I removed the sword of hades from her throat while wishing it was a moment with the dragons..

When you trust it is ready for you, this mountain shouldn't be standing here Frankenstein.

Tonight we're moving this mountain, I replied her, let's get things started and rolling with this dragons. If you believe I can move this mountain with my mind, so do I, there isn't any element of doubts in me anymore, I believe.
