

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 126

Alina carried the child inside, but did not go upstairs, but held the child behind the window.

She was relieved to see Caleb leave.

Lucy was naturally the happiest when she saw Penny coming! "Penny, come to Lucy."

She watched Alina grow up, now Alina had a child, this feeling was naturally more different.

Lucy really liked this child.

"Prepare some food for her." Alina didn't let the child go down, explained to Lucy, and took the child upstairs.

The anxious voice of Lucy came from behind her, "Don't be angry, she just misses you."

Obviously, Lucy was worried that Alina would beat the child, so she said so.

Alina wished to beat the child, but her heart softened when she heard these words from Lucy.

She returned to her room with the child in her arms.

Putting the child down, she opened her Beetle bag and looked inside, sweat towel, nappy and a change of clothes for school.

She can tell from these things that the child is probably really getting involved in learning now.

"Penny!" At this moment, Alina's tone was a bit more serious.

The child looked at her with pity and innocence, as if afraid of her

Other might probably be fooled by her appearance.

But for a child who was only two years old, Alina did not think that she would not understand what she was about to say.

"Mummy."

The child cried out timidly at her serious look.

Alina took a deep breath and said, "Now can you tell mommy how you got here!"

There was no need to talk about the reason.

What else could this child be about but missing her?

What she wanted to know now was how she had gotten here.

She was originally crawling out of her own belly, but now Alina found out that she doesn't know anything about her daughter. She spent much time with her child, but apart from coming to the city.

But why she doesn't understand such a small child?

"I miss mummy, I want to spend my birthday with mummy."

At that, Alina's heart softened instantly!

But still she Asked, "So tell mummy, how did you come here?"

"Great-grandpa."

"What?"

"Use Great-grandpa's phone."

It's scary, what can't this girl do?

"You" If Grandpa knew about it, Alina would know that Zane would be so angry that he would go to the hospital.

Andre's call came.

He said on the phone, "I really had nothing to do with it this time, I'm afraid to be under the same roof with that girl now!"

Andre was telling the truth.

The last incident had obviously made Grandpa very critical of him, so was Grandma.

He loved the child, but he dared not spend time with her, for if anything messed up, he would be in a lot of troubles.

Alina, "Don't tell others that she used Grandpa's phone this time."

"Grandpa's?"

"Yeah."

"She is killing Zane's life!" Andre heard the words and drew a breath of cold air.

Alina, "So, don't tell Grandpa."

Grandpa was already very upset, and if he found out that the child had used his phone, he would have been hospitalised.

Not only that, but Andre had to go back and erase all traces of them.

Alina hang up the phone with Andre.

Alina looked at the child, "You're trying to scare the hell out of Great-grandpa!"

But she was so small, but Alina had to reprimand her.

"I miss Mummy."

The child looked at her in tears, looking so pitiful that Alina swallowed all her reproaches.

Alina picked up the child.

At this moment, Alina really had the urge to ignore everything, to take the child back to Shirling, to be by her side.

The child was not so much of a problem when she didn't leave her for long.

Obviously, the child was not happy about being away from her for too long.

And now she realises that she should not underestimate the ability of a child to do anything when she misses someone.

If it were just about her, it would be fine, but this is about her grandmother, and she can't calm down.

"Then tell me, will you behave yourself over here?" Obviously, in this moment, Alina had the intention of compromising.

After all, if she let the child run around all the time, the chances of an accident are higher!

But not so much now.

It would have been different if Penny had been around her and had behaved herself.

"Yes, I'll be good." the child's tone was firm.

Alina's heart was soft, when he heard how the child swore to stay with her.

“Alright then.” In the end, Alina compromised.

In the past two times, every time she received a call from this child, Alina felt her soul was scared out of her body.

It was better to keep the child with her than to be in such a state of fear, so that she could feel more at ease.

The child was happy.

“I love you, Mummy.”

What does kid like that know about love?

But Alina believed that the child knew, because he knew better in her heart who she really loved.

“First of all, no trouble here, hear me?” Alina said in a very insistent tone.

And when the child heard that Alina agreed to stay, she was very good, nodding her head, “Don’t worry, Mommy, I’ll be good.”

But how could Alina dare to feel at ease here?

But Penny was around, Alina could keep an eye on her.

“Mummy, I’ve got a present for you.” The child slid off her and started rummaging through the Beetle bag.

And it was at this time that Alina remembered that a car full of gifts was still in the trunk.
