

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 204

Caleb had a hard time sleeping all night.

He asked a servant, although before she looked down on Emma's evilness, but under Caleb's questioning, she still told him all about the situation in the past few days.

And the more Caleb heard the end, the more he sank darker.

So much so that after that servant went out, Caleb was full of fury.

Tomas looked at Caleb apprehensively, and when Caleb was about to light up his cigarette, Tomas said, "The doctor explained that you must not smoke now."

"Why do people change?"

He was talking about Alina, right?

She did change a lot.

Back then, she was pure, or rather, the once Alina was very poised no matter what time it was.

And now?

What is this?

Not even the basic poise?

Yes, the current Alina gives people such a feeling, which is the most disturbing thing.

"After all, Werland Villa has broken the great taboo of all women." Emma should not have been arranged here.

Although in Caleb's heart, this was kind of a clear statement to Alina.

But this woman will not put up with it.

After all, in a woman's world, this is something that can't be tolerated at all, right?

"So tomorrow, go to the Civil Affairs Bureau?"

At this, Clab gave him a cold look.

Tomas shut up.

And also in this instant he felt the danger surround him.

Just now Caleb said that out of anger, now he had calmed down, how could he go there?

However, this man always has to be responsible for the words he says, and according to Alina's temper, Tomas can probably think of exactly what will happen if Caleb doesn't go tomorrow.

This night, the best sleeper was Emma.

Today, Caleb said he wanted to divorce Alina, and she was there, so that was an explanation, right?

Emma, as soon as she gets benefit, will think of more benefits.

However this time was different from any other time in the past.

This time, Caleb said that he wanted to divorce Alina.

Before, it was all Alina who was alone.

And this time, it was Caleb who took the initiative to bring it up.

"Alina, wait and see." For the humiliation of these few days, she would not just let it go.

She would stand where Alina once stood and see how wretched she really was in front of herself.

.....

Early the next morning, many servants in Werland Villa were disposed of.

Quite a few of them were dismissed.

There were only the butler and Lois left, but Caleb's such a big show, it was considered to be an example.

Such a move is a reminder to the people here that Emma is not a person without status.

When watching those people being punished and dismissed, Emma was happy in her heart.

The humiliation she had suffered here over the past few days was bit more bearable.

For breakfast, the food was basically what she liked to eat, not to say how it tasted, but at least, it was something she could eat.

After breakfast, Emma kept staring at the clock until 9,30 when Caleb still hadn't come out of the study.

Yesterday, he had a ten o'clock appointment with Alina, and it was all considered late.

Finally, the sound of footsteps came from the staircase, just as Emma raised a smile, and finally, after seeing the person who appeared on the staircase entrance.

Those smiles, all of them, stiffened.

It was just Tomas.

Tomas had taken a lot of documents and was obviously going to the office.

"Tomas, you are leaving now?" Emma had a kind smile on her face, yet that smile was ugly.

After all, the redness and swelling on her face had not yet faded.

Tomas froze as he looked at Emma.

He knew exactly what she had in mind. Could it be that she still thought what she said yesterday was serious? And that she had gotten her chance?

He nodded.

Emma, "Isn't Caleb going out?" Seeing that it was just Tomas walking alone, Emma's heart was in her throat.

Tomas, "Miss Bell, I think you've misunderstood, Master Caleb and Lady Alina have always been in this state."

So a scene like that yesterday was normal, and there wasn't the slightest chance on her side?

When she thought of this, Emma's eyes were instantly icy cold.

Tomas turned around and left.

He had said everything he needed to say, but Emma never seemed to listen.

He didn't know where the hell this obsessive energy comes from, there is some pain and suffering that she can't bear.

In Tomas's opinion, the person who falls in love with Caleb has to suffer endless pain, and Emma is still stick to him, waiting for someone who has no feeling for her.

.....

Emma froze.

Tomas had been gone for a long, long time.

The servants, too, had been fired, and Lois and the butler were all going crazy, so no one could care about her.

And she just sat there for a long, long time without coming back to her senses, her mind full of Tomas's words.

Yesterday, under those circumstances, what Caleb said to Alina was just angry words.

He hadn't thought about divorcing Alina?

Her face was more than pale.

But Emma had been happy for a night.

.....

At the lunch table, Emma's appetite was wan, she wasn't in the mood to eat.

The two of them both had leg problems, if this fell on Alina's eyes, she would inevitably be sarcastic again.

Caleb noticed that Emma was out of sorts and frowned, "Why aren't you eating?"

Emma looked at Caleb.

"She didn't she look for you to make a scene?" Her tone of voice was as gentle as possible.

Obviously, for Caleb, she was always reluctant. Especially now that Alina was thinking of dealing with her.

She didn't want to be left with nothing.

She had relied on Caleb for everything she had, so how could she be willing to just leave it all behind like that?

She had to admit that these years were the best she had ever had in her life.

And all of this was because of Caleb, in such a situation, how could she be willing to lose it all just like that?