I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 217

"So, what else do you want?" The man's face grew colder and colder.

While being looked at by the man in such a cold manner, and even questioned in such a cold tone, Emma only felt that she was embarrassed like never before.

She was so unappealing to him?

Now no matter what kind of pity she was, his attitude shows as if all this has nothing to do with him.

Such coldness was something Emma had never thought of before.

Even after taking several deep breaths, she couldn't suppress the stuffy weight in her heart.

"Don't you see it yet? The people at Collins Castle now won't leave me alone at all."

Whether it was Chester or the people over at Collins Castle wouldn't let her go.

Especially since Nova was now in trouble, this made Emma's heart even more panicked.

"If I leave you, I will die."

Emma said in a choked tone.

"So?"

"Let go of Alina."

The coldness in the man's eyes was almost like drowning Emma, and at this time, Emma really didn't care about anything.

She was really scared.

This scene now was a danger that she had never experienced before.

She also recognised it clearly.

Now, she had lost even the chance to leave Caleb, there was no other way but to stay with him.

The man looked at her sarcastically.

"You don't look at me like that, being by your side, I was caught up in such strife, it is something I didn't expect."

"That night, was it really you?"

The man did not answer her words, but turned asked such a question suddenly, not for the first time.

But because of the suddenness of his question, Emma's face went pale. Her heart was beating uncontrollably.

Looking at Caleb's eyes, she got sadder, "Why would you ask this?"

If he didn't know, why would he ask again and again? Although it was a question, the tone of voice was clearly affirmative.

Emma's heart was tearing even more.

It hurt, even was suffocating.

"What colour was that bin?"

"What?"

Emma stiffened violently as he asked the question.

Her heart was more than choked.

"What the hell are you doing?" Emma looked at Caleb in despair.

He must have known the truth.

Last time, when he asked this, she had a hunch that he knew, and it was a good thing he didn't pursue it.

Now, he was torturing her bit by bit, that she had nowhere to go.

This was not a good feeling, Emma was really being driven crazy.

Caleb's eyes were sharp as he looked at Emma, and Emma was scared.

He really knew it all.

"How did you know?" Although she did not ask further, Emma did feel that he knew.

There is no need to do any struggle, such a feeling made Emma feel her heart smothering pain.

She, indeed, was going crazy.

"In the future, don't show that greedy gaze of yours again."

"Even if it wasn't me back then, but two years ago, it was me who saved you. Is it true that I'm not qualified to be by your side?"

He knew it all, and in that case, there was no need to hide it.

Emma admitted it.

The air was frozen.

Emma's body was tense as she looked at Caleb, but although her body was tense, she had breathed a sigh of relief.

No one knew how hard it had been to conceal this matter for the past few years, and she was constantly worried that Caleb would ask about it.

And every time she asked, no one knew what it was like in her heart.

There was more between them than just that incident back then, there was something that happened two years ago. Emma was glad that there had been that incident between them two years ago.

Otherwise, what happened back then was lifted out, she would have nothing left in front of Caleb.

"Heh." Caleb snorted.

Emma felt her heart tightened at this.

"Without that incident back then, do you think you have a chance to be near me?"

His smile was sarcastic.

Obviously, Caleb was being sarcastic, if it wasn't for what happened back then, she wouldn't even have been qualified to save him two years ago.

This was the first time that Caleb had said such words to her in such a heavy tone.

At this moment, no one knew what was going on in Emma's heart, and that feeling was really hard to bear.

"You can't leave me alone." Emma only felt that she was really done.

If Caleb really didn't remember that incident from two years ago, then what the hell was she going to do?

"Actually, you knew about it a long time ago, didn't you?"

Emma looked at Caleb in agony.

In fact, last time when questioning her, Caleb knew about it, so did he know or not, who the person was that night?

Hopefully Caleb did not know.

But right now, looking at his attitude towards Alina, he should not know that the person from that night was Alina.

Emma had always known that the person from that night was Alina, and that night, she was pregnant with Caleb's child.

After that, she saw psychiatrists because of that incident.

At that time, her state was miserable. And she relied on imitating the misery Alina was in at that time, and eventually gained Caleb.

Caleb stare at her, causing Emma bow her head and no longer dare to say anything.

He must not know. If he knew, then he wouldn't have treated Alina like that.
