

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 265

Above the high stage, under the spotlight.

Her beauty displayed to the fullest, and her tiny size exudes endless confidence.

This is the position that Emma once had her heart set on, she said she had to be the most dazzling position for all the people in her hometown to see.

Let all those who once despised her family take a look at her.

And yet, her dream utterly shattered.

Alina and Chester in the middle of the crowd, and in that glance, in the man's eyes was a myriad of tenderness.

The kind of tenderness that seems to envelop her heart.

When the host asked for that most dazzling design of the night, Caleb just arrived.

Sitting in his wheelchair, the moment he looked at Alina, his eyes were full of fierceness.

Yet Alina's eyes, always on Chester's face, should have been evasive in their relationship, especially on such an occasion.

Alina said, "Actually, I feel that this time there has been a significant improvement."

"..."

"There is one person in particular that I would like to thank for this progress." When she spoke of this person again, Alina's tone trailed off.

She looked to Chester.

At this moment, all the people followed Alina's gaze and when they saw that she was looking at Chester.

In unison, they drew a breath of cold air, no one had expected that Alina would be so unavoidable to Chester at this time.

And Caleb's face had darkened to the core.

He did not expect that Alina would be so unconcerned and even so unapologetic. What was she up to?

The corners of Alina's mouth lifted into a smile amidst everyone's strange gazes.

She said, "I know that there are many friends in the audience who are curious about me, and even about the reports that were made some time ago."

"..."

"I am unlucky. Not everyone has the courage to say this or face this, and neither do I."

At this moment, Caleb's face had darkened, obviously not expecting Alina to mention this matter in front of the whole world.

As she said, many people wouldn't have had the courage to do this, and now, she did.

"But I'm lucky too."

All hearts followed her train of thought as if it were a roller coaster ride.

And then, she said, "Everyone does something which is full of their own feelings, and although I am unfortunate, my in-laws have become my backbone."

So, the Collins family, in fact, has always been on her side in this marriage of Alina?

"They gave me hope and showed me that women can have dreams no matter what time of year."

"..."

"And this piece that you all see you in tonight was designed with my big brother."

Big Brother?

Caleb's big brother.

The piece designed by Alina and Chester was projected on Alina's rear screen.

"The Collins family, before I came to this big show, was on my side, even though a lot had happened to me."

...

Alina was making a deep speech.

And this moment, all her words will be the logical route for her to take on the road ahead.

She is too cunning.

Everyone knows that the Collins family is on her side in this matter of divorce.

So now no matter what the reason for the divorce between Caleb and Alina was, in everyone's opinion, the problem must have been Caleb's.

Otherwise.

Why should even his own family members be on Alina?

There was fierceness in his eyes.

Meanwhile, photos of Emma dining with Alina at Werland Villa have now been reported from Ingford.

This had rattled the nerves of all the women, no matter what tricks Emma had used to get some of them on her side before, the support of Collins family and the reports of Emma dining with Alina at Werland Villa have led to people siding with Alina.

In the hotel.

"Ah!" Emma screamed hysterically, looking at the unpleasant comments.

So she got pinned down? No way to fight back?

Yes, that's what it felt like now, and now Alina had pushed her to such a point.

"Alina, go to hell." Emma was going crazy.

If Brodie had seen such a report, he would have decided that she would lose the lawsuit.

It is certain that he will approach Alina to discuss the matter of that evidence.

If that evidence was really in front of Alina, then the previous frame-up of the Cooper family would not be able to be concealed.

What will happen? Even Caleb, who has always supported me before, will probably side with Alina.

She knew that those two things were where the bottom line was that she was sorry for even in her life, and once those two things were tipped over the edge.

Then she would have nothing in the world and would lose everything as a result.

What to do?

The thought of it is driving Emma crazy.

...

Alina came down from the high stage, and Chester was standing at the bottom of the stage, elegantly extending his hand to her.

That broad palm gives a feeling of endless power in this moment.

Under the gaze of the crowd, Alina finally put her hand into Chester's hand, as if she had received an explanation for all her doubts at this moment.

"Chester is really warm."

There were young girls' voices ringing out while the old lady said with a smile, "Perhaps that's the boldest pursuit of all."

As Alina said on stage, what has happened in the meantime is something she doesn't quite dare to face.

Yet who on earth gave her the courage to face this?

"Sir." Tomas uttered from behind Caleb, and at this moment, everyone knew what Alina's choice was.

What is Caleb going to do?

"Tomas."

"Yes."

"I'll sue her for bigamy." Caleb was really angry. Who was this damn woman to accuse him?

Tomas froze at the words.

Sue Alina?

If that were the case, then things would be pushed even further to a point where it would be unmanageable.

And at this time Caleb could no longer care less.

Right now, he could not wait to strangle Alina.
