

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 287

Caleb is a man of his word but she didn't know whether to praise him or be sarcastic.

Preparations for his and Emma's wedding are already actively underway.

At this point, it was a delight for Emma.

Kara, "You made it."

"Yea."

Kara's eyes were disdainful. But in the end, she didn't show it.

It's not easy to marry into a wealthy family in such a way.

"Then what about my five hundred thousand?" Kara asked straightforwardly.

Since Emma is now temporarily over the hump, it would be better for her to hurry up and get her half a million back.

However Emma, "What's your hurry with this half a million? Now my account is not yet unlocked."

"Why isn't it untied yet? Isn't it all over?"

"Yeah, but now the property between Caleb and Alina is still being divided, and on my account, it basically all belongs to Alina."

When she heard this, she looked down on Emma in her heart.

All of them belonged to Alina?

If it were a normal person, she would probably be too embarrassed to say such things.

Although that would be humiliating for Emma, it's only this once.

After this, it will be a completely different story.

In the future, if she marries Caleb, then no one will dare to look down on her in Ingford.

"So you're now, with everything in your account being transferred?"

"Well, give her what she wants, I don't care after so many years of using it."

The house, the car and the money are all in the process of closing now.

Before, she was dead set on tugging at it all and wouldn't let go, but now it's different, now, Caleb is all hers.

She would have everything.

Kara, "Caleb's property is being divided with her? How much do you think is probably going to be given to her?"

Although Kara was very upset with Alina, she admired Alina's awesome tactics.

Many women in the middle of a rich family are unlikely to end up in a good place, many got nothing after the divorce.

While Alina took back all the property that her husband used on the mistress and divided the joint property with her husband.

"Half of it." Emma said.

But Caleb has a lot of fortune, even if he gave half of it to Alina, it would still be a drop in the bucket.

Having such a man around was enough for her.

Let Caleb worry about these matters later.

In the future, she will be able to rely on Caleb in name only.

.....

Kara is gone.

Emma looked at the relevant change information, especially when she saw that her car and flat were already in Alina's name, her eyes flashed with smugness, "That's all, heh."

This, compared to the position of Caleb's wife, is really nothing.

After taking these away, it is time for Alina to completely disappear from Caleb's world, and there will be no more relationship with him in the future.

When she thought this, Emma's heart was more pleased.

The phone flashed with Caleb's number and the man picked up, "Emma."

"At noon, let's dine together." She was still in the flat, and this time she was going to Werland Villa again, but in a different capacity than before.

She, for once, will be the master over there.

From now on, she will be the mistress of Werland Villa, the mistress in the eyes of Lois.

She has always remembered the looks given to her by Lois over the years, and she knows that in her eyes, Alina is the rightful master.

After coming out of Collin's house yesterday, she took the initiative to go back to her flat first, which was her last reserve around Caleb.

She was going to be just as proud as Alina to his side like that.

It's only been a week.

"I have another meeting and it's rather late after that, so you can eat something on your own first."

"Okay."

Emma is quite understanding.

At this time, Caleb is hers, and they will be together for life afterwards, so for now, she doesn't care.

She hung up the phone.

At that moment, there was endless smugness in her eyes.

After all this fuss for some days, finally, it was all coming to an end, and this was the moment she had been waiting for, albeit bitterly.

But at least it ended, didn't it?

"Finally, it's mine." She wanted to laugh.

All these years, she has been doing one thing, that is, taking everything that belongs to Alina.

Just the thought of her childhood posture as a high and mighty lady made her want to destroy all that she had.

Finally, it was ruined.

Emma has never been so happy.

Now, she's all relaxed and even enjoying herself.

The vibration of her mobile phone interrupted her thoughts and she picked up the phone and looked at it, it was Brodie's number.

When she saw the number, she was about to hang up, but after thinking of something, she finally picked it up freely.

"Hello."

She had a lot of smugness in her tone in this moment.

Before, because she almost had nothing, all these people were rushing to make her give everything, and now, she has everything.

On the other side of the phone, Brodie said, "Congratulations."

Emma sniffed and looked smugly at her newly done nails, they were beautiful and made her smile with satisfaction.

"I was meant to be in this position sooner or later, are you regretting it now?" Regret forcing her like that before.

Back then, these people really didn't think highly of her.

In fact, none of them owed anyone anything, and what was due to be settled that year was settled.

Now every single thing that Brodie asks of her is coercion.

It's okay, it's just a short period of patience, there's plenty of ways to deal with these people after this.

Emma thought this in her mind and felt slightly more comfortable.

"I want a million." Brodie didn't bother with her and got right to the point.