

I'm richer than my billionaire ex-husband novel

chapter 29

Caleb left Mulherd Manor and went straight to Nirvana.

Maddox Mason and others were already waiting there and watched Caleb sit down and drink half a bottle of wine, and several people looked at each other face to face.

Otto Sharp swayed his glass and looked deep into Caleb's eyes, "What? Your wife and mistress got into a fight?"

Apparently, these friends of Caleb's think that once Caleb and Emma are engaged, Alina will make a return.

They didn't expect her to return and now inherit all of the old Collins.

The old Collins handpicked her granddaughter-in-law, and regardless of Caleb's attitude in the marriage, he was always there for Alina.

It must be said that Alina has a certain place in the Collins family.

Even if she divorces, she will be a shadow in Emma's heart for the rest of her life.

Now these two are making more and more noise.

As soon as Otto's words left his mouth, Caleb drank the remaining half of the bottle, annoyed.

Maddox and Otto looked at each other, and finally Maddox stepped forward to take the empty bottle out of Caleb's hand.

"You can't drink like that."

But he didn't like Alina in the first place, so who cares who she's having an affair with? What's bothering him now is the mess in Ingford, right?

But, "She's really married to the president of Voyage International Group."

Caleb's face got colder at the mention of it, and Otto and Maddox both sensed that something was wrong with the atmosphere.

Caleb was so annoyed that just as Otto and Maddox were about to ask something else, Caleb tugged on the tie around his neck and got up.

Emma, who didn't know where she got the news that Caleb was here, suddenly came running over and now looked at Caleb accusingly.

"Caleb, Alina, how could she do this to me?" Emma's tone was so aggravated.

The few people gathered around were once again shocked by this scene of a mistress questioning someone's wife for not understanding her. How can such a person exist?

Alina, having prepared all the divorce documents, sent a message to Caleb, "Take the time to get the divorce done tomorrow."

Three years ago, if she hadn't left in such an extreme way, Alina thought, she would have been free by now.

This failed marriage has dragged on for so many years, and it's time to end it.

However, Caleb did not respond to any of the messages sent.

The phone vibrates and she thinks it's Caleb finally returning the message, but instead it's Brandon calling.

"Don't forget about the show over at Oklens, your work has been sent over there."

Oklens?

"Okay, I got it."

If Brandon didn't remind her, she almost forgot about it.

Right now, all of Grandma's business is going through the process, she can't directly leave Ingford, but regular business trips are still possible.

Just as she was about to hang up, she heard Brandon on the other end of the line ask, "How are you doing?"

"Well, I am fine."

In fact, Brandon probably already knows about her situation. She came back for a short time, but a lot of things have been made a big deal over here.

Brandon spoke up, "It's better to have less involvement between you and him."

"Back then, it was all a lesson in blood."

Alina's face stiffened as some bad memories crowded into her mind, as Brandon was reminded at the moment, it was a lesson in blood.

She took a deep breath and said to the other side of the phone, "Don't worry, I know what to do."

Alina hung up the phone and looked at her calendar. There were only a few days left before the Oklens competition, and her work had already been sent over.

However, it is still important to prepare some details for unexpected situations at the show.
