

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 298

Originally, it was thought that as soon as the divorce was finalised, so would be the end of the farce between these two.

Who would have thought that now even if Alina and Caleb divorced, and even took back all that on Emma.

It's not even over yet.

At the breakfast table.

Emma looked at Caleb's sullen face, wanted to say something, moved her lips, in the end did not dare to continue to say.

"Caleb." The moment Caleb got up, Emma finally spoke.

Caleb, "The day after tomorrow is the wedding, you take some rest in the next two days and get ready to be in good shape."

The man gave her a look of indifference.

If it was before, naturally, Emma would have liked to hear Caleb say such things to her, but it was different now.

After all, Caleb's attitude became this since he came out from Collins Castle.

She still didn't know what had happened between Caleb and Alina.

So it was always assumed that something was wrong on Collins Castle.

Caleb got up and walked away.

Emma subconsciously looked at Lois.

And Lois, who had never been very nice to Emma before, has changed her attitude towards her after last night.

At this moment, she looked at the aggression in Emma's eyes and said soothingly, "He used to have the same attitude when Miss Hughes was here."

"Okay."

Emma nodded, hearing this with a slightly more comfortable heart.

But as soon as she thought that it might be because of something wrong at Collins Castle, she couldn't help but look at Lois, "Could it be that Vanessa has said something? Caleb wasn't like this before."

Although it was cold before.

But now it's not as simple as being cold compared to before.

Emma is really worried.

Lois, "Then should we go to Collins Castle?"

"Yes."

Both woman carried calculations flashing under their eyes.

No one knew that Lois, in the hall last night, had urgently taken Emma to her room when Lois saw the birthmark on Emma's back.

No one knows exactly what these two talked about in the room.

But after this, all night long, Lois had trouble sleeping, and in the morning she even got up and took care of Emma herself to get up and wash up.

The attitude is completely different from before.

Now, Emma says that when things have come to this point, the only way out for her is to marry Caleb.

And Lois was just frightened after hearing all that.

It was completely unexpected that so much had happened to Emma, and it was known that now it seems that apart from marrying Caleb, for Emma, there was really no way back.

"Then'll go with you to Collins Castle later."

"No need."

Emma shook her head.

After all, before, the relationship between her and Lois had been bad, and now if Lois was always looking after her, she was worried that those people would suspect something.

Although Lois's attitude towards her has now changed, this is not allowed to be known to outsiders.

"Okay then, be careful." Lois looked around and saw that the butler was outside, so she said reassuringly to Emma.

Emma nodded.

Vanessa knew exactly what Alina was doing now.

Therefore, she would like to ask about the current situation.

Alina had just returned, and before Vanessa could ask anything, Emma came.

Seeing Alina, she snored, "Hmph."

The tone was full of sarcasm, "What are you still doing here now? You and Caleb are already divorced."

"Even if they've divorced, she is your sister-in-law." Without waiting for Alina to say anything, Vanessa's voice rang out.

Although Vanessa had eased her relationship with Caleb, but she still disliked Emma.

So now, almost subconsciously, she walks towards Alina.

Because what happened last night, Emma thought that at least she had a backer, but seeing Vanessa, she felt she was wrong.

Although Lois had been in Collins Castle for many years, she was only a servant, yet Alina had been protected by Vanessa.

"Caleb and I are getting married, I know you don't accept it, but it's a fact that can no longer be changed."

Emma said with a deep breath.

"Married or not, you're just a mistress, you have nothing to do with our family."

Vanessa said in a serious tone.

Such seriousness and coldness even in this instant let Emma know what her identity really was.

She thought that once she marries Caleb, she can really be accepted by this group of people?

However, she was wrong after all.

Even by now, even if Alina and Caleb were really divorced. Even if she was really going to marry Caleb.

Yet now at this time, when Alina appeared with her in Collins Castle, it was still Alina who was being protected, not her Emma.

“What are you doing here?” Watching Emma’s face change, it was only then that Vanessa asked with a cold face.

She had only asked Alina to come over to Collins Castle, but how come this woman had come too?

Emma looked at Vanessa with all respect and pity in her eyes, obviously trying to get sympathy in this way.

However, she was wrong after all.

She hadn’t made much of an impression on this place to begin with, so how could the people here now give her any semblance of deference?

“I’m getting married the day after tomorrow, and I’m here not wanting to come and see you.”

At the breakfast table, apart from Vanessa and Julia, the others had not returned.

It is clear how little attention was really paid to this wedding.

So this Collins family didn’t even have her in the eyes, right?

It must be.

When she thought of this, Emma felt upset.

“If you’re done watching, go back.” After saying that, Vanessa pulled Alina’s hand and turned around, obviously not meaning to continue to take care of Emma.

And Emma just sat where she was, watching as Vanessa took Alina inside.

While she, who was about to become the daughter-in-law of this family, wasn’t even welcomed.

Naturally, she felt very uncomfortable in her heart.
