

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 304

"My grandmother's health has been bad all these years, this time it was with your help, do you know how I got through last time?"

Speaking of his grandmother, Stella was sadder.

People say that when families are in bad conditions, if there's a sick one in the family, it's simply going to be a bolt from the blue.

Even Stella, who had a job, had been overwhelmed.

In fact, her achievements over the years had not been small, yet because her grandmother's health was hospitalised at any time, she had almost no savings.

As for the last time when her life was in danger, at that time, Stella had only just come out of university, had no job and no place to live.

Faced with a half million surgery bill, she had a hard time.

"I just don't want to drag him down."

The more Stella said, the more emotional she became.

Was she wrong?

He was like the star in the sky, while she was like the mud that was tired by all things.

In fact, it was the best thing for him to leave at that time, so she pushed him away. Had she really been wrong?

"Stella." Alina looked at Stella.

From these few words, Alina could hear the scars of her hurt.

"Alina, it's not that I don't have a good birth, I do. But I'm not as lucky as you to have good parents."

In speaking of this, Stella's tone was even more painful.

How tumultuous her world had really been all these years, and she had been trying her best to hold on, only this effort was being battered at all times.

"My father died in his early years, my mother married along with my father's estate and had children of her own, and I..."

“.....”

“Her husband does not accept me.” When she said this, Stella even painfully paused in her tone.

As if recalling some horrible nightmare, her body was trembling.

Presumably, it was only when she was drunk afterwards that she would say it in front of Alina, right?

Alina, “Alright, don’t feel bad.”

Alina patted Stella soothingly.

She didn’t expect Stella’s world to be in such turmoil, and especially after hearing about her mother, Alina had so much anger in her heart.

In her opinion, Stella’s mother was really heartless, how could she not want her own child?

“My father’s estate was all hijacked by that person.” Stella said.

So now even for her grandmother’s treatment, her mother wouldn’t even take a penny out, and she hated it.

She had grown up with her grandmother since she was a child.

“Then you don’t plan to sue them?”

Alina said.

“Five years ago, there was such a big fuss, yet in the middle of the investigation, things were left untouched.” As she said this, Stella’s tone was filled with even more hate.

And Alina was shocked.

She could guess what kind of digression had happened.

Stella’s mother had used money to set everything right.

This was the most terrifying part.

When things had come to this point, Alina wanted to say something, yet at this time, she didn’t know what to say.

She only felt that Stella’s life was too pitiful.

“So you’re now...”

“He’s engaged.”

“To the daughter born to that woman.”

Although Stella never mentioned anyone’s name from the beginning to the end, but Alina still sorted out this relationship.

It was the man she had pushed away due to hardship back then, who was engaged to her mother and another man’s daughter out of revenge?

“He did it on purpose?” Although the answer was in her mind, she still asked in disbelief.

And Stella was silent.

Alina in this instant understood.

“Maybe things aren’t what you think they are, could it be a coincidence?”

“She came to see me.”

“Who?”

Alina didn’t understand for a moment who exactly Stella was talking about.

The sorrow that was already under Stella’s eyes was thicker at this moment, and the moment he looked at Alina, the pain that was already heavy.

At this moment, when she opened her mouth, her lips could not help but tremble.

“That woman.”

The one who made Stella not even want to mention her name now was probably the daughter her mother had with another man, apart from her mother who had left her behind and even kicked her grandmother out of the house with her.

“What was said?” Alina asked in a tight tone.

Originally, the term parents had been a beautiful word in her heart, and now it was causing Stella such pain.

She wanted to see what kind of father and daughter there could be in this world, if they were really the ones who drove their children to desperate times.

And in talking about what that woman had said, under Stella’s eyes, there was sarcasm and pain.

She said, "She told me to stay away from him, that my status is not worthy of him."

So, all of Stella's father's assets was taken away by him, and now she came to talk to Stella about status?

Alina was already angry at such a mother, and now when she heard Stella say such things, her heart couldn't help but heave even more.

She said, "They all rely on your father's assets to get ahead."

Alina is right.

Stella looked at Alina, the sorrow at her eyes, tumbling thickly, eventually turning all into hatred.

All these years, no matter how hard it was, she didn't want to see that woman, so even if her grandmother's illness drove herself into a desperate situation.

She hadn't thought of going to that woman, or even of snatching all of that back.

Her hatred for that woman was overwhelming.

"Stella, before you didn't face them, it was because you were all at peace with yourselves, now it's different." Before, whether she was at peace or not, but at least, before she had met the gang, the hatred in her heart had always been buried deep in her heart.

And now, it wasn't the same.

Now, the gang was bullying.

Probably still don't know exactly how they came by those things, do they? Talking to Stella about status and identity and being worthy or unworthy?

Were they worthy of talking about this?

Stella looked at Alina and did not say anything for a long, long time, but did not know what to say.

Finally, after taking a deep breath, Stella said, "You're right, it's completely different now."

So, she was going to stand up.

"Grandma has never had a good time with me all these years, and it's time for us to go home."

At this moment, it was as if Stella had made a very big decision, she said in a decisive manner.

Alina smiled.

“It’s only right for you to think like this.” Alina said in a tone that was full of relief.

If this was the previous Alina, when she encountered such a thing, she would have persuaded Stella to back off, not wanting to have more involvement.

But now, she knows that the more you back off, the more those people will be on top.
