

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 86

And because of that show of hers, the designers who came to the show that day brought works that were screened at every level.

Also, those people knew what the show was like, and there was no hullabaloo like Alina's.

Alina's appearance was an accident and a revenge.

"You think I'm wrong to hate her, but everything I have..." Emma said, her tone choked with tears.

"How can I not hate her?"

That show was her best chance.

As long as that show is successful, what's the Oklens 10-year show? Originally that show was also a preparation for the Oklens competition.

That show was already a failure, and there's actually not much hope for the Oklens competition, is there? So how can he blame this on her now?

Alina is back at Mulherd Manor, and unlike Emma, she is now fresh after all that she has done.

She just feels a lot more relaxed in my heart.

"Brandon, what's up?" Receiving Brandon's call, Alina put her bag down.

Brandon on the other side of the phone said, "Did Tomas just call me?"

Alina froze.

Caleb is a vengeful man, and Tomas is Caleb's man, so what was the call to Brandon for?

"What did he say?"

"Let me make a trip back to Ingford."

"Don't come back, he's been biting people like a mad dog lately." Alina said without thinking.

At this time, she does not want Brandon to come back, if something happens, she is going to go crazy.

Brandon on the other side of the phone laughed.

"You're worried about me?"

"I'm telling the truth." Just kidding, things are at a critical stage on her side right now too.

Brandon is also very busy now, where there is time to come back to deal with Caleb ?

Caleb has a hot temper, fights with Andre again and again, but thanks to Andre's good skills, or he is going to be crippled.

How could Brandon come back and take a risk on such a vicious man, who is better to stay away from?

If Brandon is injured, who's going to do her job with this pile of work?

"Okay, be careful then." Brandon said in an explanatory manner.

"I know."

If Brandon doesn't come back, there's no guarantee that Caleb will pin everything on her, and she doesn't care.

Anyway, now they are now considered to be completely fallen out. She did not do anything unethical, so she has nothing to be afraid of.

Alina is starting to prepare related things, after all, it is about to have her own brand, after which her career will reach a higher level.

She has been busy for a full day, worked overtime and slept late. The next morning, Alina originally wanted to sleep longer.

But, at six o'clock, the phone vibrated and woke her up, "Hello."

"Come down."

A man's serious voice came from the other side of the phone.

When she heard it was Caleb, Alina's anger was instantly overwhelmed, "Are you nuts?"

It's still dawn outside, so where is she going?

"It's time for a meeting."

"What the hell?"

Apparently, Alina didn't come back to her sense.

"The board meeting is at 7,30, and you have ten minutes to get up."

It was several seconds before she snapped out of it, "The board meeting?"

"Need I remind you, the AIG's largest shareholder?"

Alina thought this sounded so ironic.

But now there was no time to argue with him, and finally Alina got up from the bed with reluctance.

Although Caleb had given her a time limit, she dawdled for half an hour.

In the car, Alina said with anger, "As the president of the company, don't I have the right to say I won't go to the meeting?"

Suddenly she regretted receiving that shareholder document.

The man's slender fingers tapped on his notebook, and he raised his eyebrows. Even in the morning, he looked spirited.

Alina remembered that he usually slept late at night, so how in the world did he manage to be spirited?

Caleb, "At least right now you don't have the right."

"Why?"

"It's such a big deal that the company changed its chairman, and you're slacking off now at this time?"

Alina, "Why do I get the feeling that you're just tossing me around on purpose?"

What just changed the chairman?

He didn't have meetings every day at that time, did he?

How come she doesn't have the right to be lazy?

Caleb looked at her, the seriousness in his eyes growing, "You're not tossing me around too."

Alina's mind was not very clear this morning, and now when Caleb said this, Alina was confused.

This man is deliberately tossed her.

The more she thinks about it, the more angry as she stares at him.

"Caleb, wait and see." Finally, she couldn't take it anymore and dropped the harsh words.

Only when Alina is so unclear can she say such things, if she is sober, Caleb will be pissed off by her words.

Caleb laughed at her tiger-like appearance.

Reaching out, he dotingly rubbed her head, "Not well behaved at all."

The previous Alina was really well behaved and never got into trouble.

Now she always makes a big deal.

"Emma is well behaved." Alina said without good grace.

When Caleb said that, she also felt that she was really well behaved in the past.

That's why it gives the man the illusion that he can just hurt her.

But now, not anymore.

When Emma was mentioned, Caleb's face sank, "Enough."

"What are you talking about?"

Caleb's face got worse and worse.

Yesterday Emma cried a lot in the office, and at first he wasn't quite sure what was going on, but then Tomas said that Emma had heard all those words of Otto.

"Did you say those things to her too?"

Alina's mind was becoming clearer now, so she understood what Caleb was saying at once.

"Yes."
