

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 90

AIG downstairs was full of reporters.

This is the center of Ingford's landmarks and is very crowded, and Alina was already crowded when she drove out.

Alina drove away indifferently.

In the car, Andre's phone call came in, "Hello."

"Emma is trying to force Caleb to marry her?" Andre from Shirling saw it live.

Alina, "She is good, huh?"

"You can still sound so relaxed with this tone? This should have some impact on your side if it gets too big, I'll arrange to take care of it."

"Go ahead, make as much noise as you can, I'd really like her to die." Alina's tone was harsh.

Andre froze at that, because he had never heard Alina sound like that before.

"What happened over there?"

Alina is an active personality, will not be easy to hold a grudge, so she never take revenge on Caleb since she went back to Ingford.

Obviously, now that she would have such a ruthless tone, something must have happened before this.

Alina pulled over and closed her eyes, "Emma probably knew I was Caleb's wife three years ago."

"What do you mean?"

"Could that illness have been premeditated as well?" Alina asked.

Cold sweat broke out down her spine as she thought about it.

If there was something wrong with that illness, then Emma's plan for her must have been premeditated.

Once, Emma stole those things from her, works or the quota.

But three years ago, she was pregnant, and Emma was trying to steal her husband from her.

"You mean that her illness could be a fake?" Andre was shocked.

Alina, "If she knew what was going on between Caleb and me, and what she's going on with Caleb now, there's really no telling."

Emma would have done anything, and in that case, it's really possible.

"I'll have someone look into it." Andre's tone cooled.

If it was Emma tricks on Alina, then it was intolerable.

No one knows how bad was Alina's health when she returned to Shirling three years ago, when she was close to giving birth.

However, she choked too much and both she and the fetus in her belly were in danger of losing their lives.

Grandpa looked more than ten years older on the night she was born prematurely.

After the baby was born, because it was premature, it is always under the danger, so Megan has been worried about her health

If it's true that it's only because of Emma's calculations, then, it's unforgivable.

"Check it out." Alina's tone was cold.

Her eyes were even sharper.

Without waiting for Andre to say anything, Alina said, "About Grandma, I suspect..."

Alina couldn't help but feel a chill down her spine.

"You mean, it might have something to do with Emma, too?"

"I do hope it has nothing to do with her." But things, after all, have to be checked out.

That mysterious phone call so far has not been traced to where it came from.

But grandmother's death, indeed, has a problem, which the hospital admitted and were cooperating with the investigation.

But it's too slow.

Alina can't wait that long.

"How much do you have against Emma at that time?"

Alina, "No grudge, but everything she did during this time made it easy for me to associate everything with her."

With all that Emma had done to her during this time, it was natural for Alina to relate everything that Emma had done.

The illness, probably calculated, involved the child, she could not bear with it.

If her Grandma's death is really related to Emma, she is vicious in nature.

"Got it, I'll have someone check it out for you." Andre said.

Alina felt her heart choking.

"In that case, Emma is not simple, you should be careful." Andre said.

Alina, "I know."

If it's true that all this is related to Emma, then she would take revenge.

Andre hung up the phone.

Alina sat in place, watching the people outside all heading towards the AIG building.

Alina's mind was filled with the mysterious phone call, after which she set out to get Ingford's side of the story about her grandmother.

The hospital got confirmation that there is indeed a problem.

No one had been found until now, so since the other party knew something was wrong with Grandma's death, so does he know the reason for this?

The ambulance, whistling past, went straight towards that AIG building.

Alina's eyes were even colder.

Eventually, she drove back to Mulherd Manor and saw the Collins Castle's car when she got to the entrance of the yard.

She walked in.

Lucy was waiting at the door, "Lady Alina, you're back."

"Who's here?"

"It's Mrs. Collins."

At this time, Mrs. Collins came directly to Mulherd Manor, and Alina thought that it was the AIG that was causing the trouble.

Alina walked inside.

However, as she had just taken two steps, Lucy reminded her, "You don't look so good."

She never looked good.

Alina got in.

Mrs. Collins is drinking coffee, Lucy is good at making coffee, and it is rare that she has a satisfied look on her face.

When she saw Alina return, her brow furrowed and the seriousness in her eyes intensified.

Alina handed Lucy her bag and sat across Mrs. Collins, "What brings you here?"

"You have a lot of trouble with Emma?"

"I'm just defending my rights." Hearing the coldness in Vanessa's tone, Alina said in a formulaic voice.

Vanessa put on a smile.

This smile puzzled Alina.

Did she not come to get her in trouble? The mess today must have some effect on Caleb.

However, Alina was wrong.

Vanessa said, "Three years ago, you wouldn't have been pushed to that point if you had that kind of skill."

How come she sounds like satisfied?

Vanessa continued, "There's more than this, are you afraid?"

When she heard the word, Alina laughed, "Why should I be afraid?"
