

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 96

"I'm divorced from her! Don't do anything pointless in the future." Looking at Emma, Caleb became more and more annoyed.

Emma was innocent! Caleb had favoured Emma a lot of the time.

It was also because of his guilt towards her.

But he had always had a clear conscience when it came to the big issues.

And when Emma heard that Caleb had divorced Alina, her eyes instantly came to life.

She wanted to say something but swallowed the words that were on her lips.

Just wait!

As soon as their relationship was clear, things between her and Caleb couldn't be far behind.

The moment Caleb got up.

Emma said in a panic, "Don't blame me!"

Caleb, "....."

At those words, the chill in his body intensified.

There was no doubt that Emma was admitting it!

Emma was not stupid, everything she had done during this time had been carefully planned, she just didn't expect it to turn out this way.

It was a good sign that Alina had a huge background behind her.

If there was really no background at all, then there was no way things could have turned around like this!

Feeling the chill in Caleb's body, Emma said, "That night changed my whole future, I can't even be a mother anymore, and now I don't even have a future."

Emma said in a somewhat sad tone.

Caleb, "....."

It's not a big deal for a woman to say she has no future, after all, there are plenty of women relying on men

But if she could not be a mother, then she would lose a lot of opportunities in life.

So it was understandable that Emma had been so active since Alina's return.

"Emma, I had said I'd make good arrangements for you! And you're still too sensitive, you shouldn't target her!"

Caleb said the last few words with such emphasis.

Even though he had taken Emma's side time and time again before, it was Caleb's sober rebuke when it came to this moment.

Hearing Caleb's heavy tone of voice, Emma felt her heart being plucked out of her chest.

"I won't do it again!"

After all, Caleb and Alina were divorced now, and of course wanted things to be quiet this time!

But Alina was that kind of person.

Emma has made such a big mess, and still wants to be safe, which really is too naive.

Outside, there was a lot of buzz.

There was a lot of sympathy for Emma and then there were all sorts of targeting of Alina.

She didn't deserve to be in that position, but Alina was back at Mulherd Manor in a good mood.

When Andre called, Alina's light-hearted tone was heard on the other end of the line, "It's rare that you're in such a good mood!"

"Yeah!"

"Oh?"

"I finally got rid of the mad dog!" Alina said in a very light and cheerful tone.

After all, this was a very serious matter for her.

"Divorced?" The man on the other end of the line instantly energized.

Alina, "Uh-huh!"

Finally, the divorce was finished.

It hurt! But after she had calmed down, even the fact that Caleb was on her spouse's list made Alina feel sick.

"Good."

Apparently, Andre also thought that Alina and Caleb were hurting Alina by getting together.

But there was no need to think about it now.

It's good to get divorced!

"I'm in touch with Jay and he will take care of it, you send me a picture of the divorce papers!"

"Okay."

Alina hung up the phone.

Then she took a picture of her divorce papers and sent it to Andre.

It was good for her to get divorced, but with all the buzz out there, she wasn't stupid, she had to move on with her life.

Her reputation was not to be hurt by anyone.

Besides, Emma and Caleb don't deserve to be kept quiet.

Alina sent a message to Stella, who has been in the business for years and was not in a hurry to see what was going on.

She knew exactly how to turn it around and was waiting for Alina's information.

It was a shame that Stella didn't work in PR department, for she had such a clear mind.

The next day!

Ingford was in a uproar.

The day before, Alina had been called out on her shit, and the next morning, things were completely flipped.

Alina's personal account was screenshotted and a comment was instantly trending, 'Pain is in past! The future is ahead!'

In a few simple words, she clearly explained her past and her attitude towards the future, accompanied by a picture of a divorce certificate!

Emma jumped off a building, and the next she broke the news of her divorce?

So, what was the real reason for Emma's jump?

And even at this time, eF had posted that 'the president has declined to invite Joslan Hughes to join the team.'

Alina's PR team also issued a statement saying, 'Joslan Hughes' brand is in the pipeline'!

They had even sent out a registered trademark for the design, an orchid, which looked elegant and beautiful.

That means that Joslan Hughes has not thought about being involved in anyone's business since the Decade.

She got divorce and set up her brand..

So all the reports of yesterday were overturned in an instant!

Caleb was woken up by a phone call from Tomas, who said in a gruff voice, "Things are not going well with Miss Bell."

"What's wrong?"

Caleb's tone was a hazy, obviously not totally awake.

He'd been busy before the Oklens Fashion Show, and he'd had so much going on since he'd returned that he'd managed to get it all done yesterday.

He tthought he'd get a good break!

"Check your phone." After that, Tomas hung up and sent numerous screenshots to Caleb.

The first of which was a screenshot of Alina's Facebook page.

Caleb was instantly awake, his eyes flashing with anger.

"Alina!" The divorce was a big deal to her? How could the whole world know about it?

But as soon as he saw the reports below, Caleb realised that this was Alina's response to the reports yesterday.

“That sly woman!” Annoyed, he lifted the covers and looked furious.

He knew it wasn't that simple when she'd insisted on a divorce yesterday at such a critical juncture, that she'd never wanted to rely on him for anything.
