

I'm Richer Than My Billionaire Ex-husband Chapter 98

Alina was in a daze.

When she heard Penny's words, she instantly woke up and bounced out of bed, "Where will you be picked up?"

Her child wasn't even in school right now, so how could she possibly to pick her up now?

The next moment, the child on the other side of the phone spat out, "The airport!"

Alina drew a breath.

"Which airport?"

"Ingford."

Alina, "....." Instantly, her eyes went black.

It must be wrong, it must be wrong, she must have heard wrong.

However, no matter how confused she was, she had now jumped out of bed, "Wait for me over there!"

Her heart was in her throat, and she didn't dare hang up the phone.

She was so confused now that she didn't know what to think, how a two-year-old child come?

No matter how she got here, there was now a knowledge in her mind that this child cannot come to Ingford wow!

Really, she was crazy.

She didn't even have time to change out of her nightgown, so she ran downstairs in her halter top, and Lucy was shocked when she saw Alina.

There was a shock in her eyes, "Lady Alina, what are you doing?"

What's the rush, with her hair in disarray and no time to change her clothes?

But Alina couldn't answer.

All her attention was on the phone.

She was dressed like this and ran out the door.

Lucy, “.....”

Caleb got out of the car and saw Alina running out the door like a maniac!

The nightgown that almost reached her legs, the way her legs swayed, it made his blood boil.

She was going out in this outfit?

“Alina!” came Caleb’s voice, holding back his anger, just as Alina was about to pull the door open.

It was a gritty voice.

Alina stiffened at the sound of Caleb’s voice.

The call on the phone was still going on.

Looking at Caleb walking towards her, Alina was at a lost!

Her brain was jammed!

She looked at her phone before speaking, “I don’t care what’s important to you, I’m not available right now!”

Then she pulled open the car door to get in.

The next moment there was a force at the back of her head, a man had pinched her neck, and a sinister voice came from above her head, “Where are you going?”

“None of your business!”

“You’re just going out like that?”

“None of your business!”

Alina couldn’t care less what she was wearing now, her two-year-old child had arrived at Ingford Airport, she would have rush there even if she had naked.

In the intervening time, Lucy had already brought out Alina’s clothes and shoes.

“Lady Alina, put them on!”

Alina broke away Caleb’s hand, put on her coat haphazardly and ignored Caleb’s dark face.

She got into the car and left.

The car rushed out like an arrow, Caleb was stunned.

What was this woman up to again? In such a hurry!

Tomas had already gotten out and stood by.

He looked at Caleb apprehensively, having seen everything that had just happened.

Something had happened to Alina, otherwise she wouldn't have been in such a hurry.

"See?" Caleb spoke, his tone all gloomy.

Tomas nodded, "Yes!"

Caleb, "Have someone watch her and see what she's up to."

This Ingford was messy enough, but this storm was all because of Alina, so this was no time for anything else to go wrong.

"Yes."

Tomas nodded. He knew that Caleb was upset at the moment, even though there was nothing going on at the company and they were still working together.

But the Collins family has always been a family-oriented place, and if this gets too big, it's going to be even more annoying in the future.

The Collins family has always been a family-oriented place, and if this gets too big, it will be even more annoying in the future.

Especially Emma!

Tomas picked up Caleb yesterday and naturally knew that they were now divorced, so as Caleb's special assistant, it was only natural to assume that he would marry Emma.

For three years!

There hadn't been any action because Alina was still alive, even though she had been forced out in that way.

But it's over, after all this time, and they're still not together.

The airport!

Alina's heart was still beating like a madman the moment she picked Penny up from the stewardess.

No one really came over there.

It was at this point that Alina hung up on the flight attendant, "Thank you so much."

Flight attendant, "You're welcome, Penny is a good girl and didn't make a fuss the whole way."

"How did she get on the plane?"

This was Alina's main concern now, how did this child get on the plane when there was no one else around?

The stewardess said with a smile, "It's online childcare."

Online?

Alina subconsciously looked at the child in her arms, but finally nodded politely in front of the stewardess without asking any questions, "Thank you very much."

Alina's heart was beating wildly

It was a good thing her child was okay! There are so many things that can happen on the way!

After thanking the flight attendant, Alina turned around with the child in her arms.

She was the only one in the airport who's getting the most attention right now, and even though she was wearing a jacket, she looked like a crazy person.

"Penny !" Alina's voice was serious.

The child put her head in her arms, and the way she pampered her made Alina say no more words of reproach.

Don't laugh at a child, and she'll teach you what it means to be a kid who can do anything.

She called Andre, it was still early in the morning because of the time difference, when he found out that Penny was with Alina, Andre said, "Are you awake?"

Alina, "You don't know the child's missing?" At that moment, she was holding back her anger.

The person on the other end of the line was instantly awake.

"What the hell?"

"I said, the child's in Ingford, I just got her!"

“That’s not possible.”

“Andre!” Alina’s tone was more serious and the caller was completely incoherent, “What!”

It’s impossible.
