

Immaculate Spirit

Chapter 79

Nathaniel could have stopped her multiple times when she was closing in on him but he did not. Even he was not sure why at that moment. Maybe it was because his emotional state was in turmoil after what happened last night and he wanted some affection. Maybe it was because he really liked her, but most likely it was the both combined.

At first he did not do anything as he was too surprised to react but her passion soon got him moving along and he began responding to it. Putting his hands on her hips, he started taking her to him while she was putting her arms on each side of his head. The kiss began to deepen when Nathaniel's brain started to work again and he separated with her.

"Madie, stop... we need to talk about this." Nathaniel said, taking her shoulder and keeping her at arms length.

"No, we really do not. I want you and I know you want me so what is there to talk about?" She asked with a hungry look in her eyes.

"But... I worked out earlier and I'm still smelly."

"You smell great Nath so if that's all, kiss me again please."

"No, I want the answer to an important question first."

"What is it?" She asked, calming a little when hearing him saying something so serious.

"Do you like pizza?" He asked seriously.

"What?" Madison asked dumbfounded.

"Pizza, do you like them?"

"Yes, of course I do. My favorite is the one with pineapple."

Hearing that, Nathaniel seemed to ponder her words, his face contorted in a grimace until he finally told his opinion on the matter.

"I can work with that." He decided, taking her hips in his hand he threw her on his bed and a second later he was on her, his mouth on hers.

An hour and a half of making out session later, they had finally left his bed. Madison was busy fixing the position of her dress and her hair while Nathaniel was putting on jeans and a shirt. The show was not lost on Madison who was looking at him still with hungry eyes. Their making out session did nothing to calm her, on the contrary. They had kissed until Nathaniel ended up shirtless beneath her and the top of her dress came undone, showing her lacy red bra when he had finally put a stop to it. The two of them breathless and hot.

Even if she was frustrated by this outcome, she could see that it was for the better. With his mothers on the other side of the wall, she would have to stop thinking about continuing further than that eventually. Normally she was not that forward but with Nathaniel it was completely out of her control. He had a magnetism and even a scent that drove her crazy and even now she had to stop herself from tearing his clothes off. She was used of her boyfriend having that feeling but now that the roles were reversed she was lost in what to do.

Once Nathaniel was dressed, he was hugged by Madison at once which made him smile.

"I don't want to leave." She confessed in a small voice.

"I don't want you to leave too but this is for the better. Come on, I'm escorting you home." He comforted her.

"Really?"

"Of course, let's get going. We need to face the music now." He said.

Disentangling himself from her and opening the door of his room, he exited it, Madison quickly following behind. His two mothers were sitting on the couch and were watching a movie when they saw them leaving the room. Looking at each other smiling, they got up from the couch and made a show of looking at both of them with rapt attention.

"We behaved ourselves moms." He said right out of the bat. Looking at their smile, he knew he had made a mistake.

"Really sweetie? Then why are both of you blushing? I can not help to notice that the hair of Madison is quite disheveled as well." Mary said.

"You also have lipstick on your mouth and neck and I believe the mark of a bite on the right side. Well, I didn't take you as a biter Madison." Karine continued.

At that point Madison wanted nothing more than to be swallowed into the ground and Nathaniel was blushing so fiercely that he was ready to catch fire at any moment. Taking Madisons hand in his, he started dragging her across the penthouse until they were leaving it. Just before the door closed, he shouted back at them.

"I'm going to escort Madison back home, I'm coming right back after that, bye moms."

After that, he kept running with her until they were out of the building both of them laughing. They were walking on the street hand in hand for a moment before Madison started speaking again.

"I understand where you picked up your playful nature from, your moms are quite something. I also understand why you are so respectful when you look at me and my sorority sisters. Your mothers are completely gorgeous."

"That they are but do not be fooled, they are sweet in private but they are beasts when working. They both have quite a reputation in their workplace."

They kept talking with each other, ignoring everything else as they were lost in their own little world until they ended up in front of the sorority house where the party was still raging. Even Nathaniel who had a keen awareness of his surroundings was surprised to be here that early. He knew it was a twenty minutes walk and for him only fives minutes had passed since leaving his home.

"Are you sure you do not want to come into my room?" Madison asked another time, putting her arms around his head.

"You know I want to but not yet." He said kissing her which she respond happily, kissing him back.

"How can you be so good at kissing, you are supposed to be inexperienced in this." She sighed dreamily.

Nathaniel did not respond at that and just smiled at her. In fact he was doing his utmost to hide how skilled he was at kissing because it would cause her to second guess him. Looking behind her, he could see that their arrival had gathered a few stares, two of which were the best friends of Madison, Hayley and Emma.

"I believe you are going to need to explain yourself Madie." He said, designating her friends with a move of his head.

"I believe you are right. Stay with me and I will make it worth your while." She said a last time, with a big smile.

"I will not fall for your trick little devil. Go see your sisters and tell them all of what we did tonight, make them jealous." He said, kissing her again.

"You know I will." She added, kissing him a few times more.

"Goodnight my little devil, sleep well." Nathaniel ended with a peck on her forehead.

Coming home, he was welcomed by his two mothers who were waiting beside the door. Seeing their curious and excited face, Nathaniel could not restrain a laugh from coming out of his mouth. Sitting on his piano chair, he made a hand movement to get his mothers to start asking the question that they wanted to ask.

"It was the Madison who had given you her number on the back of the flyer right?"

"Wow she is so pretty, she could be a model."

"Yes this is that Madison and yes she's gorgeous. She did some modeling as a matter of fact."

"I'm not really surprised. So sorority girl hum? I told you so." Karine said happily.

Nathaniel could only shake his head. He knew that 'told you so' was going to be brought up in this conversation.
