

Immaculate Spirit

Chapter 82

New York, Columbia University. 13/10/2012. 15:00.

Nathaniel was leaving his class in constitutional law when he noticed that two cute looking girls were waiting for him in the doorway. They were both smart looking with a hint of girl next door kind of look. Both of them had brown hair, were around 5'6" and had shy expressions on their face while waiting for him which made him smile. The one on the left was wearing glasses while the one on the right, the shyer of the two, was not even looking at him.

Leaving the classroom, he was quickly accosted by the two girls.

"Hi, I'm Charlotte and my friend here is Allison." The one wearing the glasses said as an introduction.

"Hi, I'm Nathaniel, glad to meet you both." He said, smiling.

"Yes, we know! I'm sorry to bother you but we are forming a study group with a few friends and we wanted to know if you were willing to join too."

"Well, I'm flattered but why me?" He asked, curious.

"That's an easy one, you are the more than... euh I mean you are the smarter student here." She corrected herself just in time, blushing a little. "That does not mean we are only going to use you to advance but it is to help each other on various topics. This is not one sided."

"That sounds good. How many people are in your study group so far?"

"So far we are four, five if you decide to join and if you decide against it, we will stay four. We do not offer just anyone to join and we feel that your character could fit right in with us."

"I can understand that, how many times you meet in a week?"

"Usually monday and thursday with an additional meeting on saturday when there is an exam period. So, do you want to join?"

"I don't know ladies, what about this. Give me the time and address of your future meeting and I will come. We will see after that if we can work together." He offered.

"That would be great! To be honest, that was what I had in mind. Do you have an email address?" Charlotte asked.

"Of course, do you have a pen?"

She turned out to have one and a few minutes later the two girls were leaving with a smile and a slightly happy gait with the email of Nathaniel. Shaking his head, he was going to exit the campus as it was his last class of the day when a voice echoed behind him.

"Well well well, I see that you keep yourself busy Lyndon." An enchanting feminine voice said, making him flash a broad smile.

Turning around, he could see Madison there, with her hands on her hips, looking at him sternly but the hint of playfulness could clearly be found in her eyes and her voice. She was flanked on each sides by her two sorority sisters Emma and Hayley who were smirking at him. Nathaniel did not even want to think about what Madison could have said to them to make this smirk appear.

"I'm sorry, are you lost? This building is teaching law, not marketing." He answered in the same tone, walking toward them.

When Nathaniel was at arm lengths with Madison, she suddenly smiled beautifully and put her arms on his shoulder. After that the two of them started kissing in front of everyone walking in the hallway, lost in their own little world. The kiss at one point began to deepen and they finally stopped when Emma and Hayley were coughing so hard Nathaniel was worried that they would lose a lung.

"Hi handsome." Madison said breathlessly.

"Hi little devil." He smiled, a hint of desire could be found in his blue eyes.

"You are not going to give me a hello kiss too Nathaniel?" Emma's voice chimed in.

The intervention made them both laugh subconsciously and they disentangle from each other. Nathaniel realized that even if Emma was kind of naughty she was also funny to be around. She had no filter in her speech and it was always interesting when seeing her interacting with others.

"Of course I'm going to kiss you Emma." Nathaniel said, approaching and kissing her cheek. He did the same thing to Hayley. "Hello to you too Hayley."

"Hi Nathaniel, how are you?" Hayley asked.

"I'm good, and you?"

"The same, what's up with the two cuties whom you were talking to?"

"They wanted me to join their study group, I decide to give it a try." He explained.

"I'm sure they want to study with you alright." Emma chuckled.

"Be good Emma, it's not because you are naughty that all girls are too." Nathaniel rebuked her gently, taping her nose with his finger, making her two sisters laugh.

"Do you have class now?" Madison asked.

"No, I'm done for the day. I was going back home, why?"

"So young, so inexperienced..." Emma said with a sad expression.

"You are right about that Em, I don't know what young people learn these days." Hayley continued, shaking her head.

"Okay, what is going on here?" He asked with furrowed eyebrows.

"Nathaniel, when you have time off, you need to tell Madison about it so the two of you can enjoy each other." Hayley supplied.

"Oh. I see what you are saying now. Sorry Madie." He said with a apologetic expression on his face.

"I don't know if I can pardon you Nath." She said shaking her head with a smile on her face.

"I think I can convince you." Nathaniel said, taking her in his arms again and kissing her.

The kiss kept increasing in intensity until finally a minute later he let her go. Madison was now quite red in the face and it was obvious to everyone that she wanted to go again.

"Am I forgiven?"

"Yes... For this time yes but I will not be so lenient in the future." Madison said coming back out of it.

"We are not going to forgive you. You have to come with us to eat ice cream and we will hold a dating class 101 while we are at it. This kind of behavior can not be tolerated." Emma said with a righteous tone.

"Ok ok, I'll come Emma." He surrendered, trying not to laugh seeing the pleased expressions on the three girls faces. He knew it was what they wanted from the beginning and he did not have a problem with that.

"Is this a fuckg joke?" A voice exclaimed behind him.