

Chapter Seven

Yelena groaned as she rolled over, someone was hammering on the door to her room, but it honestly felt like they may as well have been hitting her round the head. Last night had been a hell of a lot of fun and Yelena had been glad to get the team to finally let loose a little, though maybe a few less shots of vodka and tequila would have been good.

"Alright alright!" Yelena complained as she pushed the sheets off herself and got up, "You can stop trying to break door down now, I'm coming."

The clock on the wall informed Yelena that it was only seven in the morning, which meant she had only been in bed for a couple of hours after having spent some time with Kate in her room when they'd first got back to the compound.

Crossing the room, Yelena pulled the door open with an irritated huff and was about to complain some more but came to an abrupt stop when she found Wanda stood there, looking like someone had run over a cute animal in front of her.

"Whose arse do I need to kick?" Yelena asked, "Vision's? Y/N's? Sharon's? All of above?"

Wanda didn't say anything as she walked in and climbed into Yelena's bed, pulling the sheets up over her head.

"Okay not ready to talk yet" Yelena nodded, "I'm going to grab a shower and give you some time and then we'll figure out whatever it is that has you hiding in my room at this unearthly hour."

She heard a muffled response from Wanda and accepted that as an agreement, before heading into the ensuite bathroom attached to her room. Thirty minutes later, Yelena had showered and gotten dressed before stepping back out into her bedroom, not to her surprise Wanda was still sat in her bed, the sheets wrapped around her.

"You are going to have to use words witchy, I don't have your mind reading abilities. What's happened?" Yelena asked as she looked over at Wanda.

Wanda took a deep breath as she hugged the sheets tighter around herself.

"I had really drunk sex with Y/N, in one of the offices, I didn't intend for it to happen. Really I had just been going to get a glass of water and I got a little lost and well I thought I would confront her about her issue with me and one thing sort of led to another and we kissed and stuff. But then Vision walked in on us because he thought we were arguing. So Y/N just ran off, without a word and I have no idea what it meant and now Vision is probably going to be weird. It's a total mess Yelena!" Wanda's words spilled out quickly as she recounted what had happened a couple of hours earlier that morning.

Yelena's mouth dropped in total shock as she walked across the room, she had definitely not expected Wanda to come out with all of that. She had expected it might have been something to do with Y/N but certainly not the pair of them having drunken sex, in one of the compound offices of all places.

"In an office? Which one? I need to make sure I don't use that one" Yelena exclaimed as she dropped down to sit beside Wanda on the bed.

"Lena, that's really the bit you're going to focus on right now" Wanda said throwing her hands up in the air.

"Okay, okay sorry yes that part isn't important" Yelena nodded, focusing back on what Wanda had said, "Well Vision will just have to get over it, I mean he shouldn't have been such a snoop. You two broke up ages ago now. As for Y/N, maybe this is a good thing? You know must mean she likes you on some sort of level. I mean she could have fooled us with how much of an arse she's been though."

Wanda slumped back against the pillows, this was a real mess and she had no idea how to sort it out.

"What if Y/N thinks what happened was a mistake? What if it was just the alcohol that had her making that choice?" Wanda sighed, running a hand through her hair, "Shit, and what about Sharon?! If she finds out then the whole situation is just going to get worse!"

Yelena reached out and placed a calming hand on Wanda's shoulder.

"Like you and Vision, Y/N and Sharon aren't together anymore and they're both adults who can make their own choices. Sure it's not an ideal situation having so many exes under one roof but Wanda if you really do like Y/N then you might have to accept that this is not going to be simple"

"Nothing ever is, is it when you're an Avenger?" Wanda frowned a little as she lent against Yelena.

"Want to run away to tropical island and enjoy retired life?" Yelena suggested with a chuckle, lightening the mood.

"Don't tempt me, I feel like I'm going to have to spend the day hiding from people" Wanda laughed a little.

"No no no, you are possibly the most powerful avenger Wanda Máximo, you are not going to hide. You can handle this" Yelena assured her.

Wanda knew that Yelena was right and that hiding wouldn't help solve anything, but the thought of going downstairs and having to face everyone right now filled her with dread. There was no way Vision wasn't going to have mentioned it to someone and things tended to spread like wildfire once one member of the team knew something.

As if to confirm that exact thought, Yelena's door burst open and Nat came rushing in along with Maria, looks of concern on both of their faces.

"Vision and Y/N are having some kind of disagreement, and when I say disagreement there is a lot of shouting and cursing coming from Y/N. I'm not sure I've ever seen Vision so angry either. Steve and Tony are trying to diffuse the situation but Wanda we might need you there in case Vision decides to try and blast Y/N's arse out of existence" Nat told the pair of them before gesturing for them to hurry up and come with her and Maria.

"Shit" Wanda cursed as she jumped up from Yelena's bed and followed after Nat.

**

All Y/N had wanted was to grab some coffee and then resume her work without having to interact with anyone, but that had been ruined when Vision had appeared in the kitchen and said he wanted to talk.

Y/N had tried to say she wasn't interested but Vision hadn't backed down, causing Y/N to well and truly lose her temper as he tried to lecture her on how unfair her treatment of Wanda had been, saying that Y/N had taken advantage of her, and that it would perhaps be best for her to leave the compound and return to the FBI headquarters.

"Go to hell robot boy" Y/N snarled, "Just because you're all hurt and upset about your ex screwed someone else, doesn't mean you can come and dump your relationship problems on me. Wanda was more than aware of what she was doing, I didn't take advantage of her at all."

Tony and Steve had arrived moments before and the pair of them had sensed the threat in the room, they both moved into positions that would allow them to get between Vision and Y/N if it reached that point.

"Maybe we should all just take a step back and talk this through when you're both calmer" Steve suggested as he took a step toward them.

"I'm perfectly damn calm, it's the human microwave that is getting his wires all in a twist because Wanda was moaning someone else's name" Y/N snapped.

"Do not speak about Wanda is such a way" Vision bit back the stone on his forehead beginning to glow as his anger increased.

As if things couldn't have gotten worse, Sharon had walked into the communal area at the same moment Y/N had spoken. Her face dropped at the realisation of what was being argued about and what Y/N had done.

"What are you going to do about it toaster? Zap me? Go ahead, let's see you explain that one away from the FBI and Shield" Y/N moved closer, squaring up to Vision, she knew full well he could wipe her out but she wasn't going to back down.

"Vision come on, that's enough" Tony spoke, he had already activate his gauntlet and was ready to use it if he had to.

"I'm sorry Mr Stark but I truly believe that Agent Monroe has crossed a line and should no longer be working with us" Vision said his fists clenching.

Wanda, Yelena, Nat and Maria all came rushing into the room, all of them taking in the scene in front of them. Sensing what was about to potentially happen, Wanda summoned her powers, swirls of red energy appeared from her hands and she sent it flying forward, slamming right into Vision's chest.

"That is enough Vision" Wanda said as her hands moved, controlling the energy and bringing Vision down to his knees.

"Wanda please, Y/N is simply using you, you must be able to see that. She does not care for your feelings at all. You were simply a way for her to get back at Sharon" Vision argued as he tried to fight against Wanda's power.

"I said enough!" Wanda shouted and as she did she blasted the ball of red energy she had created straight into Vision, sending him smashing through the floor of the compound and several more below it.

Everyone stood very still, all of them shocked at what had just happened.

"Pepper is going to love dealing with the bill for this one" Tony sighed as he inspected the massive hole that now occupied the centre of the kitchen.

"This is actual insanity, you lot get away with whatever you want don't you, all because you saved the world a couple of times. Just think you can threaten and do whatever to people" Y/N shook her head, "I'm done with this crap, no promotion is worth this."

Y/N grabbed the coffee she'd made and started walking away from them all.

"Y/N please wait" Wanda said making to move after her.

"Maybe it's best I take this one Wanda" Steve stepped in the way, blocking Wanda from pursuing Y/N.

"Yeah come on Wanda, let's go take a walk for a bit" Nat appeared at her side, gently looping her arm through Wanda's, concerned that Steve might end up like Vision if he wasn't careful.

"Fine" Wanda agreed, letting Nat lead her out with Yelena and Maria following behind the pair of them.