

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 168

"Haha! Really? You missed me that much?" Leena was surprised at the little boy's smartness. He surely knew what to say when needed.

"Yes, I did! Auntie Leena, you look stunning today. Haven't you noticed that?" Justin sighed in his mind. He had to flatter Leena for his own sake.

"Hmm! Too little too late! I'm not buying it at all." Leena smirked and walked straight into the house. She completely ignored Justin.

"Wait up, auntie Leena! I really mean it!" Justin immediately broke free from his parent's embrace and followed Leena into the house. To save himself from becoming Leena's lifesize doll, he had to change her mind.

Edward and Daisy looked at each other and burst into laughter. With a dotting smile, they saw Leena and Justin disappear behind the front door.

"Honey, what happened to your car?" Edward finally noticed the VW POLO parked next to his fancy car.

"This is my car. What's wrong?" Puzzled, Daisy looked at her car and turned back to Edward, wondering why Edward asked the same question as Leena did earlier.

the car you usually drive around?" Edward's lips twitched. He compared the worth of both cars. He imagined how difficult her life must have been before he came by. He felt sorry for everything she had been through all these years. Saying nothing, Edward just pulled

They were avariciously sniffed the faint scent of jasmine oozing from her body. That was truly a had fancy champagne at parties? Was she taking care of their son alone when he indulged himself in nightclubs? And when he slept with other women, what was she doing? Did she miss him? Even for once? Thinking of what a jerk he had been, Edward tightened decided he would make it up to her. He would stand by her for the rest of his life. He would make her the happiest when he seemed depressed. She wanted him to know that he wasn't alone and she would always muttered while holding Daisy firmly. He leaned against him. She knew that something was wrong. But she wouldn't ask if he didn't want to talk about it. She promised him that she would love him and trust him over anyone. She would wait patiently till he was ready to share and she wouldn't blame him if he is going on here? You guys look so sweet and lovable." Rain casually leaned against the half-open door of his car and played with the shades in his hand. Looking as long as Daisy was in his arms. Edward didn't even notice when Rain approached them. She had been indulging in the happy on Daisy. He flung the door close and replied, his sapphire ear studs gleaming in the sunset. The studs