

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 201

"Don't you need to accompany Annie?" Edward asked casually. He looked at Rain who was lounging on the couch and didn't seem to have any plans of leaving. Didn't Annie live in his house? Edward didn't know why Rain seemed so morose.

"Edward, what would make someone change so much?" Rain had been racking his brain trying to figure this out for days.

"Are you talking about Annie? Is there anything different about her?" Edward asked with a raised eyebrow. Annie was drunk that night, so he didn't notice anything unusual with her.

"I'm not sure. But she's been avoiding me and has been strangely silent around me." Rain felt frustrated. He didn't know what the problem was. He kept fretting over Annie's sudden change and avoidance.

"Maybe she doesn't love you anymore? Maybe she's lost affection for you after these years, and she's trying to distance herself from you." Actually, Edward knew very little about women. For instance, Daisy looked at him coldly sometimes, but unexpectedly treated him affectionately at times.

"Is that so?" Rain suddenly felt bitter. He was the one trying to avoid her. He should be glad that she finally stopped being so clingy. But why did he feel uncomfortable? It felt like someone had taken away one of his favorite things.
