

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 254

The hustling and bustling international airport was busy as always. The person at the PA system was announcing arrival and departure times and going over rules in a sweet voice. Luke was worried. 'Will the master and the lady be disappointed to see that Edward doesn't come to pick them up?' he thought. He had come to the Mu's residence at an early age. To protect Edward, he had absorbed knowledge of diverse fields. The senior Mr. Mu and the lady regarded him as their godson, so Luke thought of himself as a member of the Mu family rather than merely a bodyguard.

Years ago, on a cold winter evening, he had been near frozen and hungry. As an orphan, he had nowhere to go, but curled up at the corner of a building to protect himself from the cold. The structure would stop some of the chill winds from reaching the boy. A limo stopped in front of him. An elegant, attractive woman stepped out. She was so radiant that little Luke didn't dare to meet her gaze.

"Kid, do you want to go home with me?" she asked. Her soft voice warmed little Luke up. He nodded and followed her into the limo. Inside, he was too nervous to know where to put his hands.

"Relax. My son's your age. Would you like to protect him when you grow up?" she said tenderly with a smile. As a little boy, Luke hadn't been able to understand what she meant by protecting, but he said yes. Then he entered the prosperous family and started his new life.

The master and the lady were kind to Luke. Yet he'd seldom seen the boy that he was to protect. He wasn't assigned to be at Edward's side until the master and the lady thought he was capable enough. At first, Luke thought the boy would be a difficult one. But later he found him handsome, refined, and elegant. Luke was 15 years old that year, but he already defined his sole purpose in life -- protecting the boy whose family had taken him in.

like Luke following him around at first. But over time he grew accustomed to it, because he knew that no matter how much he hated it, Luke would keep following him everywhere, so at last he stopped resisting this arrangement by his parents. Over the following days, little Luke had figured out the young man's temperament. He felt sorry for little Edward's loneliness. When Edward started to turn into a playboy from an urbane youth, he didn't stop him. He let out a deep sigh at the airport. Bored, he looked around and spotted a familiar couple. Time had been friendly to them. After so many years, the woman remained beautiful and the man was still handsome. They looked to be in their forties though they were actually over back," he said happily, standing next to the couple, looking for all the world like a son meeting his parents. Joy was at you. You're all grown up. And I told you not to call us master and lady. Call us Dad and Mom, like Edward does. Please. Besides, you didn't address us glad to see Luke. She opened her arms and wanted to hug him. But Jonathan Mu, her tall, handsome, cool husband, hugged her first. It wasn't new to Luke, so he didn't feel awkward. Luke thought he was aloof because he had been affected by Jonathan, whose impressive bearing angry and rolled her eyes at Jonathan Mu, but she was actually happy, because his love for her never changed. They had been married for many years, and he still couldn't stand any other man getting close to that he's a man." Jonathan Mu gazed at Luke coldly. But there was appreciation in his eyes. He found that Luke had become much more confident than before. He never saw Luke as an outsider. However, Cynthia Fu was his wife. No man but himself was allowed to hug her, not even his son.

eyes. What are you so nervous about? Besides, Luke isn't attracted to old women like me." Cynthia gave a sweet smile, looking charming. One could imagine how beautiful she had been when she was young. Evidently, Edward