

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 46

"Mom, you're really here! So dad wasn't lying!" Justin grinned from ear to ear, and hugged Daisy tight, arms around her neck.

"Yes, I'm here. You're getting so big! I almost couldn't lift you." She laughed. "Probably means you're eating well." Daisy nuzzled Justin's forehead gently and lovingly.

"Mom, when did you get here? How do you know where we live?" Justin asked eagerly. He didn't expect his mom till evening, but when he woke up, his mother was right there by his bedside. When Edward told him she would be there, he thought Edward was lying. But it turned out he was telling the truth.

Daisy stuttered and didn't know how to answer. "...that is..." She didn't know when she got here, not to mention where she was. She was taken here by Edward, but she couldn't tell him that. It was too embarrassing.

"Justin, where is your father?" Daisy tried to change the topic.

"You are so reliant on me. I leave the room and you miss me already." That arrogant and teasing tone was so Edward. Daisy regretted asking. She dodged Justin's harsh questions, but now Edward was skewering her with his razor sharp wit. So embarrassing!

Edward leaned against the door gracefully. The grey gym outfit made him seem lazier and more approachable. He stared at Daisy and Justin, smiling the whole time. The scene was so sweet, so Norman Rockwell, with his beautiful wife and adorable son.

"No. I just asked randomly. Don't overthink it."

'Why do I lose it every time I'm around Edward?' she wondered.

want me to overthink about you?" Edward was having fun. She was more saved by the abrupt voice. She felt quite lucky -- she was not as eloquent as Belinda is quite efficient. Tell them to bring the clothes upstairs." Finally Edward shifted his took Justin from her arms. He set breakfast. Your mom and I will be along soon." When Edward declared something, there was no wiggle

But he also knew he was bigger than he had been at the apparel racks was oblivious to Daisy's surprised look. To was prepared, that there were all sorts of high-heeled shoes, dresses, etc. She was too astonished to utter a single word.

giggled at Daisy's amazed look. 'Edward doesn't do things halfway. This is nothing. Just check cut to the measurements you gave us. What else can we do for you?" the thanks. Just send the bill to the FX International Group." Edward walked over, looked at Mr. Edward, we will leave now." Then an outfit and try it on. They are all your size." Edward said, gently.

me?" Daisy finally shook off else? You think they're for me?" They would not fit for him, obviously. Edward squinted his eyes