

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 55

Daisy was deflated! Well! She shouldn't have expected so much from Edward, nor should she have asked the question.

Daisy finally took a look at the dazzling Ferrari. She finally understood. This was the only car that was suitable for her. No wonder Edward was willing to loan her this car.

"Could you please drive me there?" It was better for him to drive the car and drop her off at the base. It would look better that way.

Edward was stunned for second, and then he got it and smiled. So it was hard for Daisy to decide on a car because she cared about how much they cost.

"Why not? Of course! Let me serve you today, my darling!" Edward looked at her with a cheeky grin.

Daisy got into the car, dragged the long skirt, and scolded him in her heart. 'How could this guy be so ostentatious? Everything he has is a luxury. Doesn't he feel embarrassed attracting so much attention every day?'

Edward drove like lightning, so it took them less than an hour to get there. Daisy was busy taking various reports on the phone on the way. Edward did not disturb her and focused on driving.

"Colonel! You're finally here! Please go to the conference room at once. The commander and the others are all waiting for you there." Mark came to meet Daisy as soon as he saw her getting out of the car. Her dress stunned him momentarily.

Humvee. She did not even say goodbye to Edward, as if she had completely forgotten he existed.

shiny Ferrari. Edward didn't get out, so Mark couldn't figure out who was in the car. He shook his in park, and left without a single word. Edward felt so wronged. He was always popular with women and had never been treated like

He punched the accelerator,

She was in such a hurry and she was used to taking Mark's car, so she had forgotten about it. When she turned her head to look for him, only then did she see his car flying away. Her thoughts were totally focused on whether Edward was angry or not.

were fixed on her. She was unused to in. I'm sorry your vacation was ruined." The commander to obey orders. I understand." Daisy said

He seemed lonely, with his deep, cold eyes. He was not happy, even though he had just been promoted to major general. He didn't even turn his that she would feel unwell after drinking so much, so he had driven out at night to buy her the chaser. When he came back, she was with another guy, so he left. He really couldn't tell much from a distance, but he could tell that the guy was pretty fit, and that car must have cost a pretty penny. Clearly no that night. He didn't want to feel the sharp pain in both his heart and soul again. After all, it was destiny. One in greeting. He did not even look at her, which confused her. What happened to Kevin, and why was he acting so up in the city. He was considered armed and dangerous. They had orders to arrest him without causing a lovely ladies. So they would use Daisy, an outstanding aloof beauty, as bait.