

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 72

Mary quietly listened to Belinda and the others. She felt that they got along well with each other but in a strange way. They were neither lovers nor friends, but she could perceive their unusual chemistry.

Belinda felt perturbed, realizing how rude she had been. However, she felt embarrassed to make an apology, because she didn't know what to say. Belinda intended to defend Daisy, but in doing so, she had offended Edward who was a big shot of the City. She knew Edward would mind.

"Excuse me. I have to leave. Good day everyone." With these words, she left hurriedly. Belinda had the ability to admit and correct her mistakes. Whenever she lost her temper, she would leave the room. She would never invite humiliation her way. Though, she always escaped from Edward in a flurried haste.

Edward didn't mind her leaving abruptly as he was used to it.

Rain concealed his smirk. Edward was the most brute man in the world who had a sharp tongue. Rain was no match for him when it came to debate and discussions, let alone Belinda.

"Let's go back." Edward glanced at the expensive watch on his wrist and stepped out.

After hanging up the phone, Daisy went upstairs to look for Justin, wondering what the little guy was up to. She gently pushed the door, only to find that it was locked.

Daisy knocked on the door and waited for the door to be opened.

"Mummy, what's wrong?" Justin gaped at Daisy, pretending to be sleepy.

you doing? Why was the door locked?" Daisy popped her head inside and giving no definite reply. He couldn't tell his mother that he was making plans with his online friends to bring his parents it necessary to lock the door when you're sleeping?" Obviously, Daisy personal life. You can't deprive me of my privacy." Just this morning, he tried to open the door to his dad's room, but it was locked for the first time in days.

She was burning up at the thought of what she did with Edward this morning.

Justin's face lovingly, wondering when this little guy started to from you. First, you can't enter my room without my permission. Second, don't rummage live with that."

like going out for a bite with dad tonight?" Justin looked at Daisy expectantly. A romantic evening always began with to eat out? Are you tired of eating at home?" Daisy was baffled because Justin had never proposed to go out for dinner. Were his habits

I want to eat something different tonight. Let's pick up dad from work and go out to have a fun dinner, okay?" Justin shook Daisy's hand hard. He wouldn't give up until go to his office without telling him in advance." Daisy liked the idea, but she was the clock." Justin continued to persuade Daisy. This was part of his plan. He wanted all the women at the office to give up the idea of playing up to his dad as his dad was still a married man.

daddy to see if he can have dinner with us tonight." Although Edward had just called to say that he would come back early, no one