

Journey to Happy Ending Chapter 99

"Edward Mu, are you trying to distract me?" Daisy glared at him as she remembered why she screamed at the first place.

"Damn it. My full name. Really?" Edward didn't like it when she called him by his full name. It made him feel like a chastised child.

"So you've changed your name?" Daisy looked at Edward with a questioning glance, not realizing why he was pissed off.

"Don't push it. Or do you want a repeat of what happened last night?" Edward's eyes narrowed dangerously as he stared at Daisy. Since when was she able to drive him mad so easily?

Daisy closed her eyes and tried to recall how many things she agreed to last night. She blushed when certain scenes ran in her mind. 'He set me up again.'

"Well. You didn't say that I need to call you husband every day." Daisy wasn't willing to compromise. He only asked her to say it once. It's his fault he didn't make the rules clear.

"Good. It's time for me to replay what happened last night and make the rules clear this time." Edward moved to grab Daisy but she was not there. In a flash, she was by the door and out of his reach.

"Don't come near me. I will pound you if you come any closer." Daisy threatened him, hoping that would be enough. She knew that if she were caught by him, she wouldn't be able to go out for a whole day.

Edward was stunned for a second, but he recovered quickly. 'She wants to play with me' he thought. 'I haven't exercised for a while. Bring it, woman!'

start what you can't finish." Edward knew he'd win. Even Luke couldn't best him. She didn't stand a not afraid of you. Don't mess with a colonel!" Daisy thought his fighting skills would be rusty -- he didn't need to fight because his bodyguards would deal with?" Edward got excited and moved towards fist. Edward leaned away, and her fist sailed his another foot too, and she threw a cross punch back at him. 'He's really good at it.'

crescent kick. Their legs met full on, and you could hear them collide. Daisy cried her shock and grabbed her, not caring about his appearance at struggling to escape his grasp. Edward show you what's real shamelessness." Edward whispered in her me first." Daisy already felt him, aroused, pushing hold you for a while, otherwise you won't get past the door." Edward was trying hard to control his desire. Why did his feelings soar every time he was could she do? Her husband could turn into a full-on lust machine in the blink of an promised Belinda that I would go shopping with her today." If she didn't show up today, there never call me by my full name again." Edward was