

The Love She Didn't Say by Mona

Chapter 13 Come to my house

The youth was deep in his thought and didn't notice Elena Forbes's measuring eyes, her lips moved silently, "So alike, too much like the man he once was, since she can't get Alston Rivers, she can find a substitute, right?" Elena's lips arced revealing a sensuous smile, made the youth feel a trace of chill up down to his spine, he turned his head to look at Elena, giggled a little and let Elena's cold hard heart move slightly.

She asked the youth with interest, "What is your name?"

"My name is Joey Smith, and you? Can I know your name? I want to repay you." Joey Smith bit his lip and spoke.

Elena smiled lightly, he is like a little rabbit, that is just doesn't know whether he is a real rabbit or not; but regardless, as long as she likes it is enough.

She casually took one out of the business card box and gently and provocatively put it down from Joey Smith's collar.

Joey Smith was confused for a moment, felt the coolness from the business card, panicked and unbuttoned near his navel and took the business card into his hands, he did not understand why this girl, who also did not look old, kept molesting him.

And her aura is too strong, he has no resistance, and this feeling, it's quite bad, made him a little distracted.

But when he saw the name on the card, Joey Smith's eyes widened at once, "You are Elena Forbes? Oh my god, I actually met the goddess, I'm not dreaming, right?"

While speaking, he pitched his thigh and made a cry out of pain.

Elena is really in a good mood at this moment, completely did not expect this trip here will find an intriguing boy.

She didn't move on and immediately fell in love with this young man, just the vibrancy of his body, made her feel alive and her world was no longer colorless.

The two had a chat, and not long, Elena heard his voice getting lower and lower.

She turned her head to look and saw Joey Smith's head little by little gradually leaning back in the seat and falling asleep.

At this moment, she laughed again, "How can you be so big-hearted and you can really be sold without even knowing it."

But she is prepared to hold this boy in her palm, so if he is sellable the buyer must be her.

When Elena drove to their school, the school gates were already closed, Elena pushed Joey awake, "Your school is here!"

Joey said thanks in a daze, and tried to pull open the car door to go down, but found that the door was locked.

In a flash, he woke up with a jolt and looked at Elena with uncertainty.

Elena gestured for him to look outside, "The school was closed long ago, how can you go back?"

Joey did see it, and he was already dumbfounded, "How could this happen, I haven't finished my project assignment yet! Ah, David Black, I hate your gut!"

His reaction was expected by Elena, "It's your first time staying out at night, right?" Joey nodded with a sobbing face, "Yes." "Did your roommate named David Black take you out?" Elena Forbes asked again. Joey nodded again, breathlessly, "Yes."

"Next time don't just follow people to the bar, or your little body, not enough for them to ravage!" Elena reached out fingertips circling his chest, causing Joey to nod and lean back in panic.

Finally, Elena Forbes directly made a decision, "Since you can't get in, then come to my house."