

The Love She Didn't Say by Mona

Chapter 3 Love him with all your heart

A Cafe near the hospital. Elena Forbes asked Elizabeth Taylor out to meet her.

She sat by the window and waited. From a distance, she saw Elizabeth's long, flowing white dress. She also wore this long white dress before. But Alston Rivers only said that she was ugly,aping the beauty so she never wore it ever again.

Elizabeth Taylor sat down. She smiled at her and gently pushed the hair near her neck back, trying to show the hickey more obviously.

Elena just looked at her quietly, her face calm and unruffled.

Elizabeth stirred her coffee and said, "Alston said that you are getting a divorce, right, and I genuinely appreciate you giving him back to me."

Elena said in a light voice: "What about you, is your ex-husband still pestering you?" Three years ago, Elizabeth married a rich man. After the rich man proposed to her, she dumped Alston Rivers.

But who would have thought that this rich man is a phony plus a scoundrel? And to this day, she is tied up in lawsuits over financial disputes.

Elizabeth's face whitened: "How do you know?"

All her emotions, in a flash, turned into shock.

"Alston cares about you, so, I care about you too, only I'm different from him when I care about someone and I keep her within my control."

To Alston Rivers, she did it.

To Elizabeth Taylor, she did the same. Over the years, she knew every move Elizabeth Taylor made. Elizabeth exclaimed, "You're spying on me?"

Elena didn't deny it.

This, however, made Elizabeth feel that the sensual and elegant woman in front of her was in fact a pervert.

Elizabeth's face turned red, chest full of anger, and asked the thing that she cared most at the moment: "You told Alston Rivers all this?"

Elena narrowed her eyes and replied, "No."

Elizabeth Taylor, however felt weak: "How is it possible, you love Alston, but Alston loves me, as Miss Forbes's poisonous tactics, how can you let me to still maintain a good image in front of him."

The whole world knows that Elena Forbes loves Alston Rivers, deeply.

Elizabeth now interferes in their marriage;there is no way she can let her go easily.

Elena's plain white hand lifted, picked up the cup,and lightly sipped the coffee.

She said, "I'll help you out with the money."

Elizabeth sneered:"Money?Alston should be richer than you,I'm not stupid to be coaxed by two or three sentences from you to give up him.....Moreover, I love him more than my life."

Elena Forbes said carelessly,"Welljust hope it's like as you said."

Her blandness caused a great deal of discontent in Elizabeth:"What exactly do you want?"

Forbes took out a check from her bag.

A$10 million check.

She said, "You can have the money,and you can have Alston,and I will get the divorce, I just need you to promise me one thing."

"What one thing?" "Love him with all your heart."

Elizabeth froze.

Her chest is full of words, yet held back.

This was not what she had expected.

Elena Forbes should at least scold her more or less.

But she didn't.

Instead.....all went along with her.

This move made her puzzled.

She stunned and sat upright,"You don't need to say that,I already love him deeply."

"Hmm."

After that,Forbes took out her cell phone and dialed a phone number.

Elizabeth's cell phone rang.

Elena said,"This is my number, I will take care of the rest,now you can go back to the hospital."

Elizabeth listened and was ready to get up, but she was indignant.

Why should she listen to her?