

The Legendary Man Chapter 176

Chapter 176 I Will Not Give Up

Half an hour later, Jonathan pulled over at the entrance of the ecological park's construction site!

He saw countless patrolling cars and a few fire engines. Although things were under control, the entire site was a mess with smoke gushing out from the burned down buildings.

Thankfully, it was just an ordinary construction site; if it was a chemical plant, it might be a catastrophic disaster capable of wiping out the living beings nearby.

"Mr. Goldstein!" Immediately after Jonathan alighted from the car, Harrison rushed over.

He had a disheveled look. It was evident he had been trying his best to make sure everything was under control as well.

"What's going on?" Jonathan queried with a frown.

"It was my fault! I'm so sorry for disappointing you! I'm ready to bear the consequences of my negligence!"

Instead of making excuses to defend himself, Harrison kneeled in front of Jonathan seconds after he confessed and indicated his will to bear the consequences of the arson.

As a soldier, he was conscious of Jonathan's pet peeves—he couldn't stand others making excuses for their mistakes.

Instead of reprimanding Harrison, Jonathan queried in return, "Now isn't the time to hold you accountable. Have you found the mastermind?"

Harrison shook his head and answered with his face puckered in wrath, "No! We can't get anything on them because they've destroyed the surveillance camera beforehand! On top of that, they did a great job covering their presence shortly after fleeing the scene!"

Needless to say, Harrison was equally frustrated because no one had ever challenged him when he was known as the most ruthless man in Jadeborough.

He was aware that his reputation would be at stake if words of the incident made it to the rest of his peers.

"It seems like they've been planning this for quite some time. Has anyone informed Josephine?"

Harrison couldn't fathom the emotions associated with Jonathan's indifferent look.

He answered while shaking his head, "She's not aware of the arson because I haven't had the time to tell her!"

"If that's the case, keep her in the dark for as long as possible," Jonathan instructed nonchalantly.

"Yes, Mr. Goldstein!"

Another cab showed up at the entrance when the duo was about to wrap up their conversation.

Josephine rushed out of the cab and hurried her way to Jonathan when she saw him.

She asked, "What's going on? Why have the buildings been burned down?"

Afraid she couldn't take the truth after the series of incidents she had gone through over the past few days, Jonathan made something up to deceive her and said, "Maybe it's the weather! It has been quite hot recently. Don't you think so?"

"Seriously? Do you think I'm going to fall for something so absurd?" Josephine wasn't convinced at all because it was almost winter.

On top of that, there were strong gusts everywhere throughout the past few days. In short, it was impossible the weather was the reason behind the fire.

When she was about to say something else, a few firefighters approached them and asked, "May I know if the person in charge of the construction site is here?"

"Oh, I'm the person in charge!"

Josephine approached them and asked, "Sir, how is it? Is the fire under control? Are there any casualties?"

"Thankfully, there are no casualties. With that being said, we found a lot of gasoline in the pile of rubble. Can you please tell us the rationale for having such a large amount of gasoline on the construction site?"

"Gasoline?"

Josephine gaped in disbelief when she heard the firefighter. She slurred her question, "I-I'm not even aware of the presence of gasoline in the construction site!"

The firefighters exchanged glances and came to another conclusion. One of them announced, "If that's the case, then it is highly likely that this is a case of arson. However, we can't rule out the possibilities of the ones in charge setting the fire as well. We're going to carry out a series of investigations to ensure justice is served."

Josephine recalled the conversation she had with Timothy about a day ago once the firefighter shared their hypotheses with her.

Gosh! I'm sure the Turner family is behind this! I can't even think of anyone else apart from Timothy!

"Thank you so much, and I'm so sorry for the inconvenience!"

"We're merely trying to carry out our duties to keep the civilians safe." The firefighter and the police officers departed once they had everything sorted out with Josephine.

Josephine returned to Jonathan's side and wondered, "It has nothing to do with the weather; it's the Turner's family's doings, isn't it?"

"Yes! I can't think of others apart from them since they are the only ones who stand to gain from our failure!"

Initially, he thought of keeping her in the dark for as long as possible, but it was a mission impossible since Josephine had made it to the scene.

“This is too much!” Josephine didn’t even bother to conceal her frustration anymore. The Turner family shouldn’t have resorted to something so extreme when Josephine was ready to surrender the project.

She had spent countless sleepless nights to ensure everything was fine with the construction of the ecological park.

It took her a long time to snap out of the state of bewilderment when there was nothing but a pile of rubble left after the fire.

“It’s really not a big deal. We’ll just have to build everything from scratch again.” Jonathan ran his fingers through her hair, trying to console the upset woman.

Out of the blue, Josephine looked at Jonathan in the eyes and announced with a determined look, “Jonathan, I’ve made up my mind! I’m not going to give up just yet! You’re right—they don’t get to call the shots when they’re nothing but members of the upper echelon! There’s no way I’m allowing them to get things their way! It’s time for them to bear the consequences of their actions!”

Jonathan was surprised in a pleasant way when he heard Josephine announcing her next best course of action. He added, “Now, this is the Josephine I know! I knew there was no way you would allow others to take advantage of you!”

This is the courageous woman who has insisted on getting married to me in spite of the disagreement from the rest of the Smith family! She’s finally back!

“Jonathan, I’m so sorry for throwing a tantrum at you...”

All of a sudden, Josephine muttered to herself with her cheeks blushing in embarrassment when she recalled the time she vent her frustration on Jonathan.

“What is it? When did you throw a tantrum? Why can’t I recall anything of that sort?” Jonathan couldn’t care less. Since he had made up his mind to keep her company for the rest of her life, he would have to deal with her emotional breakdown from time to time.

“Jonathan, thank you.” The indifferent Josephine felt her heart skipping a beat for the first time in quite a while.

A few seconds later, she heard her phone buzzing.

The Legendary Man Chapter 177

Chapter 177 The Turner Family

“Hello?”

“Ms. Smith, have you offended someone recently?” When Josephine heard the man on the other end, she knew it was the representative from Graham Group.

“What’s the matter?” Josephine frowned because she had a bad feeling about it. However, she wasn’t sure of the things going on.

“A few of our suppliers have called off the deal with our company! They refuse to supply us with the materials we need until we sever ties with your family! A few of them nullified the agreement after sealing the deal with the representatives of our company! Can you tell me what’s going on?”

The representative on the other end of the phone was slightly impatient because not only was the ecological park project affected, but another few of Graham Group’s projects were affected too due to the disruption of supply.

Graham Group might have to brace itself through a financial predicament unless they could resolve the crisis and acquire the materials they needed for the rest of their projects.

“My apologies! Indeed, it has something to do with the Smith family!” Josephine knew members of the Turner family must be pulling the strings to stop her again. They wouldn’t stop until Josephine made up her mind to surrender the project to them.

The Turner family was ready to take out Graham Group unless they were ready to sever ties with the Smith family.

To be precise, they were ready to mess things up for those acquainted with the Smith family until Josephine gave in to their demand.

As infuriated as Josephine might be, there wasn’t anything much she could do when she was merely a member of a family at a lower rank of the social hierarchy. There was no way the Smith family could not put on a fight against the most prominent family of Jazona.

Unable to keep his curiosity to himself anymore, the representative of Graham Group asked, “Ms. Smith, who are we talking about?”

Who the hell possesses the capability to coerce the suppliers of Graham Group? Why are they willing to go to such a great length just to force the members of such a small family into submission?

“I-It’s the Turner family!”

“Huh? You’re not talking about the most prominent family of Jazona, are you?”

“Have you heard of another family with the same name?”

The representative of the Graham Group went dead silent.

After quite some time, he asked after snapping out of confusion, “Ms. Smith, how have you offended the members of the Turner family?”

Oh, God! We’re talking about the most prominent family amongst the rest in Jazona! No one, not even the governor, has the guts to challenge them! Has she lost her mind, or has she a death wish? Why the hell has she picked on them?

Josephine let out a long sigh and murmured, “It’s quite a long story. I’ll share the rest with you when the opportunity arises in the future.”

"Ms. Smith, I'm afraid I need to call off the deal because I need to consider the company's future as well. I'm sure you know we can't afford to offend the members of the Turner family. It's impossible for me to put the company at stake for the sake of you and the Smith family."

"A-Alright..." Josephine took it in without much of a surprise.

She had been anticipating the conversation after making up her mind to take the longer route to defend the family.

No one's going to support the Smith family anymore if they find out that we're going against the Turner family. After all, the Turner family is the most fearsome family in Jazona. As despicable as they might be, I can't deny that they've done a great job forcing us into submission.

"I'll consult the chairman and revert to you in a while. Allow me to express my utmost apologies beforehand just in case we need to call off the deal." The representative wouldn't stop expressing his regret, but it was obvious he was determined to sever ties with the Smith family.

"It's okay! To begin with, it was our fault!" Without Graham Group's support, things would get nastier for Josephine and the Smith family. Nonetheless, she had no intention to hold others accountable for the family's misfortune.

Shortly after she wrapped up the conversation, she fell into a vicious cycle of despair after reassuring the representative it wasn't a big deal.

Jonathan noticed something was wrong. Hence, he approached her and asked concernedly, "What's wrong?"

"It's only a matter of time until the representative of Graham Group calls off the deal with us!" Josephine tried to remain calm. Unfortunately, it was a mission impossible in times of emergency.

"What do you mean they're going to call off the deal with us? How is that possible?"

Jonathan arched his brows in confusion as he had never heard Graham bringing up something of that sort.

"Members of the Turner family have coerced with Graham Group's suppliers into isolating Graham Group until the company severed ties with us! They have no choice but to do that in order to keep their loss at a minimum! I'm afraid it's over for the Smith family as soon as the representative of Graham Group calls off the deal with us! No one in Jazona will support us anymore!"

"I'm impressed! The Turner family did a marvelous job to ostracize us!"

Jonathan was truly in awe because it would work like a charm if it were any other companies the Turner family were going up against. However, it wouldn't be effective against Josephine at all because Jonathan was her strongest backing.

Seconds after Jonathan gathered his thoughts, he assured Josephine while caressing her head, "You don't have to worry because there's no way the representative of Graham Group will call off the deal!"

"How is that possible?"

Josephine did not believe him.

No one's going to risk the future of their family for the sake of the Smith family when we're going up against the Turner family. It's the right thing to do to sever ties with us. I'm sure the representative of Graham Group will make the same decision.

Grinning, Jonathan suggested, "If you don't trust me, just wait until the representative revert to you."

Graham will never allow the Turner family to force him into submission even if I'm not the owner of Graham Group! The Turner family might be a big gun, but that's not the case for Graham and me! On top of that, Graham's aware of my actual identity—he will never put others ahead of me!

The Legendary Man Chapter 178

Chapter 178 Deadbeat

In less than ten minutes, Jonathan received a call from Graham.

“Mr. Goldstein, what’s going on? How have the members of the Turner family offended you?” Graham asked once Jonathan answered the call.

“It’s not really a big deal. It’s just a bunch of fools trying to push their luck.” Jonathan couldn’t be bothered at all.

He had never once thought of the members of the Turner family as a threat.

“That’s for sure, Mr. Goldstein!”

Aware of Jonathan’s identity, Graham played along with the almighty Asura, as not even the most influential family in Yaleview could defy Jonathan.

“Speaking of which, have the members of the Turner family messed with Graham Group and coerced with the suppliers of the company to limit the supply for your projects?”

“Yes, Mr. Goldstein. Apart from that, the ones representing the family warned everyone else to sever ties with the Smith family unless they wish to start a fight with the Turner family. Actually, it’s not really a big deal. It’ll only take me a few days at most to resolve the issue. Wait, a day is all I need to sort things out.”

Others would long give in to the demand of the Turner family. However, Graham would never resort to something as silly as such because the Turner family was nothing as compared to the almighty Asura.

Jonathan asked in return, “Can you resolve everything by tomorrow morning?”

"You have my words, Mr. Goldstein! I'll sort everything out as soon as possible and make sure everything's fine in the morning!" Graham reassured Jonathan without much hesitation.

"If that's the case, I want you to make sure that the operation at the construction site resumes by tomorrow! Are we clear?" Jonathan instructed in a serious tone.

"Yes, Mr. Goldstein!"

Once he hung up the call, Jonathan looked at Josephine in the eyes and announced with a bright grin, "I have everything under control! The person in charge of Graham Group will resolve the crisis and carry on with the deal the representative has struck with you!"

"Are you serious? Are you telling me they're going to start a fight with the Turner family? How is that possible?" Josephine gaped at Jonathan's announcement and repeated her question after Jonathan.

As influential as the Graham Group might be in Jadeborough, the group isn't on par with the family reigning over Jazona in many aspects!

Grinning, Jonathan pinched Josephine's nose and asked, "What's the matter? It's not like one of the members of the Turner family is the King of War! They don't get to call the shots and reign over others when they're just another family of the upper echelon! Since they're fearless enough to challenge you, we're going to show them that they've picked on the wrong target! I'm going to show them they can't even put on much of a fight in spite of pulling the connections they have built up over the years! I'm going to tell them they're not even a match for the man they deem a deadbeat!"

"Can you stop getting full of yourself when you're one!" Josephine rolled her eyes in response to Jonathan's seemingly exaggerating speech.

She wasn't as anxious as she was a few minutes ago. As long as Graham Group continued supporting them, she might pull through.

Jonathan teased, "You're not expecting much from me, are you?"

Three years ago, the members of the Smith family thought Jonathan was a good-for-nothing. Hence, they started calling him names to fulfill their sense of superiority.

“Jonathan, I didn’t mean it...” When she heard the man’s self-deprecating remarks, she recalled the times she joined others and started calling him names too. She was abhorred by the things she did alongside the rest of her family three years ago.

“I know!” On the other hand, Jonathan’s mind was all over the place when he saw Josephine’s ethereal look.

He took a trip down memory lane four years ago when his foes almost killed him in the middle of nowhere.

If it weren’t because of Josephine’s extensive care that lasted for a month, he might’ve long passed on. Someone else might inherit the title of the almighty Asura instead of him.

Similarly, Josephine was slightly flustered when she caught a glimpse of Jonathan’s loving stare. Unable to stand it anymore, she suggested in an attempt to flee the scene, “I’ll go check on the construction site!”

“Where do you think you’re going, Darling? It’s not like I’m going to devour you, is it?” Jonathan went after her to survey the burned-down construction site.

Apart from the pile of rubble and ashes everywhere, there was the pungent scent of gasoline. It was obvious someone had started the fire to raze the place.

Josephine let out a long sigh when she recalled those were the outcome of her hard work for more than a fortnight. The disheartened woman muttered her question to the man next to her, “Jonathan, do you think the project is going to turn out fine? Are they going to burn everything down again once the project is done?”

“Nah!” Jonathan shook his head with his arms wrapped around her waist. He felt his heart racing immediately after his fingers came in touch with the woman’s velvet skin.

Although he had encountered countless gorgeous women throughout the years, he had never engaged himself in any form of raunchy activity with any of them.

“If they don’t learn from their lesson, I’ll return the favor by burning down the residency of the Turner family!”

Subconsciously, Josephine tried taking a step back to stay away from Jonathan when she felt his fingers around her waist.

She couldn't get used to the intimate interaction because it was the first in forever. Nonetheless, her effort was to no avail against someone as strong as Jonathan. He held her in his arms and asked, "Where do you think you're going? Are you afraid I'm going to eat you up?"

"Jonathan, you need to let go of me because we're not the only ones around here!" Josephine glared at Jonathan and struggled in order to break free from him.

"I don't see anyone around!" Seconds after he finished his sentence and turned around, he caught a glimpse of Harrison. He instructed with a frown, "Stop staring and get lost immediately!"

"Y-Yes, Mr. Goldstein!"

Harrison fled the scene at top speed because he was afraid of getting on Jonathan's nerves again.

"See? We're the only ones left!" Jonathan inched over intimately. Subsequently, Josephine blushed and tried pushing the man away from her, stuttering her question, "J-Jonathan, what do you want from me?"

"Darling, we've never kissed even after being married for such a long time! Don't you think that's very conservative of you?" Jonathan continued approaching Josephine. As a result, Josephine started panting heavily. She felt as if she was about to pass out when Jonathan was about to reach her lips with his.

She pressed her lips tight and didn't give in.

However, she failed to stop Jonathan and ended up intriguing him even more by trying to put up a fight against him. When Jonathan thought of taking things to the next level, a phone call brought the session to a halt.

The Legendary Man Chapter 179

Chapter 179 Confrontation

Ugh! Who the hell is trying to get in my way when I'm merely a step away from kissing my wife after being away from her for four years?

"Serve you right!" Josephine seize the opportunity to break free from him while throwing him a nasty look.

She excused herself and asked after answering the call, "Hello?"

A man greeted Josephine in return, "It's me, Ezra!"

"Uncle Ezra?"

Josephine was slightly taken aback by the call because Ezra wouldn't even engage himself in a conversation with her during festive seasons, let alone a normal day.

"Correct me if I'm wrong, but is it true someone has burned down the buildings of the ecological park?" Ezra confronted Josephine.

"Uncle Ezra, how did you know about the accident?" Josephine couldn't help but wonder the reason her uncle was aware of the accident that occurred half an hour ago.

"Is that any of your concern as the chairman of Smith Group? Are you sure you're cut to lead the company when you can't even complete such a trivial project? Dad wants to meet you in person! Come home at once!"

"Huh? Why does Grandpa want to meet me in person?"

"Just return home as instructed instead of asking questions! He'll tell you everything once you're here!"

Her uncle hung up the phone and stopped her from carrying on with the conversation as soon as he made himself clear that her presence was required.

On the other hand, Jonathan could keep his questions to himself when he caught a glimpse of Josephine's frowning look. He asked, "Is everything fine?"

"It seems like the members of the Smith family have been informed of the arson. They wish to meet me in person because of the accident," Josephine answered with her brows furrowed.

Irked, Jonathan questioned, "What? Are they trying to hold you accountable?"

There's no way such an inferior family will be appointed to take charge of such an important project if it's not because of their relationship with Josephine!

"No matter what, I have to go and meet them!" Although Ezra didn't mention the reason they summoned her out of the blue, she returned home with a sense of foreboding.

Half an hour later, Jonathan pulled over the car at the entrance of the Smith mansion.

When they stepped into the foyer, they saw an irked Hugo seated in the middle of the equally frustrated Miguel and Ezra in the middle of the living room. The trio had their eyes glued to Jonathan and Josephine just like they were up to no good.

"Grandpa, have you summoned me?" Josephine greeted Hugo and tried her best to carry herself in a courteous manner.

Instead of beating around the bush, her grandfather confronted her and questioned, "Is it true someone has set fire on the buildings at the ecological park?"

Josephine responded with a nod, indicating an accident had occurred a short while ago.

"It's the doing of the members of the Turner family, isn't it?"

"How do you know?"

"Ha! Almost everyone from Jadeborough is aware of the things going on after the representatives of the Turner family made the announcement in the morning! They warned others to stay away from us unless they wish to end up like our family! Are you seriously trying to bring upon the downfall of the family because of a trivial project?" Hugo wrapped up his orated speech with a scowl.

"Grandpa, that's not it-"

Josephine's grandfather stopped her from explaining herself and added, "You don't have to explain yourself! Just surrender the project and join me at the Turner residence to express your apologies on behalf of the Smith family in the evening!"

"What? Why am I supposed to do that when I'm not the one at fault?" Josephine's face turned pale and haggard at the announcement of her grandfather.

Josephine gritted her teeth to express her disagreement.

It turns out Grandpa has summoned me to meet him in person just to persuade me to give up on the project! It's ridiculous! Why am I supposed to apologize when I'm not even the one at fault?

"Isn't it obvious? It's because we're talking about the members of the Turner family! Josephine, have you any idea of the Turner family's influence in Jazona? It's going to take nothing more than a few calls for them to wipe the rest of the Smith family out of existence!"

"Dad, it's pointless trying to talk any sense into her! Just dismiss her as the chairman of Smith Group!" Ezra couldn't suppress the urge to play along with Hugo when he heard his father, "Ezra is right, Dad! We don't need someone who brings nothing but misery to the family!"

"Dad, it's pointless trying to talk some sense into her! Just dismiss her as the chairman of Smith Group! We don't need someone who brings nothing apart from misery to the family!" Ezra brought up the suggestion to stir things up when he heard his father.

The vicious man's wife added, "Dad, they're right! It's only a matter of time until she brings upon doom for the rest of the Smith family if she's the chairman of Smith Group! She doesn't even qualify to lead the family!"

Miguel, who had remained silent throughout the session, commented alongside the cunning duo, "Their concerns are valid, Dad! You need to dismiss her as the chairman!"

Apart from Jonathan, those in the living room wouldn't stop bringing up a similar suggestion.

Jonathan finally figured out they weren't there to resolve the issue. They merely wished to make a fuss out of something trivial to strip Josephine of the position as the chairman of Smith Group.

Hugo glared at Josephine. "Josephine, have you heard them? They want me to dismiss you as the chairman of Smith Group! I'll have to listen to them if you refuse to give up the ecological park project! With that being said, I'll consider giving you another chance to prove yourself if you go to the Turner residence with me to beg for their mercy."

"That won't be necessary because I will never join you at the Turner residence when I've done nothing wrong!" Josephine turned Hugo down without any hesitation.

It was the Turner family's fault for burning down the buildings just to get their hands on the project! It should be the members of the Turner family who need to apologize to me!

Ezra chimed in again, "Dad, isn't it obvious she's trying to get all of us killed? She doesn't even care about us!"

"Why would I want to get any of you killed? What do I stand to gain?" Josephine questioned at the top of her lungs.

"Who knows? Why don't you tell us the things you have in mind? Maybe you've struck some sort of deal with the members of the Turner family to gain ownership over everything of the Smith family once all of us are dead!"

"Y-You..."

Josephine couldn't even finish her sentence due to extreme frustration. She ended up panting heavily in front of the rest of the Smith family.

Hugo yelled to stop the squabbling duo, "Stop it! Josephine, I'll ask you one last time! Are you going to the Turner residence with me or not?"

The Legendary Man Chapter 180

Chapter 180 I Really Am Asura

"I refuse!" Josephine replied without hesitation.

Given that she did no wrong, there was no reason for her to apologize to the Turner family.

"I'm afraid it's not up to you!" When he realized how adamant Josephine was in her refusal to apologize, Hugo's gaze darkened. "Men, seize her!"

"At once!"

Upon Hugo's instruction, a group of black-clad men rushed into the Smith mansion. However, Jonathan, who had remained silent throughout, suddenly sprang to his feet and glared at the men. "Let's see who dares to lay a finger on her!"

"Jonathan, what are you doing?"

Ezra snorted when he saw Jonathan step forward. "This is a Smith family matter where you have no right to interfere!"

"Exactly! A live-in son-in-law like you has no say in this at all," Ezra's wife sneered.

"Jonathan, this is a family matter, so please step aside." Even though Hugo was more civil, his intention couldn't be any clearer.

Evidently, Jonathan had no right to stick his nose into the Smith family's business.

"Your family matter?" Jonathan scoffed in response. "Back when you pleaded for me to hand the ecological park project to the Smith family, that wasn't what you said."

Back then, the entire Smith family almost got on their knees to beg Jonathan for the project.

But now, just because they offended the Turner family, they intend to make Josephine the scapegoat?

“That was then, and this is now!” Hugo’s expression turned grave. “Back then, I didn’t realize she would commit such a massive mistake!”

If he had known that taking over the ecological park project would infuriate the Turner family, he wouldn’t have begged Jonathan for it. In fact, he wouldn’t even have accepted it even if Jonathan had wanted to give it to them.

Compared to the wrath of the Turner family, the ecological park project was considered inconsequential.

“The Smith family is truly shameless!” When he heard Hugo’s words, Jonathan couldn’t help but sneer, “Back when you desired the ecological park project, you felt that Josephine was most suited to be Smith Group’s chairman. Now that you have gotten on the nerves of the Turner family, you turn her into a scapegoat instead?”

“Shut up, Jonathan! As an outsider, you have no right to criticize us.” Just as Jonathan spoke, Ezra couldn’t resist the urge to admonish him.

“Do you think that I want to butt into your business needlessly?” Jonathan smirked. If not for Josephine, he wouldn’t care less about the Smith family’s mess.

“Jonathan, what is it that you want?” Hugo gave Jonathan a cold stare.

“Isn’t it obvious?” Jonathan snapped. “There’s no way Josephine is going to apologize to the Turner family. Instead, if they apologize to her, I might consider forgiving them.”

What? What did he just say? Get the Turner family to apologize to Josephine? Is he dreaming?

“Jonathan, are you out of your mind? Get the Turner family to apologize to her? Who do you think she is?”

“Jonathan, don’t assume you can look down upon everyone else just because you know Zachary. Let me give it to you straight. Compared to the Turner family, you are a nobody!”

“Do you know how many members of the Turner family hold high positions in the King of War Division?”

“Do you even know their moniker? The Turner family is known as the vice governor’s office. And yet, you insist on wanting them to apologize to Josephine? Why don’t you get the sun to rise in the west instead?”

Evidently, Jonathan looked like a nutcase to them when he made his assertions.

Getting the Turner family to apologize was no different from asking the impossible.

“I’m not sure if the sun will ever do that, but I’m certain the Turner family will kneel before Josephine and admit their mistake sooner or later, just like what happened to the Blackwood family.”

Jonathan’s expression was indifferent as if the Turner family were nothing but insects to him.

If he had really wanted it, he would have destroyed them a long time ago.

“Enough. Stop boasting, Jonathan. If you’re as capable as you claim, why don’t you give the King of War a call and ask him to get the Turner family to forgive us?”

“Precisely. Don’t you know the King of War? You should call him right now.”

“Show us whether the King of War really respects you.”

Having heard Jonathan’s words, everyone else responded with sarcasm.

Aren’t you the amazing Jonathan? Don’t you know the King of War? Give him a call then! Let’s see if your words carry more weight than those of the Turner family in front of the King of War!

“The insignificant Turner family isn’t worth my effort in making a call.” Jonathan’s expression was filled with contempt.

During the war all those years, he had eliminated countless families.

Therefore, the Turner family was nothing to him.

"Enough, Jonathan. You can drop the act. If you're as powerful as you claim, would the Turner family even be breathing down our necks?" Ezra couldn't resist scoffing at Jonathan's words. "If what you say is true, the King of War would have already warned the Turner family off, and we wouldn't be in this predicament. Don't tell me that he isn't aware of such an important matter?"

"He is!" Jonathan replied plainly.

Zachary already knew about it before the Turner family kicked up a fuss.

"In that case, why doesn't he get involved? Why hasn't he warned them yet?" Ezra sneered.

"I didn't allow him to." Jonathan quipped. "This is my problem, which I will solve by myself."

"Go on, continue with that act. Who do you think you are? Asura? Even the King of War has to take orders from you? Does he need your permission whether to get involved or not?"

Ezra responded with a contemptuous smile as if Jonathan was nothing but an idiot to him.

"That's right. I am indeed Asura!" Jonathan asserted.

"What did you say? Did I hear it wrong? Did all of you hear it? Jonathan claims that he is Asura!" Suddenly, Ezra laughed so hard that he had to hold his stomach.

It was as if he had heard the greatest joke in the world.

"Enough. Why are you reasoning with a lunatic?" Miguel glared fiercely at Ezra before turning his attention to Hugo. "Dad, don't waste any more time with them. Just take action. The longer we delay, the worse it gets for us."

"Josephine, I'm giving you one last chance. Are you apologizing or not?" Hugo stared intently at Josephine.

Biting her lip, Josephine replied defiantly, "Never!"

"In that case, you brought this upon yourself." Narrowing his eyes, Hugo waved his hand. "Seize her!"

"Yes!"

Upon his command, his subordinates rushed forward in an attempt to capture Josephine.

However, before they could lay a finger on her, the loud crack of fracturing bones rang out. The subordinate who was closest to Jonathan dropped to his knees at once.

It turned out that his femur had been kicked broken by Jonathan.