

Lie To Me Alpha Chapter 100

Chapter 100: Pieces Of Us

I cry rubbing my arms not knowing where I am right now. I don't even know what is going to happen to me.

Everything in my life was a lie, his love was a lie, my life is nothing but a lie and I can't even breathe anymore.

Every steps I take suffocates me. I badly wanted to breathe but everything is taking all of my energy. I sat under a tree trying to warm myself with eyes darting around me for any light to guide or even a soul to help me.

Gradually piece by piece I am losing all of me. Actually no I am already lost and alone with no one to turn to not even my grandma.

No definitely not her as I just don't want to give her a heart attack now.

I hear leaves twixt and I turn to find Matteo and I shut my eyes refusing to look at him. I thought I already set things with him and others yet he still followed me.

"Addasah" I close my ears with my hands refusing to listen to his voice.

Shaking my head no I refuse to listen or see him as my tears drops from my eyes.

I felt hands on my hands holding me in place and I cry out loud like a child in front of him.

I fell into his chest sobbing out then pushing him away. I ended up punching him but he never fell down as his hold tighten around me.

The both of us now crying together in the middle of the woods. I didn't care what he thinks anymore but I just let every barriers and emotions I have been bottle up let go again.

He pull me back while I am still crying "shhhh" he tried to wipe them off but they just kept flowing from eyes nonstop.

"I" sob "love you" sob "that it's hurt so much" I sob between my words.2

Pushing away from him I stood up and shout at him with my tears never failing to stop

"Why? Why Matteo? Why not tell me now that all you do was for revenge and using me" I pointed to myself with anger.

“Would you believe me if I tell you everything?”

“I don’t know Matteo, I have been giving you hints to tell me the truth through the past days but you never did... You lie to me.. Our love was base on a lie... Maybe my dad has ask you to hid it from me but somehow you should have told me. I mean it’s been months now and yet you never did.”<sup>1</sup>

I took deep breaths and there was silence between the two of us “yet by all means please I need to know, why did you hurt me like this?” I beg him through my tears.

“I will tell you and I know you already know some part of it but let me tell you my side of story.”

I could feel his emotions and the pain through his eyes “but after I tell mine please do what I tell you do because I know it’s what you needed. But please remember that I have and will always and achingly love you my Addasah.”

He stood there for minutes not saying anything before he shook his head and repeated my question

“why?”

He took another two steps closer to me “I fell in love and was selfish to let you go.” he began to explain everything to me.

“When we first met I thought I was in love with Quinn and I did selfish choices that even now I’m not so proud of.”<sup>2</sup>

But know that the first time I said I love words to you at the park I meant but it just that I was afraid to admit it not until later on I realised that my words and feelings were not wrong. “

I try to control my tears but I just couldn’t stop them as I listen in to him.

“The promises I made to you. I truly meant it. Four years I did waited for you to come back but nothing goes in my way. You see my father doesn’t want us together and he did everything in his power to keep us apart,” he cried

“I was force to mate Quinn if not your parents died. So I did what I thought was right because I couldn’t let you hate me forever if your parents died that night.”<sup>1</sup>

He sniffle turning to the other side “I became rogue afterwards and I came back to challenge my father only to find out Quinn is carrying my pup” he pause clenching his fist tightly.

"I couldn't undo it and how I wish it wasn't mine unfortunately it was mine. I promise your parents we will tell you when you come back and I thought you wouldn't be there that night.

Taking responsibility for Jona I decide to make her my mate. I guess I wanted to play a perfect father since my family was all fuck up" he shook his head wiping off his tears.<sup>2</sup>

"Yet when you show up that night everything went awry. I couldn't do it anymore, I can never be that guy. I didn't want to hurt you which was pretty too late. As the damage was done and you were force to lose your memories.

When your father offer to keep the secret of you being compel. I took it because I wanted to live with you in those moments. I was selfish because I was fucking in love and I couldn't let go."

My heart broke even more hearing his confession and I don't even know what to do anymore whether to stay or go away.

"Indeed, you have to know I did try to tell you. Can you recall any of the moments I try to but we're always interrupted and today I was about to confess everything that is why everyone was there but I guess I was too late for that too" he says in tears.

In that moment I thought back to all the times we were alone and the time he told me he wasn't a good person to me before. He fell in love with someone before he met me.

To think it over and over again he is right and I was always the one who says that everything is going to be okay, that I will always be there for him when the times comes.

Yet look at me, all the promises I made were nothing but just empty ones. Somehow this wasn't his entire fault some part was mine too. He did gave me hints and even told me some part of it but I too was selfish to be happy that I didn't even listen.<sup>5</sup>

Now the truth is out and I am more hurt than anyone because I did not listen.

"I'm sorry Addasah you have to live with my lies. I'm sorry for being chosen as your mate. I am really sorry for everything but do know that loving you was not a lie. Every moment we spent together was never a lie for me because I did truly love you with all of myself"

Taking a step closer to me he took my hands into his "I have done enough damage in your life Addasah, up until now I thought my choices were right only to realise late that nothing I did was right. It was all in my benefit while you were in the losing edge."

I keep on sobbing and wanted to tell him that he wasn't selfish because actually I was happy with him during those times.

Matteo moves and caress my cheek "I love you and if you see and can never forgive me I understand and I'll stand by whatever you choose now. If your happiness is not with me, then move on and find someone better than me"

His eyes close and suddenly his hands withdrawn from mine then clenched them tightly showing his white knuckles. I could see that he is fighting his own battle whether to let me go or not.

So this is what he meant before he is going to let me go without fighting anymore. I guess maybe this is best for the both of us now.

It's actually what I wanted now and I thank him silently for doing this even though I could see the pain and hurt in his eyes.

I didn't even want him to fight for us now and I'm grateful for that because I can't take this pain and pretend everything will be alright now.

His tears slip out of his close eyes "please go" his voice broke "please" he sobs and I took slower steps back taking in all of him, picturing him in my mind.

I want to imprint him in my head one last time. I want to hold on to my memories of him, the mate that I will never have.

Each step I takes becomes harder and harder. I couldn't even restraint myself from staying here with him with a last bit of my courage I turn around and started to run.

I heard him broke down there crying out but never utter my name and I know why he wouldn't scream it. He didn't want me to turn back and it broke my heart to hear his cries.

I run fast before I slow myself down and broke into more tears.

My hand went to my mouth trying to suppress it but I couldn't.

I fall on my knees crying out into the cold night.

I hear his howls and I sob even more beating on my heart.

This is us, there was no more us anymore.

The whole perfect loving mates as of tonight and for the rest of our lives it's just going to be pieces of us.

Lie To Me Alpha Chapter 101

Chapter 101: Love Is A Losing Game

Matteo's Pov

5 years later

A lot of things has happened throughout these past five years after she left me.

Lorentz left Quinn too on the same night. He move to the humans side and start his own life there without looking back.

Both people we love left us, all because of our selfish act and unforgiveable mistakes we did in the past.<sup>1</sup>

Today is the first time I attended a meeting usually Jay and Jona does on my behalf but an accident happens a year ago which left Quinn crippled and Jona died.

It was indeed my punishment from the moon goddess. I guess karma will always follow our way and its how I almost have nothing now.

Its true that I almost lost everything except for my own pack. They came to understand me and try to support me by standing by my side without questioning my choices and the absence of a luna.

That is right I never had another luna or anyone I chose to be a luna for me after Addasah. I was all alone in this world without the love of my life.

The Alphas from other packs started to come in the conference room. Eric and Dante wave in my way before sitting on their seat beside their luna.

They have been good friends to me through out this years. When they came to know the whole truth they never judge me for it or even cast away my pack and I from the world of prestigious Alphas and Pack.

They were really understanding and have told me their own experiences saying that they were not better than me either.

I look up at the room's door and saw Aaron nod in my way once he enter the room.

He came and sat beside me patting me on the back "it's good to have you back Matteo," he said with a smile.

Yeah and you don't get to forget my cousin and Jay who have help me through the pain apart from others.

Everyone was here except for one Alpha who says to run in a bit late. I have heard of this new Alpha and his luna but never I have met him as this is my first time in a meeting since five years.

I chat with Aaron and other Alphas from other pack. Glad nobody brought up the death of Jona or having no luna. Suddenly the doors open and that's when I saw her.

My Mate, my love, my woman, the one I lost 5 years back then. There was no more bond binding us to one another as our separation kills those sparks but unbelievably the feelings I have for her was infinity.

My heart, my body, my soul are still tied to her.

Her sapphire eyes lighten the room. The same eyes I use to dream of every night, the ones I look in to when we made passionate love all night years ago.

Her black hair now highlights with red hair neatly done in an updo bun with curly hair loosen down her face.

The hair I wish to touch one more time before I die.

Her face filled with radiant, no longer have any dark shades under those beautiful eyes.

Every inch of her body and soul I always imprint them in my head and heart.

One of the announce that meeting is now starting as everyone is here now, including the luna of the Pack we have been waiting for.

My heart clench hearing that the luna of the last pack is here instead of the Alpha. My eyes moves from her to two young pups behind her.<sup>2</sup>

My breath hitch and I felt Aaron's hand patting my shoulder in which I turn and told him that I'm okay. Yet this is too much for me to see and witness.

Watching her from across the room was unbearable with two grown up pups pulling on her skirt calling her "mama."

'How lucky is the one whom they call their father,' I thought to myself as I keep staring at her.<sup>4</sup>

I wish they were mine and she is still mine unfortunately they aren't anymore. I bet she now belongs to someone else and how lucky is that person to have her as their mate and luna.<sup>3</sup>

She usher the two young pups out to their baby sister before taking a seat and smile around the room. Her eyes glance around until they are finally on mine.

We look into each others eyes almost forever. It feels like the world has frozen and there was no one in this room but just the two of us.

My mouth stretch into a smile while at the same time I am trying to be brave and that's when she gave me the brightest smile that I always remember.

It was that same smile she gave me when I first officially ask her out as my girlfriend. She is happy and that all matters to me now.

Seeing her engage freely and smiling from here to there in the room flutters my heart.

Of course my heart always belongs to her alone even though everything still hurts. Yet all that matters is that she is happier than ever.

She has moved on and found someone that loves her sincerely, deserves her better and is good enough for her.

I won't ever compare myself to the one she has chosen and I have no right to feel jealous or mad. I have standby my words to her and I won't be any more obstacles in her life.

She deserves that smile and her own happy family after all the pain I made her go through.

The guilt that has been eating up soul is no longer there in me. Everything weigh was gone but was replaced with sorrow and regret.

I still remember what she told me years back that I would never know how she felt of everything then; me choosing her, me loving her, me having a kid with her.

She may be wrong then because what she felt back then is what I felt every moments of this life.

Losing her was enough for me to know what it feels like to be unloved, to be hurt, to be broken, to be upset, to be angry and to regret every choice I ever made.

This love I have is already a losing game, where I am already lost in this game of love and mates.

Lie To Me Alpha Chapter 102

Chapter 102: Lie To Me Alpha

Seeing him after five years I smile with sincerity as there was no pain or hurt anymore between us.

I don't loathe or regret him. The only thing I'm feeling right now is pure happiness.

Today I didn't expect him to be here in this meeting as usually Jay and his son Jona attends. If I knew he would be here I wouldn't have brought the twins today.

Yes, there wasn't anyone who could handle them back at home. I swear I called Tricia who came over and take them outside as they were whinny and wanted to stay here with me but I just couldn't do that.

This meeting is important to me, as I will announce my resignation as a substitute luna to the Owslebury Pack.

Yet seeing him today changes my mind and maybe I'll do that when I get back home.

A lot of things happened to me when I left him that night. I was able to go back to my grandma and took Wesley with me then we move to Owslebury Pack.

It was a new Pack at the time and basically Alpha Jordan and his Luna Kristen was recruiting anyone who wants to live a normal life instead of becoming lone and rogue.

So I settled there as it was a new start for me and over the years the pack extends and now we have the largest number not bigger than Dante and Aaron.

Today I'm here as a luna because Luna Kristen is now bedridden and requested for me to be her substitute for the meantime.<sup>3</sup>

It was either that or I have to mate Alpha Jordan fully and become their official luna.<sup>4</sup>

He's been a good and great Alpha but he wasn't the one I want, neither the one made for me. He wasn't the twins father and I could never do that to my babies.<sup>1</sup>

It's something that I would never do since I am sincerely happy with what and where I am now especially my two bundle of joy.

Having two pup is a blessing in to my life by the moon goddess after all the pain and hurt I went through.

So yes they are Matt and mine.<sup>3</sup>

When I left I found out the later day that I was carrying his pups. I almost went back to him after a week but I decided not to as I have my own reasons.<sup>4</sup>

I look from across the room and saw him looking at me and I swear his sons and mine, the ones he never knew of are a copy of him.

Except one has dark green forest eyes like his and the other has sapphire like mine.

So they were kind of both our mixture when it comes to eyes. Other than that they both look like their father.

Sometimes I complain that I was the one who carry them and in the end they have his look. Nevertheless I love my pups as they are my saving grace.<sup>5</sup>

There are times that I always wonder if I had made a right choice by not going back to him. Yet deep down inside I always knew why I chose what I thought was right and it was the right choice.

Legacy is something I wanted to give to our pups without competition. I didn't want them to compete with her son for their father's title or his love.

I didn't want them to ever grew up with thought like 'which is the most favourite and which is less favorable? whom to inherit and whom to not?

What I did was for my pups and myself. I didn't want them to be torn between love and hate. Watching them grown up with all the love and care I give along with their uncle's support was indeed the best thing to do.

They knew who their father is cause I told them in vague details with no negative story line. Only to replace it with the word complicated as I didn't want them to be grown up filling with hate and holding grudges.<sup>4</sup>

I have also shown them his photo, that one photo we have together on the night of the Gala and our mating which was given to me by Elle.

After the meeting I quickly got up to attend my sons. I found them both playing outside with Tricia watching over them.

"Addasah" I turn around to find him standing not to far from me.

Like I said there was no hate or pain there but I would say my heart did race a little but not as badly as it was when we were together.

"Hello Matteo" I gave him a smile but something was pulling on the edge of my skirt.

I turned down to find Matthew and Mason tugging on my skirt while both pointing at Matteo.

"Daddy" they both said more like screaming in unison. I swear these two are going to be the death of me one day.

His eyes set on his sons with surprise. He then look back and forth between me and the twins who are now running in his way.

As if he just notice and came out of his shocking state he sat down on his hunches spreading his arms wide for them.

The boys run in to his arms hugging the life out of him. He laugh a little holding on to them with a look as if he's about to cry.

Actually he is crying as he held them tight before pulling back and kisses on their forehead. I knew this day would come.

Watching them as they have their own moments made me wish that we were a family but I know I wouldn't go back or maybe that is just my thoughts for now.

He released them and I motion for Tricia to takes them away as I know Matteo has some questions. Yet the two refuse to leave his side and so I have to convince them that their father will always be here and he won't go away.

They pouted their lips folding their arms. Warning me that he better not disappear which I roll my eyes at them promising that he won't.

They gave us both a kiss on the cheek before they happily left with Tricia.

He wipe off his tears "how long?"

"I found out a day after I left" I lick my dry lips nervously.

"I'm sorry" he apologise and stood up with, his eyes now filled with tears again but I only gave him a smile, the ones that hid the sad and pain behind it.

"You know I won't stop you from seeing them" I said and he thanks me.

I know that he should be livid like other mate when they found out their mates have hidden his pups from him. Yet I know Matteo so well.

He will never be mad at me, especially when he knows he has done so many wrongs towards me.

We both stood there watching our sons as they both play with Tricia before we turn and gaze into each others eyes.

Looking at him this upclose did not bring anymore pain to me. I am happy but I am reluctant when I truly saw that he is not the same old Matteo.<sup>2</sup>

My thoughts now keeps running through my head and in my head I was repeating every words that I practice to tell him but never get the chance to after everything that happens.

Even now I don't have the courage to say it out loud except to replay it in my head while gazing up at him.

'we could be one of the couple like Elle and Eric or Dante and Dani.

We could have been a happy family together with our kids both grown up.

Unfortunately we could not have all of it.

And this distance between us was all because you lie to me Alpha."