: Gone with Lies

'Quite when I'm coming home

And I'm on my own

I could lie say I like it like...'

Those are the words of the song I hear as I watch him take her hand into his.

In my head, Alera starts to claw her way out while I keep on whispering to myself that he lies.

My hand clutched on his ring tightly with my eyes fixed on him.

He kisses her hand smiling at her then leads her to the dance floor.

I stumble back sitting on a nearby chair hiding from everyone.

I try to control my breath as I watch them dancing on the floor with all eyes on them before other lunas and their Alpha's join in the dance.

Cora and Gia step forward trying to help me up but I held up my hands stopping them from coming any closer to me.

ADVERTISEMENT

I heard my friends sniffing "Addy" but I stop them both.

"Please leave" I beg them as I close my eyes with a lone tear falling on my lap.

"Please" I pleaded again but still they tried to come near me.

I refused to look at them both begging them to leave me alone. In the end, they finally did and my closed eyes were starting to tear up with tears.

Slowly I open up my eyes again wishing it was just a dream. Yet once it fully opens I was in the same position but only this time I find a pregnant female's eyes on me.

I know she is a luna as her hand was around an Alpha whom I take a good look at and found that it was none other than Dante.

She looks at me as if she could feel my sorrow and pain. It was like she knew what I am feeling right now as her eyes were now replaced with sympathy which I didn't like at all.

It's not what I want anyone to feel for me now. Then I avoided her and turn my eyes to the couple behind them.

The mate who once again broke me with his lies. I can't believe this, four years. I've been away from our pack for four years at College and four years I haven't seen him since he last made those promises to me in my house.

I was free there within those four years. There was no him or her to think about and to get hurt from. Yet here he is right here in front of me with his empty promises and I the idiot bought those lies again.

Thinking again my wolf Alera was stronger than ever. She has learned how to be independent. We both are strong without relying on our mate for saving or any help.

ADVERTISEMENT

We thought we could live in that way yet how wrong we assumed. As one glance at our mate and his fiancée and we're both back to where we have been.

The broken girl who has finally been free and in peace within those years is now in her dilemma again. We are right where he put us in the beginning.

'quite when I'm coming home and I'm on my own

The song chorus keeps on repeated adding pain to my heart as I watch him and thought about everything.

He lied... He lie to me when I left for college and all his promises to be a better mate were nothing but lies.

There he is dancing with her on the dance floor.

Happily, in love with one another while the Alphas and the audience look on cheering for a happy couple of the hour.

Their thunderous sound of claps in approval to their union echoes through the mansion and out of the hollow night.

After he officially announced it, that she was her mate and not me.

Finally, he's going to mate the one he loves but not the one he was promised to.

ADVERTISEMENT

His eyes landed on mine as a lone teardrop from my eyes. His eyes widen as if he just realized his true mate was present. That I have been watching all night long.

I couldn't take the sight anymore as I smile at him knowingly before I stood up and left the ball in agony.

My wolf's guard was down she was whimpering in pain but there was nothing I could do to help numb the pain.

"Adaah" I heard him calling my name along with heels clicking on the marble floor but I kept ongoing.

"Adaah" he screams but I quicken my steps even more "Adaah" he shouted again.

Too late I felt something like a force hitting me and my body flew up in the air.

Throwing me backward then hit the cement wall hard. My head pounded on statue blood dripping from my head.

I heard emergency sirens then saw people coming out of the mansion shifting into their wolves form.

Then I saw him, calling my name while running towards me.

My vision blurred, my eyes felt heavy and all I could remember was that I'm gone forever with nothing but lies of the Alpha.

: Choice

Matteo's Pov

I have been doing a lot of thinking, which causes me restless nights on whether should I do it or not.

In the end, I made a choice and I just hope it is right because to me it seems right.

Tonight I want to move on and start my life with my family. I know it's not with Adaah but I have to take ownership of what happened.

For four years I have been in pain but just now I want to be redeemed. I may not love Quinn anymore but she's carrying my heir.

People may call it a mistake, I do too deep within me but I'll never admit that to anyone because I don't want my child thinking she or he is a mistake.

After all, it wasn't his/her fault that he was to be born in this world.

It happens two months ago when I was still drunk over being heartbroken and almost on the brink of committing suicide when my dad came home and force me to mate Quinn.

I was at the lowest point of my life and I hated that in my most vulnerable state he caught his prey.

I'll never forget the look he gave me and made me feel that night. He made me feel worthless and weak, and I was beyond disgust.

ADVERTISEMENT

In his Alpha position, he commands me to mate her in front of Lyndon and Mia.

Lyndon could have easily killed him but my dad has all the cards and the upper hand. That's the night I discovered another secret that Adaah's father is a pure hybrid. The ones who are wanted and most hunted by our kinds.

All Alphas are to extinct Lyndon's kinds but my father knew that to have a hybrid he would be able to fight against all odds or any danger near the pack. Indeed, it is the very reason he made him a top warrior.

The night they escape with my mother that's the night they discovered his identy.

My father in his victory grin has told me all about it and so he has brought them over when I refuse to comply with his commands.

I could have reached anyone for help or Luna Shina but my dad knows how to play his cards well at the time. He knew when to warn, threaten and when to strike without anyone noticing.

So that horrible night of my life if I didn't do what he says he would have killed Adaah's parents right there in front of me. Which options were better, me being with Adaah or her parent's death in my hands.

So I did it, I agree to Mate her and as we did, all I think of was Addasah. The one meant for me and when I have my released that night her name was the one I scream.

After that horrible night, I never wanted to see anyone again even my friends. Lyndon tries to reach out for me but I was ashamed, too ashamed to face him and Mia or even with Adaah if she's to come back.

They told me Adaah would understand if I tell the truth when she returns but none of it made me feel better. As my mind already set that I was worthless and she deserved a better mate.

I disappeared from my pack afterward. I know my father has been lying about me on training but the truth was I was gone rogue for a while. I live that life and can make fewer friends and learn almost every single thing about them.

ADVERTISEMENT

Ever since Alpha Hernandez defeated the rogues' Alpha months ago. Every rogue was now free and has lived their life peacefully.

Yet there are still some of them who try to invade other pack territories.

The biggest threat on our territory over the years and is still around is my mom's lover and best friend James. He has been seeking revenge on my father and Lyndon. Constantly our borders have been attacked by him but he never succeeds.

Six days ago I came back strong and challenge my father in front of the Pack. I made him feel everything I felt back then when he made me feel worthless.

I want to kill him after I won yet I didn't want his blood to be on my hands. So I lock him in a cell. He tries to announce that Lyndon was a Hybrid but I made it clear to everyone that it was a lie.

Hybrids are hard to be accepted in any pack and they are being hunted to be killed. Lyndon being a pureblood brought danger to his family.

I am relieved that Adaah isn't one as she's a normal werewolf but the baby her mother is carrying is probably a hybrid.

About my father's old beta, gamma and delta I have replaced them immediately.

Those three have been helping my dad create hell in my life by following his commands. I stripped them off from their tles with a warning not to try anything funny or they'll be rogues.

Evan became the Delta replacing his father. He has nothing to do with his father's choices. Shalom became the gamma replacing his uncle who is none other than Quinn's stepfather.

Jay is my substute beta for the meantime. He did not want to take full responsibility as a beta in my pack.

ADVERTISEMENT

I look myself over the mirror and thought of my decision. It may have not been easy even though someone I love will hurt the most but I needed this for my unborn child.

I'm not like those men who neglected her/him just because I don't love her mother. It's my responsibility to be the best father in her life. I hope what I'm doing is right.

Mia and Lyndon have already been granted freedom and tonight maybe be their last night here in my Pack.

They have agreed to take Adaah away from her, once we sit down and I tell her my decision and apologize to her for breaking my promises.

I even ask them to give me another month but I guess I didn't honor my words again as I will be introducing someone else as my luna without them knowing.

I was going to tell them but Jay has informed me that our top warrior is in the hospital. There I didn't want to bother them.

Indeed, I heard Adaah is still in training and I'm sure she won't be here tonight.

"Alpha"

I turn to see Jay leaning against the door "it's time now everyone is here."

I nod my head taking one last look at myself before heading downstairs to make an entrance.

: Erroneous Choice

Matteo's Pov

Before I made my entrance I saw Quinn laughing with her friends once she saw me she put on a big smile and walk in my way.

"I'm so excited for tonight" she keeps looking down the hallway where people are making entries inside the house.

"Keep on smiling like that cause it will be the only night you'll ever be" the smile left her face

"You know I love you-"

"Don't give me that love b because I don't" she started to tear up but I didn't feel any sympathy for her.

If she didn't push for us together after Adaah left, we wouldn't be in this situation.

"Just know you're just a breed to my child, nothing more"

I took off a handkerchief from my pocket and threw it to her

"Wipe those fing tears and act just like how we have been practicing for a week now"

I walk away from her and head downstairs leaving her behind.

When I arrive down the hall a lot of Alphas and Beta have arrived. I was then approached by Alpha Hernandez.

"Alpha Hernandez"

"Please, it's Dante we're no strangers to have tles with each other, are we?" he pats on my shoulder.

"So I heard you've been on training"

I raise my brow knowing very well this is one of the lies my dad told everyone when I ran away and went rogue.

"Yeah, something like that. How's it going with you?" I ask

ADVERTISEMENT

"Dante" his luna interrupt us she was rubbing at her stomach, then he leans and kisses her forehead. He pulls her closer with a smile "everything is perfectly fine"

His interaction with his luna made me second guess my choice yet again I tried to forget it.

"How are things with Adaah?" he asks and I froze forcing a smile on my face. His luna looks between the two of us.

Luckily Cora came and took her away from her mate leaving the two of us alone. If I could recall I think he's the only one who knew that Adaah and I are mates "Ummm" I rub the back of my head.

"It's over after tonight as... I don't know" he squints his brow before whispering to me in a low voice

"Just an advice Matteo, I don't know what you're deciding tonight but know that if you f up tonight, your life will be forever fed up. Trust me I'm just lucky to be accepted by my mate again" he then gave a slap on my shoulder.

"Take it from someone who has been an a, jerk, and other spiteful words to his mate" he looks in her direction and smiles again.

"Alpha" we turn to face Alpha Gibson, his luna Elle, my cousin Aaron, his Mate, and Alpha Zeus with his mate.

"Alpha" they both dismissively don't want to be called Alpha am us. After all, we're all alliance and friends here.

We all talk for a while making my night feel a little bit better. Sometime later I was going to head to Quinn when someone pulls me back to a corner.

I turn to find an angry Gia yanking at my arm. In her harsh tone, she whispers to me

"Is it true you're announcing Quinn as your luna tonight?" she looks at me for confirmation.

"It's none of your business who I have chosen as my luna" I dare her and she seizes me up with her eyes.

"It is when my friend is your mate" she glares at me. "I curse you Alpha and I hope when you have kids with her" she meant Quinn "may it fall upon their head."

I clench my fist and was about to retaliate when someone intercepted. She spits on the ground

"Gia, what's going on?" Cora came behind her. She swirls around and they both turn to go I could hear them both whispering.

Then I heard Cora cursing "motherfer" she turn to lunge at me but Gia held her back.

I walk away from them suppressing my anger and try to act as nothing happens a minute ago.

When it's time I saw Quinn coming from the stairs, pretending to be happy and in love. I reach my hand out to her with a forced smile.

I introduced her around despite a disappointing look from Dante I ignore it and went on to others.

The evening went on with bliss and all these heavy burdens on my shoulder start to weigh a little.

I did the announcement, my first take as an Alpha, and then my chosen luna.

Right when I thought everything is going to be alright after the announcement I saw her.

She was right here from across the room watching my every move with Quinn.

My breath hitch, I cannot believe she is here. I saw her looking at me with sadness and pain.

She shouldn't be here tonight, I thought she won't be here until her training is over.

All my decisions or choices of moving on and being a perfect family man for my child threw out of the window.

My promise to be a better mate and to wait for her replays in my head as our eyes lock on each other.

My heart races and wildly beats for her. Thunder whimpers in my head knowing that we have broken her again. I took a step forward still in shock of her appearance tonight.

Her hand went to her neck and that's when I saw the ring I gave her. She still kept it and again I felt like dying. What am I doing to her?

A tear drops from her eyes as she rips off the necklace with the ring falling on the ground then abruptly she turns around and made her way for the door crying.

"Adaah" I call after her, leaving Quinn behind in the middle of the dance floor.

All Alphas, lunas, and other guests head to turn my way but I ignored it all and chase after her.

"Matteo" Quinn calls after me with her steps quicker as she was also following behind me but too late I am not stopping here.

I run for Adaah calling out her name.

"Alpha we're under attack" one of the warriors links me.

ADVERTISEMENT

My eyes widen and I quicken my steps to catch up with Adaah.

"Adaah" I shouted yet she keeps on running. "Adaah" I growl at her trying to match up to my speed.

"Adaah" my wolf howl and I was in fear when I saw wolves with red eyes and in subtle states emerged from the forest. They have already crossed over our borders.

"Adaah"

I shouted and I saw a white fur wolf slam against her, pushing her out of the way and sending her over the cement.

Her head hits a statue as the silver bullet hits the white wolf.

"Mia"

A loud growl was heard from across the lawn. I turn to find Lyndon shifting and running towards the wolf lying on the ground.

"No, it can't be," I run towards Adaah.

The guests of the evening came running out of the mansion.

All Alphas who have come out began to shift. I saw Dante, with his luna behind him. He kisses her on the forehead then he snarls before shifting and charging at the feral wolves.

Eric with his Beta and Elle who have already shifted, attacks on the other side while Aaron and Zeus were fighting against other ferals leading others.

"Adaah" I growl when a feral wolf made its way towards her.

I jump shifting into Thunder and we push to move forward.

The feral wolf didn't get to lay a single finger on her as I rip him into half before he dares to lay a hand on her.

I am glad to have her in my arms but the moment I look back.

I knew then Dante's words were true that my life is now fed up forever.

Mia's Pov (Adaah's mom)

"She is going to be so proud to see her brother once he's born" Lyndon put his hand around me and put his hand on my stomach.

I can't believe after trying for so many years and finally we are going to have him in our arms.

"Your sister will be so proud to see you little man" I rub my stomach then felt his kick making us both smile.

We have been in the hospital for 3 days now and Adaah calls today wanting to come home but we didn't want to trouble or worry her.

I have been admitted earlier because there were complications to my pregnancy.

"You know I don't think she is going to take our words," Lyndon says.

"Probably she wouldn't, especially when we're expecting him soon," I smile looking up at him.

"You better call her up" he fish for his phone in his pocket then he looks at me with bewilderment.

"I think I forgot mine at home"

"What about mine that we use, it's in the draw" Lyndon checks the draw and came back with a frown on his face "the battery is dead."

He then went to charge it before he turns for the door.

"Where are you going?"

"Find a phone to call her" Lyndon went out to call Adaah while I sat there rubbing my bulged stomach.

He came back inside "she declines the call"

Oh, right I forgot my daughter does not answer calls from other numbers unless it is ours. I always reminded her if something happens to us and someone else calls her but she is one stubborn young woman.

Thinking of Adaah I always wanted to tell her the truth and everything else but I am afraid to hurt her even more. Even though it's too late as that b hurt her already. Something that I was always afraid of, for my baby to be broken.

She may be a big girl but I know my daughter very well. Despite her strong personality but people could easily break her. She has been hurt too much so I want her to heal herself first and finish her studies.

ADVERTISEMENT

I believe we have a lot to talk about when she comes back. So we have a plan to tell her the whole truth after tonight. Yeah, after Matteo became Alpha he granted us freedom.

Yet he wanted to talk face to face with Adaah before we go away from here. I always wanted to tell my daughter what's going on but Matteo begs us not to until he talks to her.

We owe it to him since he saves us from the night his father was going to expose and kill us.

We have decided that we'll gonna bring her back home tomorrow and reveal everything before we move to another Pack starting a new life there. Well, scratch those two months we told her to stay there.

Lyndon came and kisses my forehead. "I love you" I nuzzled into his arms "I love you more" he replies.

"Always" I added on.

As I said these words I felt something twisted within me.

Why do I feel like there is something that's going to happen? Why do I have this heavy feeling on my chest?

I know something is wrong. Let's just say mother's instinct but couldn't get my head on what is it.

"Lyndon love, can you check my phone's battery again please, I think we need to call Adaah."

Before Lyndon touch it the phone rings. I watch as he takes the call then his expression went down. Feeling that something happens I ask hastily

"What's going on?"

He stood there gripping the phone "Adaah she's here and she's at the ball."

"Then what's wrong? I mean isn't this good that she's here tonight?"

He cut me off "Matteo never said anything but he's announcing it tonight"

I look on with confused "what do you mean?"

"Gia says the purpose of tonight's ball is his welcoming as an Alpha and the official announcement of Quinn as his Mate"

My heart drops, oh no my poor daughter not again. I began to panic, why is he doing this he said he wouldn't announce it until Adaah knows.

'It can't be' I ramble on while taking off my IV

ADVERTISEMENT

"Where are you going?" I was in a panic; my daughter needs me. "To find her?" I put on my slippers Lyndon held me back.

"You can't go in that condition, you are pregnant" I rip off my arms from his shouting

"I don't care, Lyndon, now is not the time... you know she's going to be devastated and I needed to be there for her. I promise to care for the both of us"

The warriors link us that intruders are making their way to the Pack mansion. My heart beat faster and before he reaches for me. I quickly divert towards the door and run out of the hospital.

"Lana protect our pup" I link to my wolf as I shifted in her form.

My paws now pounding on the ground as we run towards the Pack mansion. Lyndon growl not far behind me, he was warning me to go back but I was a runner.

I made it there to see her running from inside the mansion. I quicken my steps my heart broke for my daughter.

I just wanted to hold her in my arms and comfort her. I was near to her and so I kept on running. I saw wolves with red eyes in their half-human self-run across the lawn.

My eyes widen when I saw something silver going in her way.

"Adaah" I scream at the same time Matteo screams for her.

I made it there on time pushing her out of the way as the bullet went straight through my heart.

Blood, I saw blood on my hand but I am relieved it's not my daughter's blood.

"Adaah" I fell on the ground watching her flew in the air then came crashing down and in conscious

I wanted to reach out for my poor baby but my body was too weak.

My hand goes up in the air as if I'm about to reach her. "Adaah" I try to call her as tears start to water my eyes.

My voice is so low in a whisper "Adaah" I try to scream out at her.

I heard my name being called out and I watch as a feral wolf goes for her. My tears keep on falling my body trying to get to her but it was too weak.

I was swooped in the arms of my mate. My eyes were fixed on Adaah who is now held in the arms of Matteo with the wolf already being torn apart.

ADVERTISEMENT

Growls and snarls were heard everywhere but my attention was on my daughter and Mate.

The perfect love I receive, my one and only Lyndon I look up to him

"I'm. I'm... Sorry..."

My hand reached up for his cheek caressing them "I will always be with you and the kids... I love you..."

Stray of tears fell from my eyes as I watch him begging me not to let go.

I wanted to live for him and my kids but there's nothing I could do now. I wanted to watch Adaah find her love and have pups.

I want to watch my son grow up and play with his sister. I want to have one last dinner with the three of them.

My family that's what I want.

There are so many things I want and wish to do with my family but I know my time is up.

Adaah, my last thoughts on how I was waiting for her after four years. I was waiting for my baby to come home so that I could hold her once again and tell her that I'll never leave her side.

I wanted to tell her I'm sorry for everything. For not being truthful and only telling her to stay away from her mate.

And I only thought of what's best for her because the Alpha made it clear to us that he doesn't want her around his son. Matteo too was in love with another. I did it thinking I'm only protecting her.

I know some may say I was wrong I should have told her to fight for him; that she's grown up. No father or mother would ever want their daughters to be hurt, especially when she's all we have.

I have been praying for her safety back so that I can be the best mother she will ever have.

I made mistakes in my life and may not be the best mother in the eyes of others but what can I say I was also a human, a human who only knows how to love and see what I thought was right.

“Adaah” my only regret was not seeing the genuine smile on her face before I die. As a mother, I’ll always regret that because the last time I have seen her she was sad.

With my last breath, I whisper to Lyndon “Adaah... Made her...”

I whisper one last word before I close my eyes with darkness consuming me and my mate howling for me one last time.

: Shattered

Lyndon’s Pov

I am torn between my daughter and Mate right now.

Right when we were about to live a normal life as two mates with our pups without being haunted or target by the ex-Alpha. Everything we have including our dreams and hope is on the line here.

Everything has gone wrong now, not what we expected. In a way that I know my family could never be whole again.

I look at my daughter from across as the Alpha and others hover over her while Mia is in my arms and the war waging around us.

I cry rocking her back and forth before my wolf and I let out a ferocious howl as our hybrid side started to show.

Pushing up my legs I saw Matteo who is now in a short standing up with Adaah in his arms.

I wanted to rip off his head but I knew I have to get Mia quickly at the Pack hospital too.

We both rush towards the pack hospital’s direction as fighting erupted all around us. When we arrive, the pack doctors and nurses were already there waiting for us.

Matteo left instantly once Adaah was handed over to the doctor but before that he links me to stay here with them.

The others turn to me taking Mia out of my arms. My wolf growl possessively but the doctor just took her and has aured my wolf that they will take care of them.

I fell to the ground with my fist pounding it. I let out another howl before standing up in tears and stumbling my way inside the hospital.

My mind went crazy I don't know what to do. I pray no beg the moon goddess let her, our unborn pup, and Adaah live.

I stood there in the hospital hallway as doctors and nurses rushed from here to there.

I lean towards the wall waiting for any news on my family. I grip my hair falling against it until I was on the ground.

My head went crazy and I just hope for them to be alive and well. I long for them to be in my arms, my mate and pups.

It's my fault that they all are in that condition, my family. I am hurt and broken that because of me my family is now broken.

ADVERTISEMENT

My wolf keeps on whimpering within me and it took forever to wait for any news on them.

"Sir Lyndon"

The doctor came out sighing heavily. His head is lower in respect considering I'm their top warrior.

He gave me a big hug and all my hopes just came crashing down "I'm sorry but your mate we couldn't save her. We have tried but... I'm sorry Lyndon"

She's gone... Mia... my Mia

My heart

She's gone, how can this fate be so cruel to us.

Mia

"and our pup?" I ask aloud trying to be strong

"He's..." he sighed "he's out of danger. We were only able to save him" I felt a part of my relief that he was alive.

Adaah and I would live in remorse throughout our life if they were both gone. My 'mate' I keep on repeating her name in my head.

"Show me to her, my mate," I said in urgent and the doctor didn't stop for a second as he leads me to her.

When I made it inside, I saw her body on the surgery table covered in a white sheet

"Time of death is 9:16 pm."

The doctor's presence and his words didn't matter anymore. All my attention was on my mate's unmoving body.

The door opens and closed behind me. The doctor is no longer here with us.

I took small steps towards her. I wasn't rushing there as it was unbelievable that a while ago we were together happily and now she is gone from us.

ADVERTISEMENT

I kept on walking slowly until I reach her. My hands tremble while I reach for the cloth, afraid to believe that she is gone.

Tears began to gradually form in my eyes. My wolf howls through our links. I touch the end of the cloth with my trembling fingers.

Languidly I took off the sheet covering her body. She lay there still on the table with closed eyes.

My hands cupped her face and with that I burst out crying like a kid, letting all my emotions out, pulling her lifeless body in my arms.

"I'm sorry" I hug her body towards mine. "I'm sorry" I sob out loud while my wolf keeps on howling with my vampire side trying to push through.

I am a hybrid so I have part vampire and werewolf but I am always lenient to my wolf side dominating my body.

How can the moon goddess do this to us? To me and my family, I have never asked to be a hybrid or for my family to befall this tragic life.

How can the moon goddess be so cruel?

I cry there holding her in my arms as my thoughts go back to the second time we met when I was trying to push her away from me because I was a hybrid.

Flashback

"You didn't have to be an a" she glared at me "I'm bad for you" I retort.

She hisses at that "and you think I would run away crying like a prissy just because my mate is bad" I heave my shoulders and she took a step forward.

"How bad?" she asks "bad enough to make you go away"

"How bad?" she repeated "a hybrid" I blurted and she laughs probably thinking I was joking.

"Well I'm a crazy mate made for you" she took a step closer

"Hybrid, werewolf, warlock, or whatever you are. You are mine, not gonna leave anytime mate, even death will never keep me away from you."

She then whispers in my ear "I can aure you I'm your temptress you can't resist"

ADVERTISEMENT

She slams her lips on me after saying it and that was the moment I knew I won't be able to leave her.

Flashback ends here.

Yet here this instant I wasn't the one leaving. Here she is lying in my arms gone from me and my pups.

Those were one of the beautiful moments in our life. A moment that I will always cherish forever.

She is my firecracker and my temptress mate the moon goddess made for me.

I cry still holding onto her while reminiscing on our time as teenagers, then expecting Adaah and all the beautiful moments we have together with our pup.

There was a slight knock on the door "Sir Lyndon."

The doctor came inside with my pup in her arms, she handed me our baby boy.

I smile with tears as I watch him sleep peacefully. "I'm sorry" I apologized for many things especially the fact he won't grow up to see her.

He is never going to meet her; he's going to grow up without a mother. I know I'll always be there for my kids but the hole in their life could not be filled.

I may be able to fulfill her role for them but it wouldn't be enough as they will always need her.

There comes a time Adaah will look back and wish her mother was there. Even Wesley himself our little miracle will surely wish he grew up with his mother.

Indeed, his name is Wesley a name chosen by my mate.

I silently cry as I held him in my arms praying again that she would watch over us as our guardian angel.

We bid her goodbye before going out of the room and saw everyone busying around.

“Sir Lyndon?” a nurse said questionably at the same time she is standing in front of me trying to catch her breath.

“Your daughter is awake”

: Losing Myself

The door slams open and my father stood there breathing hard with his eyes all red which I aume is probably from crying.

It hasn't been that long since I have been awakening.

Without hesitation, my father ran and hugs me tightly against his chest.

Then I hear him sobs I hug him with my hands going up and down his back trying to comfort him.

“I'm fine dad” I whisper to him while trying to soothe him.

I saw a nurse standing at the door with something in her arms. She is rocking him back and forth. I kept on staring at the nurse who now smiles at me, and then I saw small hands reaching up in the air.

One word on my head 'mom' so I ask my dad. “Dad, where is mom?” his body became stiffened for a minute before he pulls away.

He held my hands in his “Adaah, your mom” he tries to say something but his emotions along with his tears stop him.

“Your mother is gone Adaah” he silently remains afterward.

There was a long pregnant pause with me still in shock and trying hard to process what he just said.

“Gone”

There was only one explanation for that as I know my parents so well. My mom would always be the one to be here first despite any situation yet today she wasn't. I almost forgot about that.

I always remember my mom came running to the principal's office whenever she received a call I was hurt or involved in a fight with the girls in my cla. I could never forget how she held me when I am crying or gently comfort me in her arms.

ADVERTISEMENT

'Mom,' I don't know when I'll ever forget the thought that she's gone, it is unacceptable.

In my situation, she and my dads are my life and the purpose I push to become better and do good no matter how many times people try to s up my life.

Tears drop from my eyes “gone” I began to murmur under my breath “gone.”

My dad just sat there not saying anything he is also fighting his own battle. Losing a mate and the love of his life is hard. He is trying his best to be strong for both of us but I know he isn't.

He tries to reach out for me again but this time I shrug off his hand.

“Mom” I murmur in a low whisper then constantly it increases.

I gaze back to the nurse with a baby in her arms. I almost forgot my mom was pregnant and if the nurse is here with him instead of her then that means my brother would never grow up with our mom. He would miss out on her love and care as a mom.

No doubt my dad would fill in her role but she would always be a missing puzzle to complete our family.

“Mom” I mutter again and suddenly something snaps within me.

Alera shut off our links as her furs color was now changing into midnight black.

She then began to hit the barrier ferociously between me her human side and her.

Alera wanted to break free from me. She wasn't becoming a part of me. She was trying to take all control and with that, I began to see red spots.

Blood was staining my eyes and Alera keeps hitting our barrier with her paws using her full strength. She is hurting me mentally with her pushing and howling for release.

ADVERTISEMENT

Growling within me, she is like a beast ready to pound on her enemies. A werewolf that seems to be unstoppable.

My vision now clouded, all I see now is red and my claws began to dig in my skin drawing blood out of my flesh.

“Gone” I kept on muttering then a laugh escapes my mouth. It was one of those laughs that only a crazy or even evil person would let out. Indeed it belongs to my wolf.

My hearing was clear that easily. I could detect any movement near or far from me. My father moves and I shot a look at my dad growling at him savagely.

Alera finally breaks our wall and she sneers with evil glint reaching forward for my dad. She tried to s his hand but I was quick to throw him off hitting the wall with the last strength as a human since my wolf is taking over.

The nurse stood there in shock with my brother still in her arms. “Get him out of here” my dad growls and she nodded her head quickly before running out of the room.

Alera growls even louder as the door was closed by my dad. She was going to follow her.

My father rushes towards me using his speed before she escapes from there.

He held my shoulder down tight before shaking me. “Adaah” he tries to get through me but my wolf was like a possessive demon with her teeth bearing at my dad.

She tries to break his arm as she was becoming defensive. I felt myself losing to her and our dark side.

There was a tiny bit of light before I am no more Adaah.

“Adaah control your wolf” too late Alera was taking control of my body pushing me at the back of our mind.

I sat there in a dark corner of our mind watching things getting ugly.

ADVERTISEMENT

She was full-on attacking my father.

Finally, I felt her emotions. My wolf was going to kill everyone who has hurt us especially our Mate. Killing them means erasing the one who tries to stop us.

My mom was the last thing she held on to but now she's gone. I am also gone.

I cry there silently like a lost child with my legs to my chest.

"Adaah" I heard a soft feminine voice then a small light but I still hold my head down between my bended knees. "Honey, you need to be strong."

I felt a warm hand on my cheek before it embraces me. "Know I'll always watch over you my sweet lovable Adaah Natasha Rumanoff. You're strong and your mom loves you, all of you my sweetheart"

'Mom,' I burst out crying there in the dark.

"Adaah looks at me" my dad's voice pulls me back. He orders with so much force in his voice and strangely my wolf stops fighting as we face him.

I gaze around and see the room in a wreck situation and now we have onlookers.

My dad turns me to face him before Alera took control of me again. She wasn't going to let her guard down easily. She was willing to kill anyone in her way. She was losing our humanity side.

He looks me dead in the eyes and I could see guilt and sadness then a stray teardrop from his eyes

"Forgive me" was all I hear as Alera is taking control again.

All I could see were black dots filling my vision and it overtook me completely.

: Couldn't Get Better

Matteo's Pov

"She's awake"

Dr. Omalley our pack doctor on duty informs me through our link.

Currently, I'm in a meeting with the Alphas who were here tonight. We have held a meeting after defeating the wolves that turned feral.

Usually, when a wolf turns feral there's only one explanation that they have submitted to their wolves' dark side and chose to become a beast instead of having their human side.

Them being feral means they won't stop until their targets are killed.

There was only one lead that tonight's attack was initiated by none other than James our sworn enemy. Therefore, we are currently discussing strategies and plan for any other future attacks.

Eric and Dante have offered their best trackers to find James which I appreciate a lot. Aaron has also given support for rebuilding some of our properties that were destroyed tonight along with other Alphas.

"Apologies but this meeting is adjourned. My apologies Alphas but I need to attend to my" I take a deep breath. It's better, to be honest now and I'll talk to Quinn later about my already made-up decision.

"Mate" I finish

Dante gazes up at me "I hope Adaah is well now" everyone around the table furrows their brows in confusion.

"I know I introduce someone else tonight as my mate" the luna gasps in horror while their mate just kept on looking.

"I'll take whatever punishment and all of your criticism next time for neglecting my soul mate but tonight I just need to be there for her, my mate"

Again murmuring erupts around the table.

Dante and Eric were the only Alphas who remain seated with their eyes fixed on me along with their luna.

I glance at Aaron for help who clears his throat and stood up. I quickly excuse myself from the meeting and quicken my step towards the pack hospital. I made it there and only stops when I saw one of the rooms being a wreck.

"What happened here?" a nurse whom I saw earlier when I first carried Adaah here stops, then lowers her head down and responds nervously.

ADVERTISEMENT

"Alpha your Mate has woken up two hours ago and had destroyed it. Her father was the one who stops her"

"But doctor Omalley just informed me"

"This would be the second time she awakens" she cut me off not rudely but she seems to be in a hurry.

"Then where is she?" I ask

"We have moved her to another room after she went back to sleep."

I dismiss her immediately and I guess seeing me again she's not only gonna destroy the room but also kill me. Indeed, I don't care as I'm willing to take the risk.

I continued to make my way towards her room Omalley told me she was in then stop in front of the door.

I took a deep breath then twist the knob. I open it nervously I step inside closing the door behind me.

Lyndon looks at me with disappointment but then he quickly masks it. He sits there ignoring me while he focuses his attention on his daughter.

I breathe in thinking to myself this is it, Thunder has been encouraging me that everything will be fine, that our mate won't even recognize anything. I try to ask him what he meant but he shut me off immediately.

Maybe this is a wrong idea, I thought as I try to turn back and go back out of the room.

"Dad" her soft voice made me stop there with the handle in my hand, ready to open it.

I turn back slowly facing her direction.

She is now fully awake with a pillow supporting her back. Hoisting her a little bit up against the metal headboard.

I stood there speechless watching her talk to her dad without noticing me. I took step by step near, then I stop not far away from her bed breathing in nervously.

If only I could crush her in my arms easily. If only we are in a good situation if only we're lovers and mates in love.

All these ifs keep on popping up in my head. I move nearer her and Lyndon again was growling a little in frustration but I didn't care I just want to hold her. I made it right in front of her on the other side.

My hand raises to caress her cheek and as if she just realized my presence her head snaps in my way making my hand stop in midair.

ADVERTISEMENT

She squints her brows, my hand reaching her cheek and gently I touch her cheek. I am surprised she didn't flinch at my touch or curse at me. At this moment I want to ask if this is just a dream but her words cut me off making me look at Lyndon with a frown.

"You're my mate" she barely whispers with her cheeks now burning pink, she is blushing.

My heart accelerates its beating.

I wonder what's going on and this is now confusing me. I look at Lyndon who lowers his head down then the doctor burst inside the room with a file in his hand. I retracted my hand and turn to the doctor.

"Omalley what's going on with her?" I question him hesitantly through our link

"Alpha" he let out a heavy sigh.

"After she loses conscious two hours ago she woke up and couldn't recognize anything that happened there," he scratches his head eyeing her.

"She has lost some major part of her memories which may include you due to...."

I couldn't hear the rest of his words. I staggered back "it can't be, no this is insane" I mumble while moving back until my back hits the wall.

Is this what Thunder meant I thought to myself and just like that I slid down on the ground. I should have been overjoyed that my mate now lost her memories

'Isn't this a perfect time for me to act like I was a good mate, that she and I were in love I thought?

Yet this is not what my heart wants. I want her to hate me, curse me and make me feel everything she has gone through because of me.

My tears pour out of my eyes 'how can fate be so cruel to you Adaah.'

First off your mate f up your heart because I'm an idiot, a coward, and an a. Name all those filthy words and curse me, then your mother died and now you" all these thoughts consumed me as I sat there refusing to believe it.

I turn up watching her who looks at me with confusion then slightly a little bit uncomfortable.

"Alpha are you okay?" right now I felt like I wanted to cry out loud in front of her but I know it won't bring back her memories.

Dr. Omalley helps me up and I lean towards him for support while he tries to help me out.

Before we could reach the door her delicate voice stops me again. "You're my mate Alpha" she fiddle with her fingers with her head in low.

ADVERTISEMENT

"Are you not happy I'm your mate?" she sighs heavily. My heart broke for her, if only she knew I broke her heart already.

I started to cry out "No, in fact, I am" I couldn't finish as I was fing crying right now.

"I am really happy to be your mate" I sniffle

"Then why are you crying and" she bit her bottom lips lowering her head again.

f this, I rush over and embrace her in my arms. My tears wetted her back as she just sat there.

I was to pull away when I felt two arms hugging me back. We stay in that position for a while before I pull away kissing her forehead.

'I can't do this to her I have to tell her the truth that me her mate was never a good mate to her but before I do that I just needed some air.

"I'll see you later" I stood up to go but I almost trip in which Omalley was fast enough to hold me up.

He helps me out of the room with Adaah's father following behind us.

Once outside of the room I instantly got down on my knees before Lyndon as my pack members and her friends who now halt in their steps and watch over us.

"Please forgive me" I cry out in front of him begging for his forgiveness.

"Alpha" someone came running up at us while I'm still on my knees before Lyndon.

I waited for his next words

"The former Alpha has escaped the cell."

I curse out loud forgetting that I was in the middle of apologizing to Adaah's dad.

Lyndon moves back in the room while I awkwardly stood up and run out of there with eyes following me as I exit the hospital.

I guess this night doesn't get any better for me. I let out a heavy sigh while looking up at the full moon.

: Faults

Matteo's Pov

I felt myself burning with hatred and at the same time, I'm still emotional about what happened to my mate and her family.

It's my fault again, everything is my fault. I destroyed a family tonight if only I could be patient a little more and wait for Addasah. Things wouldn't have gone this far.

I don't think she'll ever forgive me.

I had prayed for her mother to be alive and now the burden is becoming heavier and heavier with her losing her memories and her mother's died.

I have been walking back and forth in the same spot for an hour with a lot of things occupying my mind. Like my mate, James surprised attack on our pack and my father's escape.

Not forgetting Quinn and this whole messed-up situation I'm in.

I went back to my office and find Aaron sitting there talking with Jay and his luna Claire.

"Hey" I walk inside and sat on a couch opposite them

"So how did it go, after I left?"

Aaron sighs leaning back against the couch while Claire rubs on his shoulder.

"You're lucky Eric and Dante has supported me," he says

"Please tell me," I told him.

Aaron began to fill me in with info about the meeting after I left. Practically everyone was disappointed in what I did. They have asked for a petition to strip me off of my title as an Alpha.

ADVERTISEMENT

Yet Aaron has convinced them to give me a second chance which I don't think I deserve at all.

He has explained my situation and the logic behind my actions which then Alpha Eric and Dante along with Alpha Jesse from the Nightfall Pack support Aaron.

I was more grateful to my cousin for doing that to me even though I was willing to step down. Since my pack is in danger and the life of my mate is on the line here, therefore, I couldn't do it.

I have to make sure nobody or even myself hurt her again.

"Thanks, bro" I hug my cousin when he was to leave for his pack.

When they were gone I lean back closing my eyes "so how is she?" Jay asks.

I clench my fist and simply told him the truth "she lost her memory"

"What the hell! It is so rare for werewolves to lose memories. Aren't the humans are the only ones with that problem" he rants on.

"Unfortunately my mate does," I say cutting him off in a frustrating tone

"Okay...she remembers some things but not the life where her mate keeps messing up her life"

Yeah, so it's funny when she doesn't remember what happens between us or tonight's event.

"So what now?" he asks me again

"I don't know Jay. I just can't act like we were perfect mates before. And I just can't tell her the truth immediately... not right now" I bury my face in the palm of my hands.

"Yeah totally, right now is not the best idea since she has been through a lot. Maybe tomorrow or after one week" he suggested before walking up to me and pats me on the shoulder

"But I know you'll figure it out bro"

ADVERTISEMENT

"Matteo" someone knocked on that door and I knew that voice immediately.

It was none other than Quinn. "Come in"

Jay nods in my direction before going out letting Quinn inside. I stood up and went behind my desk. She took the chair in front of the desk sitting down opposite me.

I could see that she's nervous but I know I have to do this. I will take responsibility for my pup but I can't be with her and act like a perfect family man.

"Matteo" she started but I stop her

"Quinn I don't know what you're thinking but I can't be with you" it is better to straighten up with her than run around the push.

"I will still be responsible for my pup but not us as a family, I can't do that and I'm sorry" I reaffirmed and she starts to tear up.

"Matteo but you can't do this, I love"

"Not that word again Quinn" I intervene.

"I don't know how it will work out for you and your mate if you ever met him but you know how it will feel like to have one. You would feel what I felt now after you met him"

"He rejected me" she shouted at me making Thunder stir within me due to her disrespecting us in that sort of manner.

She sobs "he rejected me and left for his pack because I told him I love you and you know what he says" she hiccups. "Good because I don't want a s for a Mate" she continues to sob.

I kind of feel sorry for her yet again it's not anybody's fault. Somehow this was also her fault. If she did not insist for my dad and she for us to be together things wouldn't go this far.

"I'm sorry Quinn but my answer remains. I need to be with her because I love her. 'Us' is in the past, and you know this cause I have been telling you in the past four years" she sobs out loudly expecting me to comfort her but I know I can't.

ADVERTISEMENT

After Quinn left I sat there in my office thinking of the danger on my pack. I don't know where and when they will attack but all I can do is to prepare my pack for the worst. Therefore, I have to ready myself and train my pack hard.

"Alpha I'm here to see you" Lyndon links me and I instantly replied to him to come in the office.

I began to feel nervous... I don't know but Adaah's father visiting me at this hour is making me nervous as hell. Also, there is fear creeping up in my veins.

"Alpha" he came inside and sat on the chair that was occupied by Quinn a while ago. "Please it's Matteo to you" I nervously sat down facing him.

“Is there anything?”

“Alpha I think it’s best if I just voice out why I am here. I know we’re all at fault here and it would be a lie if I’m not on the verge of killing you right now but currently I’m trying my best to be more civil here.

You hurt my daughter, you blame yourself for my family but I know some part is my fault too. I am not here to make amends but to ask you a favor and I think you owe it to my daughter” I let out a heavy sigh.

“Matteo I’ll forgive you if do this right for her. I’ll help track down James and your father but you need to focus on Adaah. You don’t have to worry about her friends as I have already talked with them. Besides, I think you should know Adaah didn’t lose her memories.”

I look at him with surprise on why the hell he would say that. I mean if Adaah hasn’t lost her memories then how come she doesn’t remember what I fing did.

“You need to listen to what I have to say” I look dumbfounded at him.

“Then explain Lyndon,” I say and he did.

Sometime after Lyndon left I sat there not making any move and thinking hard about what he has proposed for me to do.

It’s not so easy to do what he says but maybe it will be good for Adaah but then again she’ll forever hate me.

I look at my clock it’s 2 am Thunder wanted to see her and wanted me to buy food for her. So I did what he wanted besides I want to see her too.

: Wrong Parking

When I woke up I didn’t understand what was going on.

The only thing I remember was that I was ready to turn eighteen. Those chitter moments where I couldn’t wait to be eighteen.

My body is all sore and my headaches are a little. I watch as my mate stagger back to his feet once the doctor told him something which I couldn’t understand as well since they were mind linking.

His reaction and the way he keeps muttering can't be made me know that they were talking through the links.

My father who was still beside me looks at my mate with hatred burning in his eyes.

It was so hard to know why they would react in such a way.

My mate's attitude and reaction were confusing me as hell but I couldn't recall what really happened and why I was here in the hospital.

My wolf Alera seems not to be present at all. It was rare for her not to link me or even explain to me what was happening.

I sat there as the doctor and my dad leads my mate out after he hugged me while crying. I know I have asked him some stupid questions which ended up with him in my arms crying.

I want to know what just happened. In fact, instead of being a statue, I did the most logical thing that any mate would do even though I don't recall our moments together or even his name.

I hug him in return assuring him that I am okay. My dad and Doctor after my long hug with my mate lead him out.

I felt bad for him, got me wondering again what the hell is going on.

They have been gone for an hour leaving me there alone before my dad saunters his way inside the room again without my mate.

He looks at me smiling at me then walks over to sit near me.

"Dad, where is mom?" I ask and he responded by hugging me then kissing my forehead.

"Honey, I know you don't remember but your mom died. We were under attack by feral wolves tonight" I sat there not knowing what to feel.

ADVERTISEMENT

I mean I just woke up and my mom is gone how can this be. I wanted to cry but my tears seem to be all dried up and the news of her death hurts me but right now I just became frozen like a cold b*.

"Dad, then why am I in the hospital?" I ask him again and he squeezes my hand

"You were attacked by a wolf" I could see that he's hiding something

"So mom dies on my eighteen birthday?" I mumble.

Yet my father explained to me that it has been four years now and I'm not eighteen anymore. I was so confused at first until he told me I have a memory loss.

I am overwhelmed over the fact that I lost my memory and I couldn't even grieve my mom's death.

"I have a surprise for you, my dear," my dad says as the room door opens and I saw my friends coming inside with the other Alphas and Lunas.

My father was instantly gone from my side and out of the room. My friends were both in tears when they crush me into a hug threatening me never to give them a heart attack again and never to scare them like that.

I sat there trying to know each and everyone around me until they were gone again leaving me with my friends.

We then chatted while waiting for my dad who seems to be almost have gone forever.

"Umm guys I think you two should go now, it's getting late," we all look at the clock and saw 1:30 am. Well, I guess it's morning now, so I try to convince them to go home.

Cora's mate Jem came to pick her up sometime after. I am so happy that her brother now has approved of their relationship despite the awkwardness with her sister Zoe who is also mated to Kyle, Jem's brother.

According to Cora, the two have known they were mates since their teenage years but Kyle was a player who broke Zoe's heart cause her to leave.

As for the hot brother of hers he has found his Mate who is now pregnant and expected soon.

Gia on the other hand has found her mate Ed whom I couldn't remember at all but she says we knew each other. Her brother Evan is now the Delta while her father retires, the guy earns it.

When the girls were forced to go home. I take a look at the clock again and saw that it's now 2 in the morning and my dad hasn't come back yet.

I am starting to get hungry but I didn't know if I'm allowed to go out. The door slightly opens 'finally I thought to myself

ADVERTISEMENT

I could smell food then something strange caught my nostrils. It's the scent of my mate who now happens to stand in front of me with food in his hands.

Suddenly I became shy, my cheeks now blushing at the sight of him and my heart began to beat fast.

"Alpha" I turn my head down hiding my red face.

He came inside the room and sat on a chair next to the bed "are you hungry?"

"No" I quickly replied but my stomach betrays me by making a growling sound.

He chuckles and I mentally slap myself "well your stomach doesn't seem to agree."

He handed me the food which smells and I bet it tastes so good. Not caring about his presence I dig right in.

"Oh my, this is so yummy" I moan licking the tip of my finger.

I smile looking back at my mate who froze in his chair gulping his saliva while staring at me. I felt a little embarraed "Alpha, did I say something wrong?" he didn't reply.

He caught me off guard when he leans forward "it's Matteo to you, my love. Matteo Evan Reed"

f me now, I thought to myself.

My hands wanted to reach out and pull him over to close the distance between us. The doors abruptly open and my dad stood there with a baby in his arm.

He walks towards me and I began to freak out with all these thoughts in my head

Oh my! was I pregnant and somehow have given birth already.

Damn, I shouldn't act like a holy virgin in front of my mate a while ago as it seems like we have done the deeds and already have a child.

Gosh! What was I thinking? I wish Alera could talk to me. This is so embarraing.

"He's adorable," I say when my dad hands him over.

ADVERTISEMENT

"So what should we call him?" I ask directly Matteo while my eyes were on our pup but my dad answers

"Wesley Ashton Rumanoff"

Wait! Why is my baby's last name Rumanoff, which is my last name?

Questions pop around my head again.

Was he born out of mate-lock? Matteo is not the father? Then who is the father?

I clear my throat "Matteo why is our baby's last name Rumanoff, isn't it your pup, our pup?"

I didn't know my dad was drinking water as he just spills right out of his mouth while Matteo stiffened in his seat.

"Did I say something wrong?"

My dad coughs out loud more like choking while my mate looks as if he was about to die.

Again did I offend him? Was it wrong for me to claim him as the father?

"Honey, he's not your baby. He is your little brother" my father says

I felt a bucket of cold water splashing on top of me.

Embarrament was all I felt as I look down at my brother who yawns in the cutest way.

"I guess I'm in the wrong parking lot brother"

I whisper while kissing his forehead with a smile avoiding my dad and mate's eyes.

Oh, moon goddess, I wish I didn't have this memory loss now. I feel like an idiot who just parks at the wrong house.

: Back to Life

It is good to be back home instead of staying in the hospital.

I have been discharged two weeks ago and I'm trying to catch up with life itself.

I just can't believe I lost memories of my four years.

Sometimes I kept on wondering what it was like when I was eighteen or even my 21st birthday. Whether I was being kissed before or not within those past years.

According to my available memories I have never been in any relationship.

So I must have met Matteo or any other guy within those years. There was no sign to show anything of my past or a dream to hint at my past as I've read in some books.

It was completely nothing like I haven't even lived in this world for 4 years. Like I was someone with no trace. My young memories are there but not my adulthood self.

A baby's wailing pulls me out of my thoughts. I look across the room and find my brother waking up in his crib.

He and my dad are all I have now and the absence of my mother was still shocking for me.

Every time someone or even my dad talks about it I always try and change the subject.

Maybe I am still not accepting the fact that my mother is gone. To be honest I am scared to face my own emotions. So instead of talking it out I hid everything inside of me and avoid the death of my mom.

Her funeral will be held tomorrow but still, I'm not even in the state to see her.

Oh hell, if people think I'm a heartless daughter who never shows up to see her mother at our pack's mortuary but I'm really scared.

ADVERTISEMENT

My father is the only one going there and makes arrangements for my mom's funeral along with my mate's help while I just sit here in the house.

Speaking of Mate, Matteo and I never saw each other after the night I embarraed myself, mistaking my brother for our pup.

I never saw him thereafter and it's funny, instead of getting close to him I am also avoiding him.

Not only from embarrament but there were so many surreal emotions going on within me which I didn't and wasn't ready to face.

My brother is now my priority and I need to be here for him and my dad who has been putting up a brave face.

Therefore, avoiding Matteo and the topic of my mom's death doesn't mean I have to avoid my brother's presence too.

In the past two weeks, I have been taking some private claes from Dr. Omalley's Mate on how to care for a baby.

She has shown me how to hold him, feed him, change his diaper, and bath him and so much more which I was impressed with.

Yet to think of my mom caring for me like this when I was young I push it all back and bury them beneath the core of my being.

Avery's claes did pay off as I am now a pro in looking after my brother.

"Hello there little one," I pick him and held him to my chest carefully.

"You have gained weight. And Ohhh you're cute baby" I keep on teasing him, pinching his chubby cheeks and he responds with a tired yawn.

I smile feeling happy by just looking at him and I must admit that he's the best gift in our lives now.

He's making me smile whenever I feel alone and at the same time taking my mind off my mother's death.

ADVERTISEMENT

"Ahhh so adorable" another voice interrupts. I look around there was no one

"Gosh wish he's ours," the voice repeated.

Feeling like an idiot I forgot it must be Alera which I'm shocked she has finally come out of her mute zone.

Yeah, she has been ghosting me out but today, it's a miracle to know she's alive within me.

"Wolfie" I try my link with her and earned a 'What the f' from her in return.

I giggle to myself holding Wesley afraid to drop him on the floor. It's good to have my wolf back after all it was hell to be myself without her.

"Welcome back" she rolls her eyes at me before doing an ovation bow in my head.

I look back at my baby brother pinching on his chubby cheeks "so cute" I whisper kissing his forehead.

"Alera" she became silent as if she didn't just pop out of nowhere through our links.

"Do you remember what happened four years ago?" I ask and she told me no.

I keep on pushing her to tell me but she ended up screaming that she knew nothing of it too. She's also in the haze of confusion. She aids through our links that she wishes to remember but she doesn't too.

"That makes two of us" I mumble and paid my attention back to my brother who is now smiling in my arms.

"Why did you not talk to me in the past two weeks?"

"I was trying to find my link to you," she whimpers covering her eyes with paws.

"It was so blurry and foggy. I think I was lost when you lost memories not until you say cute and I felt your happiness pulling me right back. It was like every barrier came down and I turn to find you standing there with him. So I jump right back in your body" she explains while clawing her paws on the ground.

"At least we're back together," I told her

"You're saying as if we were in a relationship" she shook her head.

"Well, you're my wolf and we're partners in crime" she smiles scratching her paws.

"Right, welcome us back to life, now let's kick some a and break some heart" she happily suggested

"Are you referring to our Mate?"

"Duh not only him but anyone in our way" she retorts in a dull voice and I laugh at that.

I heard footsteps coming up the stairs.

There could be two people who come to our house it's either my mate or my dad. Yet seeing Wesley not wiggling around I knew then it wasn't my dad.

My brother is one weird baby and that's our secret. He always knew when my dad is home.

At first, I thought it was strange but constantly he's been doing it. Wiggling and clapping his hands whenever my dad comes home.

I brace myself for my mate's presence. Wondering if it was so weird to talk to him since I ghost him out two weeks ago.
