

Life at The Top – Chapter 1114

It was Dorian who rushed over.

“What are you doing here, Mr. Clem?” Denton had a pleasing and fawning smile on his face as he jogged over to Dorian and greeted courteously when he saw the other.

Dorian glared at Denton harshly and ignored him, waving his hands to shout at the security guards to back off.

“Move, all of you! What do you think you’re doing?!”

The security guards were confused. They were just trying to throw someone out on Denton’s orders, so they had no idea how they had angered Mr. Clem.

Denton was also stunned. He did not know how he had offended the dean’s secretary either.

At that moment, Dorian had already made his way to Jasper and said remorsefully, “I’m really sorry, Mr. Laine. It seems like I made a fool out of myself.”

Jasper replied calmly, “Fool or not, I am very disappointed in some members of Hoofmorn University’s managerial staff. The quality of the students here is also very unimpressive.

Dorian felt his cheeks burn in shame.

“Tell Mr. Clem what actually happened, Tiff,” Jasper called Tiffany over and said.

With Jasper here, Tiffany felt much braver as she recounted everything that had happened since she arrived to Dorian, paying particular attention to the incident that morning.

Following Tiffany's explanation, even Denton's expression morphed dramatically, much less Dorian's.

Frankly, anyone who heard the things Mia and her friend had done would feel exceptionally furious.

Dorian looked at Mia and the rest sinisterly. He clenched his jaw and said, "This is the first time I've learned that Hoofmorn University has failures like this!"

Mia was panicking.

She did not know who Dorian was, but she was well aware that Denton was the most powerful person she could come into contact with. If Denton acted extremely carefully in front of Dorian, without even daring to breath recklessly, then it did not take a genius to understand that she was screwed.

Frantic, she tried to defend herself, "That's not right. You can't just listen to her words alone.

"Someone did use my makeup this morning, and she was very suspicious. She's just exaggerating everything! I was just afraid that a bad person ended up as a student of the university, so I did it with the university's best interests..."

"I can testify!"

A clear female voice rang out before Mia could finish speaking.

No one knew when Erin had appeared. The girl squeezed through the onlooking crowd and told Dorian.

"I'm Mia, Monica, and Tiff's roommate. My name is Erin and I can testify on Tiffany's behalf. Everything she said was the truth."

“Mia and her friend have been causing trouble all this time, especially because her boyfriend Cassian is Mr. May’s nephew. They’ve never respected anyone.”

“As for the things they’ve done, you can ask anyone in our class and they’ll say the same thing.”

‘Erin, do you want to die?’ Mia shrieked.

Erin replied calmly, “I stayed quiet for so long just to wait for an opening.”

Mia wanted to say more but Dorian cut in sharply. “Enough!”

Dorian took a deep breath and bowed to Jasper deeply. He then said remorsefully, “I’m really sorry, Mr. Laine. It looks like I’ve got to straighten out the habits of some students in our university.”

“It’s more than just students, though. Isn’t it?” Jasper said calmly.

Dorian turned to look at Denton when he heard these words.

The latter instantly paled.
