

Life at the Top Chapter 1949

The capital market was always changing.

While Jasper was arranging the means to deal with Soros, Soros was not idle either.

The two sides had fought to this point, so even if they did not know each other very well, they still had to take some precautions.

Hence, after sending away Ms. Acker and her gang, Jasper immediately returned to the command room. As soon as he sat down, Baz walked in.

"Mr. Laine, take a look at the market."

The huge screen in the command room immediately showed the domestic A share market.

It was plummeting.

It was plummeting horribly!

More than 500 stocks had hit their limit downs and the scene was simply shocking.

"Find me the stocks that have fallen by more than 5% within the past hour." Jasper frowned.

In just a few minutes, the team completed the instructions given by Jasper.

As Jasper looked at the densely packed names of listed companies on the screen, his expression was solemn.

"What can you see?" Jasper asked.

Baz frowned and said, "Except for a few of these stocks from the newly-listed companies that have fallen sharply due to market reasons, most of them are showing heavy traces of man-made actions. It can be concluded that it must be Quantum Fund. Tch tch, 120 billion US Dollars? How arrogant."

Jasper said angrily, "Do you think I need you to tell me something that even the blind can see?"

"These listed companies that have been attacked seem to be from the light industry.

"From textiles, tea, wood, to furniture, the upstream and downstream industrial chains of these industries seem to all be affected," Baz said suddenly.

Jasper shook his head.

He was quite dissatisfied.

Although Baz's performance was already very good and he had shown great improvements compared to when he started, compared to Jake, there was still something missing.

And it was a strategic overall view.

He did not show enough depth, structure, or quality when he was looking at a problem.

These problems might not normally be big, but at a critical moment, they would be fatal.

A master's starting moves were roughly the same, but the winning moves were often decided by the few later steps.

However, Baz could not be entirely blamed.

He had worked hard enough, and he was talented.

Although he was still not as good as compared to Jake, who had received professional training and had more experience because he came back from abroad, in Jasper's view, Baz had spirituality, which was an advantage over Jake even though the former was not a professional.

The overall view, experience, and skills could be exercised and cultivated, but spirituality was such a mysterious thing. Some people would be born with it while others would not obtain it no matter how hard they worked. Basically, it was a gift from God.

Baz obviously belonged to the latter in the field of financial trading.

Regardless of whether it was in the past or this life, Jasper had already verified this.

So, Jasper considered whether to give Baz more opportunities to lead the team alone. Even if he had to put in some money for the tuition fee, it would be worthwhile for Baz to make up for the shortcomings of not being able to look at the overall situation.

However, these were things for the future.

After he shook his head and dismissed these thoughts, Jasper said, "Now that you're in his position, you can't analyze the problem by simply looking at the surface. It is necessary to summarize the information you have on the surface to analyze the deep-seated problems.

"From the list of these listed companies, you have summarized the state of the industries, but why don't you think more about why Soros chose these industries to start with?

"What benefits can they get and what difficulties will we encounter after they choose to start from here considering the domestic business structure and economic situation?

"If you understand these two issues, the opponent's intentions will be exposed. Then you can arrange and plan according to his intentions to achieve the effect of getting twice the result with half the effort."

Jasper was talking while Baz was listening.

He listened very carefully and seriously. He understood that a lot of people wanted the opportunity to be corrected by Jasper, but would never have the chance. On the other hand, he was experiencing such an opportunity that could not be bought with money.

"It can be seen that Soros has chosen light industries as his entry point in both the futures market or the stock market, and in our domestic economic layout, light industry is a very important basic market..."

"It's the Haddock Chamber of Commerce."

Jasper gave Baz the answer directly.

"The attack on foodstuffs is the real method used by Quantum Fund to leverage our country's economic market. When it comes light industries, especially textile, tea, and wood, these have been the private plot belonging to the Haddock Chamber of Commerce since ancient times.

"This group of clowns from the United States really studied us thoroughly. The Haddock Chamber of Commerce will be their best offensive, and they are also the ones most likely to have conflicts and suspicions with us after due to our history. Gale and us are not true friends after all."

Jasper's words brought Baz's analysis to an abrupt end.

Financial wars were all about money, but at the same time, the will of the people was also challenged.

The advantage of Quantum Fund was that they were huge. With a total of 120 billion US Dollars, they could overturn anyone.

The domestic disadvantage lay in the fact that there were too many people and too many factions running the show. Although Jasper's efforts had now reached a basic consensus, once there was a crack in these already scattered bodies of interest, then they could be breached from within without needing the enemies to work too hard.

Just as Baz was sweating over this speculation, Jasper had already given his instructions.

"Save textiles first."

Compared with furniture and wood, which were relatively simple and isolated industries in the upstream and downstream industrial chain, the textile industry was obviously more important.

The upstream involved cotton and the downstream involved clothing fabrics. The entire industry chain could be subdivided into more than ten industry sectors. The companies involved and the commercial value could not be estimated, so Jasper decisively determined the main rescue target first.

It was as if Baz had woken up from a dream as he immediately replied, "I'll do it right away."

The efficiency of the JW team was beyond any doubt.

When JW began to enter the domestic A share market and bought shares of the leading listed companies in the textile industry with great fanfare, the move instantly gave the market great confidence.

At the same time, self-help behavior in the textile industry was also unfolding.

All of a sudden, the slump was temporarily contained.

At this moment, in New York of the United States, Soros, Half-the-Harbor Langdon, and others toasted to celebrate.

"Our old enemy has been fooled."