

A Lifetime Love

A Lifetime Love

Chapter 25

Denver was stunned for a long while before he finally opened his mouth. “Are you kidding me?”

“Mr. Salisbury, I have never made jokes, especially to those I’m not close with.”

Lucien wanted to send a clear message. First, he did not fancy joking. Second, he was not close with Denver.

“H-How is this possible?”

For a moment, Denver was unable to accept what he saw.

He had always heard that the fifth daughter of the Hoult family was an ugly and mentally disabled lady that even her own family despised.

That was why he rejected the arranged marriage in the first place.

However, his father, Jacob, was interested in a piece of the Hoult family’s land in South City, which the Hoult family had agreed to give to the Salisbury family as dowry.

Even though its price was not high, it was located in the newly developing area of South City. Hence, the Salisbury family had high expectations of it.

Not to mention, Jacob had always wanted to build a world-class high-end community. Coincidentally, there was a mountain behind the piece of land, and Fae Lake was in front of it.

From all aspects, it seemed like a perfect spot to fulfill Jacob’s dream.

Because of that, Jacob insisted on the marriage, which ended up with Denver escaping the ceremony on the wedding day.

Denver never expected that the fifth daughter of the Hoult family was this gorgeous.

“Mr. Salisbury, if you don’t mind, please give my wife and me some privacy. We’re having a meal here.”

Lucien did not even conceal his intentions of wanting Denver to leave the room.

With that, Denver got out of the private room in a daze and went downstairs. When he returned to his car, his mind was still blank.

After Denver left, Lucien took the menu and handed it to Seraphina.

“The food here is fresh. Please order anything you like.”

Scanning the menu, Seraphina voiced, “The vegetable set, please.”

Lucien displayed an embarrassed smile. “Pardon me for my poor memory. I forgot you don’t eat meat. Why don’t we go to another restaurant then?”

“It’s fine. It’s not bad here.” Seraphina did not want the trouble.

Along with the woman’s food, Lucien ordered some other random dishes before returning the menu to the server.

When the server walked out of the room, Lucien poured Seraphina a glass of water and placed it in front of her.

“Thanks,” she responded flatly.

“So, that was Denver just now. Was it your first time meeting him?”

Given Seraphina’s personality, Lucien assumed it would not be weird if she had never met Denver before the wedding.

“Yes,” Seraphina answered, confirming the man’s speculation.

Even so, despite never meeting Denver, Seraphina knew exactly what kind of a person the former was.

“What do you think of him?” Lucien asked, trying to find out her first impression of Denver.

He doubted if someone so conservative like her would be willing to comment honestly, However, to his amazement, she did.

Taking a sip of the water, she spat out five words, “Just as the rumors said.”

Lucien’s grin grew wider upon hearing that.

What a straightforward and precise answer.

Denver was known for his scandals with female celebrities. He had repeatedly been making the headlines on the entertainment news, be it flirting with some stars or even spending the night in their houses.

Hence, he had a bad reputation.

How could she say something like that in such an adorable tone?

At that moment, Lucien's affection toward Seraphina grew deeper.

Meanwhile, inside his car, Denver was still reluctant as he picked up his phone. "Devin, I need your help. Look into Seraphina from the Hoult family. I want to see all her photos since she was a kid."

"Mr. Salisbury, what are you up to?" His friend beside him asked in confusion.

You were the one who rejected her on the wedding day. Now that she's married to Lucien, you're interested in her?
