

Love Letters, Divorce Papers Chapter 13

Amber felt quite strange.

Jared was a talented man, and the Farrell family was a notable family, so how come Shonna was acting like a country bumpkin?

Amber's lips twitched, "There's something you should be aware of. Your son and I have been divorced, and I didn't take a single penny from the Farrell family."

"Bullshit!" Shonna didn't believe her and refused to let her go, "Where did you get the money to come to this fancy place? It's from my son, of course. I'm telling you, Amber Reed, I won't forgive you even if you get down on your knees and beg for my forgiveness!"

Get down on her knees and apologize?

Amber almost wanted to laugh.

Shonna had never been in her right mind.

This woman wasn't worth her time at all, so Amber turned around, about to leave.

But Shonna, who was making a scene, wouldn't let her go.

"I won't let you run away like this!" Shonna reached out and grabbed Amber's hair.

Cole, who was standing by, pushed Shonna away and pulled Amber behind him.

Cole used a bit of force on purpose, so Shonna couldn't control herself and fell backward, "Ouch, my ass!"

She looked up to meet Cole's disgusted gaze. Sitting on the floor, she cried, "There's no justice! I'm an old lady and I've been beaten up by a brat! What's wrong with this world..."

The crowd of onlookers grew bigger and soon brought the general manager here.

Shonna hurriedly pointed at Cole and complained to the manager, "It was this bastard who hit me. Ouch, my back ... it hurts like hell ..."

She was a VIP customer of the shop and had spent a lot of money here, so Mr. Levi, the manager, naturally had to take her seriously.

He looked at Amber with a serious look but was shocked when his eyes fell on Jeremy.

"Mr..."

Before he could say anything, he was interrupted by Jeremy, "She's lying. If you don't believe me, go check the security footage."

Mr. Levi had been through a lot after all. He rolled his eyes and suddenly behaved like a different person. He nodded and smiled, "Sure, I'll go get the footage."

Seeing this strange turn of events, Amber was a little more curious about Jeremy. Was he really just a poor student from a small village?

When Mr. Levi came back again, he had changed his stance. He was speechless with Shonna, "Madam, you'd better go back or the police will be here soon."

Shonna was stunned, “What police?”

Mr. Levi berated, “From the CCTV, it is obvious that you started the fight. How could you say that he hit you first? If you go on like this, the police will definitely come here. When the police see what actually happened, they’ll have to convict you of disturbing public order.”

Shonna was furious, “That’s not fair!”

Seeing that she was still stirring up trouble, Cole snorted, “How can you be so shameless at your age? My baby was bullied by you in your house. Now that she’s divorced your scumbag son, but you’re still harassing her? I don’t care even if you’re an old woman. If you piss me off again, I’ll screw you up, you old hag!”

Shonna, taken aback by Cole, gritted her teeth and had to reluctantly leave the place.

Cole tsked. “To deal with the wicked, you have to use the wicked ways.”

His mobile phone suddenly rang. When he answered it, the person on the other end said something that made him subconsciously look at Amber.

She raised an eyebrow, “Why are you looking at me like that? Is it about me?”

“A friend of mine said he saw Ben checking out roadside CCTV footage about Makenna’s car accident six years ago!”

When he finished, Amber’s face went cold.

Seeing the look on her face, Jeremy turned his head to Cole and enquired, “What footage?”

With undisguised anger, Cole snorted, “That vicious woman, found out Amber was married to Jared when she woke up and was so jealous and vindictive. So she deliberately twisted the truth to say that six years ago, Amber hit her out of jealousy and caused the car accident. A man as smart as Jared, he couldn’t see it was a lie. How ridiculous.”

Jeremy lowered his eyes and mused, “Leave aside that whether the video is still there after all this time; even if Jared was lucky enough to attain it, what’s the point?”

“That’s right too.” Cole thought of something and his face changed, “Makenna could even tell such an outrageous lie. So will she make fake the video as well?”

Amber suddenly gave a smile, but it didn’t reach her eyes, “I had planned that since I was divorced from Jared, he and I would never interfere with each other again. It seems that I was naive and someone won’t leave me alone.”

Trenton had something to do with his father being wrongly accused, and his daughter blamed her for the car accident as soon as she woke up.

The bad apple doesn’t fall far from the tree!

Did they think bullying her was duck soup?

Amber curled her lips and smiled brightly, “If Makenna doesn’t make a fool of herself, naturally I won’t do anything about it. But if she tries to harm me, I will make her understand that I am no slouch either.”