

Let Me be Your Ex Chapter 377– 378

Chapter 377

“I don’t want to say it a second time.”

Bryan looked at the man standing by the door and spoke coldly again.

The small movement drew the attention of others. Not long after, a man who seemed more capable of judgment came over and stood beside the person just now at the door.

After a brief look at each other, he explained, “Excuse me, gentleman, we are investigating some hidden dangers. I wonder if you have seen any suspicious people passing by?”

Bryan stood up slightly, and at the same time took two steps forward, staring down with an obvious sullen gaze, “Suspicious? I think you two are suspicious.”

For a while, the identity of Bryan was not discerned, and the man in the lead did not dare to offend easily, so he smiled and made his words clearer. “That’s it. The president of Xun’s Jewelry has just been attacked. We need to find a hand. People...”

“Xun Yang?” Before he could finish speaking, Bryan raised his eyebrows, and casually called out Xun Yang’s name.

This aura inevitably made people tremble slightly, and the tone was relaxed a lot, “It is this President Xun, I wonder if you have seen...”

Without waiting for him to finish, Bryan took two steps forward and walked less than an arm’s distance from him, letting the light from outside the room shine on him, he curled his lips evilly, and his eyes were gloomy. The aura is strong and impressive, “Because of him, you bothered this young master’s Yaxing so unscrupulously. Do you mean to look down on me? Or do you suspect that it is me who did it, and you want to take me to confront you?”

After he finished speaking, he stepped forward again, staring straight forward, suppressing people almost suffocating.

After a brief look at each other, the man finally bowed his head and compromised, “I’m sorry this gentleman, you continue...”

After speaking, he took the initiative to close the door, and then came the sound of walking away.

Miriam stroked her chest and sighed silently.

In the dimness, the man turned his steps back to her, and calmly stared at her, "Continue?"

Miriam's words came to her lips as soon as she refused, she suddenly recalled what happened in the taxi yesterday, and she curled her lips and smiled, "Okay..."

Bryan was taken aback for a moment, and then reacted in the next second. He leaned against the side and leaned against the wall alongside her.

The short gasp calmed the restless mood, and at the same time changed the subject, "I will send someone to solve today's matter, so don't worry."

Miriam said "um" in the unclear sight. After that, the two of them turned their heads and looked at each other at the same time, each laughing out loud.

It seemed that a certain agreement was reached in silence, and this way of communication made Miriam feel inexplicably relieved.

"Did you rush out because you were worried about me?" Bryan reached out and touched his pocket. After touching the cigarette, he hesitated for a while, but finally did not take it out.

Miriam recalled the scene just now, and suddenly felt a little dazed. She nodded without hiding her head, and couldn't help but question, "I didn't expect your skill to be so bad, nor did it before..."

Bryan lowered his head, his eyes tightened in the woman's unconscious laughter.

A certain desire that was suppressed in his heart suddenly rose again, he avoided the direction of the topic's continued development, turned his head and paced to the door and dialed a phone call.

Miriam also reacted. When Bryan hung up, she had already sat down on the sofa, her body half-leaning and showing a little fatigue, "May have to wait a while, it's not safe outside now."

Bryan let out an "um" and walked to a position not far from her to sit down. After silence, a strange and embarrassing atmosphere gradually spread.

Miriam pretended to be unaware, leaning on the sofa and closing her eyes for a sleep sleep. Not long after, she heard Bryan cough slightly and started an unclear topic.

"My mother, did you find you?"

This was a little caught off guard, Miriam opened her eyes slightly, her dark eyes flickered, and finally adjusted her sleeping position slightly, pretending to not care, and said "Yeah", "On that time, I let Song Bo pass it. She is not sure that I have replied to Yingxin and can't find my address. Don't worry."

“Yeah.” Bryan supported her arms on her thighs, leaning slightly downwards, as if he was deep in his eyes and thinking. After hearing Miriam’s response, the depression in his heart became heavier.

An apology slipped to his lips, but he finally restrained himself from going back, “My mother will also deal with it.”

There was no response to these words for a long time, and the air fell completely silent. Miriam closed her eyes, as if asleep.

I don’t know how long the door of the room knocked again. Bryan got up and opened the door. He saw Lin Shui standing at the door holding a lady’s coat. He reached out and asked, “What’s the matter?”

Lin Shui narrowed his eyes slightly, “It’s all done.”

He then turned around and went back and picked Miriam, who was already asleep, from the sofa, “Ask her assistant where he is.”

After speaking, he lifted his foot out and hugged the person all the way into the car. Lin Shui hurriedly got into the driver’s seat and said while starting the engine, “The hotel is right next to Zhaohe.”

As soon as he finished speaking, Bryan felt that Miriam was struggling in his arms. After a while, she changed to a more comfortable position and fell asleep again.

“Okay, send her back first.”

After Song Bo answered the phone, he waited at the door of Miriam’s room. Soon when he saw Bryan holding the person up, his heart was dumb, his mouth opened and closed, and finally he just hurriedly opened the door and welcomed the two in. .

Bryan was light-handed, as if he was afraid of waking people up. He didn’t notice that Miriam, who was curled up in his arms, had already opened his eyes for some time, watching his undulating chest quietly, and closing silently. Tighten your fingers.

He didn’t close his eyes again until he was put back on the bed carefully.

Song Bo clenched his hands tightly and stared at Bryan. Seeing that he had settled the person and had no intention of leaving, he finally couldn’t help but interrupt: “Mr. Shao, it’s getting late, you still Go back early and rest.”

Bryan looked back and glanced at Song Bo. His expression was fierce, and Song Bo had a cold sweat unconsciously, but he still squeezed his fist and stared at the visitor, even after swallowing a few salivas. Willing to lose.

“Mr. Shao, if you don’t leave yet, I’ll wake up our director.” He gritted his teeth, as if he was willing to go.

Bryan got up and brushed the wrinkled hem of his clothes, and finally glanced at Song Bo quietly. Then he lifted his feet and walked away. When he stepped into the elevator, he saw Song Bo followed him and stood at the door to say goodbye: "Thank you, Mr. Shao, You go slowly."

He pressed the floor in a deep voice, and couldn't help but mutter, where did Miriam dug such a fairy assistant.

Song Bo smiled stiffly. Seeing that the elevator door was completely closed, he relaxed, patted his chest and turned and folded back into the room. As soon as he entered the door, he cheered in a slightly cheerful tone: "Director, I drove people away. ."

When I entered the room, I saw that Miriam, who was on the bed, was still motionless. Standing by the bed, she couldn't help but suck her nose to tear it through."Director, don't pretend to be asleep, I saw you open your eyes."

When Miriam heard this, a faint embarrassment appeared on her face, she opened her eyes and sat up, raising her eyes to confirm with him: "You really saw it?"

"Yeah." Song Bo nodded quickly, serious and serious.

Chapter 378

When Xun Yang woke up from the hospital, assistant Amy pushed in at the right time. Seeing him lying on the hospital bed looking sullen, she suddenly hesitated.

The man raised his eyes and looked at her coldly, "Just say anything."

Amy bit her lip slightly and handed a white USB flash drive to him, "I found this by your side yesterday."

Xun Yang stared at the small white touch of her palm with cold eyes, and his expression became solemn. He stretched out his hand to take it and took the computer from the table, and asked, "How is the investigation going?"

Amy's eyes fell in front of her, her expression even more serious."The monitoring of the bar was destroyed in advance and no specific details were found. However, the security guard confirmed that she saw Bryan with a woman in a private room that day. It's a bar uniform."

The assistant's words met the vague memory of last night and remembered the back of the woman hurriedly entering the women's bathroom, as if she understood it instantly, clutching her injured forehead with one hand, gritted her teeth enduring the faint pain, "check me!"

“Yes.” Amy nodded slightly, and as soon as he was about to step out after answering, Xun Yang’s eyes suddenly sank to the extreme, and a terrible haze filled his eyes at a speed visible to the naked eye.

With his fingers trembling slightly, he opened the data in the U disk one by one, and finally the whole person was completely swallowed by uncontrollable anger.

Amy noticed something was wrong, her expression darkened, and she asked with some trepidation: “Mr Xun, is there any problem?”

In the next second, the man replaced the answer with action.

Before she could react, Xun Yang waved his hand vigorously and pushed out the computer in front of him. He was caught off guard and hit her knee steadily, and blood gurgled out instantly.

The woman frowned deeply, and the pain sensation that swept through her body suddenly forced her to turn pale, but she tried her best to endure it, except for a short subconscious groan, after which the atmosphere did not dare to come out again.

“Get out!” Xun Yang’s eyes were blood red, and he pointed out the door, “Get out of here and check this out for me!”

After receiving her instructions, Amy hurriedly exited the ward. After closing the door, she heard a violent slamming sound inside, and her face instantly became bloodless.

In the ruins, Xun Yang clenched his hands into fists, and roared almost uncontrollably: “Bryan!”

On the other side returning from Kyoto, Miriam and Bryan did not contact each other tacitly. One returned to Jincheng and the other to City Two, as if they were about to merge into their busy lives, pretending that they had never had any intersection.

At the same time, as soon as Miriam’s plane landed, Mother Lu called, with a forbearance of anxiety, “Miriam, where have you been? An Yan is sick...”

Before she had time to ask, she pushed all the luggage to Song Bo and stopped the car to the hospital. “You go back to the company first, and I will explain to Mr. Henry.”

Somponne nodded, and before he could react, he saw that the person had gotten into the taxi, and soon disappeared from his sight.

Miriam rushed all the way to the hospital. As soon as she saw Mother Lu who was wiping her tears at the door of the department, she saw the door of the department opened. The doctor wearing a mask asked softly: “Which is the parent of Lu Anyan’s child?”

Mother Lu quickly wiped away the tears. When she got up, she saw Miriam walking in strides, she silenced herself. After hearing her answer, "I am the mother of the child", she hurriedly added: "I am a grandmother." ."

After that, the two walked in one after another. The doctor looked at the set of films in his hand with a solemn expression: "It's confirmed, it's intussusception."

Miriam sat aside, her hands tightly closed silently, fine cold sweat oozing out of her forehead, but she tried her best to keep her calm: "Is it serious? How should I treat it?"

The doctor pushed the spectacle frame in a thoughtful state, and finally said in a deep voice: "Because the delivery to the doctor is not in time, it is more serious now. We can only perform surgery here, but this child is relatively weak. Recovery will have an impact on his growth and development..."

Before this was finished, Mother Lu was sobbing and crying, burying her head and covering her mouth and nose. Knowing that crying was untimely at this time, she couldn't help it. She twitched her body and whispered: "It's me. I was careless, thinking that he just had a cold and was uncomfortable. It was not right until he cried so much this morning..."

When Miriam listened, her heart became a ball. She stretched out her hand and shook Mother Lu's hand. She tried her best to restrain her anxiety and comforted her softly, "No one can blame you, grandma, because I am too busy at work to take care of them. Two."

The doctor's words were forced to stop. After a short pause, he frowned slightly, raised his hand and knocked on the film in his hand, "I haven't finished this yet, so don't worry, grandma."

After talking about the situation, I turned my eyes to Miriam, "There is no need for surgery. The First People's Hospital in Jincheng has special doctors for treating children's diseases. I have already made an appointment with Dr. Tao. He is the most professional. It happens to be on duty today, so you can take your children over there to take a look."

Miriam hesitated, thinking mainly about the journey from City Two to Jincheng, "Can the child bear it?"

"No problem." The doctor said in a deep voice, "I just helped my child with bowel combing. Even if it is confirmed that surgery is still needed there, it will not delay the process. Of course, the specific treatment is still up to the parents to decide. If you don't want to Trouble this trip, we can also arrange surgery for the child immediately."

"Thank you, doctor, I'm going to Jincheng." Miriam made a decision almost in a moment, got up and nodded slightly to the doctor, "Thank you, you bothered."

After confirming the basic precautions with the doctor, he left Mother Lu in the hospital, went home and fetched simple clothes and drove over, and drove the two together toward Jincheng.

Along the way, the sweat on the palms of Miriam's palms was layer after layer, and the fingers holding the steering wheel tightened silently and drove the car fast.

We drove all the way to a halt in front of the city hospital, and then carried the child into the children's surgery, Dr. Tao's office almost without delay.

Seeing someone coming in with a child, the man over half a hundred years old only raised his eyes and reacted, "It's from City Two, give me the list."

After speaking, he stretched out his hand and carried the child, and after a brief double check and confirmed the diagnosis certificate brought by Miriam, he said in a deep voice: "The enema treatment should be too late. I will take the child to the clinic first. You have completed the follow-up procedures."

Miriam was about to withdraw from the department. When she turned her head, she met the young female doctor who was opening the door. She seemed to be only in her early twenties. After the two briefly exchanged their eyes, she saw the female doctor politely past her. Walked to the male doctor behind him, "Dad, I have something to ask you..."

The male doctor didn't raise his head when he heard the words, and interrupted her rather indifferently: "Did you see that I was busy? Let's talk about something after get off work."

"But..." The woman put her hands in the pockets of the white lab coat, glanced at the child who had already woke up and started crying, and finally shrugged a little compromisely, "All right, then you go ahead."

After she said that she turned around and was about to go out, the male doctor handed the child to the assistant next to her. While she packed up her things, she coldly dismissed her thoughts, "If it's about the Shao family, then we won't talk about it. You can tell others. I work overtime. If I let me go by myself, don't blame me for not giving you face."

There was no empathy about this, the woman stopped halfway out, her expression changed, and finally she turned her head and muttered a little, "Dad!"

"Okay, go ahead, work hours are not good, don't wait for me to report you to the dean." After speaking, the male doctor didn't even look at her, took the packed things in his hand and pushed the door Going in the direction of the consulting room.

Miriam stood there for a while, took the wallet she accidentally left next to him before leaving the house, and then left.