

Let Me be Your Ex Chapter 413– 414

Chapter 413

Miriam followed Bryan out of the ward.

The man didn't say a word, but his hand firmly clenched her wrist. Miriam couldn't keep up with his footsteps, so she earned a little, "Bryan, you hurt me."

Only then did Bryan react. The strength in his hand eased a bit, but the hostility in his eyes did not dissipate. He turned to look at Miriam, stepping closer to her, forcing her to the corner of the corridor. He grabbed her jaw with one hand, leaned over and kissed it.

Toughly plundering her breath, until the unknown uneasiness in my heart gradually dissipated, "If I haven't seen you in a few days, will you bring me back this rotten peach blossom?"

With his lips and teeth separated, he pulled the shredded hair from her temples behind his ear with one hand, and at the same time made a sharp inquiry.

Miriam leaned back against the wall and looked at him with a small smile, "Jealous?"

Bryan avoided her sight, raised his foot to the direction of the stairs, denying, "No."

Miriam nodded slightly, and quickly caught up with her, responding: "Well, I don't think you can either."

When the two got into the car one after the other, the man Senhan's questioning sound came from the back seat of the car again, shocking Lin Shui in the driver's seat into a trance.

"Miriam, why didn't you wear a ring?"

"..."

Miriam put her hand on her back and explained to herself: "Working in the workshop, jewelry is not allowed."

Bryan was silent. This reason made him impeccable. He could only breathe heavily for a long while, staring at the back of Lin Shui's head in front of him without turning his eyes.

When Miriam was sent back to Zhiheng downstairs, when she saw that she opened the door and went out, she couldn't help but said, "At night, I will pick you up for dinner."

Miriam smiled and nodded, then stepped away.

Until the figure disappeared from his sight, he was still in a daze, and said to the sound of the engine slowly starting, "Workshop, is it not allowed to wear jewelry?"

Lin Shui was ashamed, watching Bryan's uncertain look through the rearview mirror, "Mr. Shao, they are a jewelry company. According to the regulatory requirements, it should be like this."

Hearing this, Bryan breathed a sigh of relief silently, but the expression on his face was still cold, "Check me, what is the background of this Vice President Zhang."

"Yes." Lin Shui loosened his five fingers and said cautiously: "Mr. Shao, you won't be really jealous..."

"You talk more and more." Before he could finish speaking, Bryan interrupted, and at the same time stared coldly, "Drive your car well."

Before leaving get off work, Miriam leaned at her desk groggy, unexpectedly disturbed by Liao Qiu's clear and clear voice, "God, what a surprise!"

Miriam was suddenly startled, and saw Liao Qiu patted the table, stood up, and muttered something to the mobile phone in front of him: "Xun's Jewelry was revealed today to be involved in a certain money laundering case, and his honorary president was exposed to multiple foreign cases at the same time. Will face the disaster of jail, foreign newly-listed investment companies are officially in vain, and the loss is immeasurable."

The two-sentence news wording made Miriam feel completely sleepy.

Xiao Zhang on the side was also surprised. He then got up and moved to Liao Qiu's side and took the phone from her, "It's true, show me."

Miriam held his breath, pretending not to care, immersed in the table, and took a look at the time, "Okay, I'm here today, you two clean up and go eat."

She said, holding two stacks of documents in her hands, and about to get up.

"Director, aren't you with us?" Liao Qiu caught up with him, his eyes eagerly.

"No." Miriam paused slightly and glanced back."I have something to do. I don't necessarily go back to the hotel today. I will talk about something tomorrow."

After speaking, the mobile phone in her pocket sounded a message reminder. She took a look at the specific content, and her eyes filled with smiles.

Go out with your feet up, hold your phone in your hands, and reply to messages while walking.

Liao Qiu saw something and turned around and patted Xiao Zhang on the shoulder, "Brother Zhang, is our director in love?"

Xiao Zhang was taken aback, lifted a face from the screen of his phone, with a dull look, "No way, it shouldn't be that fast."

"I heard that you used to work behind the director?" Liao Qiu leaned forward again, embraced Xiao Zhang's arm with both hands and shook it, "I invite you to dinner, and you tell me about her previous affairs."

Xiao Zhang's face was red, and he was dragged out by Liao Qiu in a daze.

On the other side, Miriam went downstairs and got in Bryan's car. Not long after, the two of them were seated in a western restaurant.

Before the food was on the table, she did not hesitate to click on the phone to the news page to launch it, "Did you do this thing?"

Bryan only glanced at it slightly, not surprisingly, "You can say yes or you can say no."

"What do you mean?" Miriam didn't quite understand, frowning deeper, lowered his head and glanced at the news interface. "The news says Xun Yang is involved in drugs, isn't it..."

Bryan appreciates Miriam's keen wisdom and can quickly find key clues in numerous information. Therefore, he did not intend to hide anything. He told very frankly, "Yes, I found this point. He and Rania got close, I guess it was because of this incident."

Speaking of this, he took a sip of the warm water at hand.

Bryan's words confirmed Miriam's suspicion, but she couldn't help but doubt, "But there are still a lot of illicit materials from his earlier abroad. These backgrounds should have been washed out by him. How did you find out?"

Bryan curled her lips evilly upon hearing this, "I didn't find this."

His eyes slowly cooled, and he analyzed quietly, "So for now, besides me, there is a powerful force behind him that wants to kill him."

"Who would it be?" Miriam felt a thin layer of cold sweat on her back.

As soon as she asked, the conversation between the two of them was interrupted by the waiter who kept bringing up the dishes. The two remained silent until the dishes were ready. Bryan cut the steak and placed it in Miriam's bowl while casually cutting the steak into Miriam's bowl. Response.

Two words: "Rania."

Miriam paused for a while holding the knife and fork, her pupils trembled slightly, as if she couldn't believe it, "How come Rania treats Xun Yang like this, I am not afraid that he will bite back."

“There is no evidence.” Bryan said coldly, “he doesn’t dare.”

Miriam suddenly understood something. With the economic status and strength of the Song family, the squeezing and suppression from the side was enough to let Xun Yang die. Moreover, Rania deliberately kept silent, waiting for Bryan to make a move, fearing to confuse the audience. , Transferred the hatred to him alone.

When she figured it out, she couldn’t help feeling cold, “This woman is terrible.”

Bryan smiled faintly, not commenting on everything.

“At least, we can tell a little bit.” He raised his eyebrows and glanced at Miriam, “Do you know what it is?”

Miriam handed the beef to her lips and blinked twice, “What is it?”

His eyes were filled with a petting smile, and he slowly reminded: “Do you know who is the biggest investor of Xunyang’s listed company this time?”

Seeing that she had a slightly comprehensive look, he continued to add, still in two words: “Shang Rui.”

“So to say.....”

Miriam was holding a knife and fork, chewing slowly, and the emotion in her eyes gradually became unfathomable.

Chapter 414

Coming out of the restaurant, Miriam opened the back seat door and got in, leaning against the car window and closing her eyes to rest. After feeling that the man next to him was sitting down, she said softly, “Go to your place at night, I have two more. A colleague, it’s hard for them to explain.”

“We are a legal couple.” Bryan reminded.

Miriam slowly opened her eyes and glanced at him, “You make sense, then go to me.”

She raised her eyes and directed Lin Shui, “Autumn Famous Villa.”

Lin Shui was holding the steering wheel with both hands, and he did not start the engine for a long time, only observing Bryan’s face through the rearview mirror. Seeing the man’s expression stiff, he finally smiled, “Go to me.”

It is not impossible to explain, but in fact, there is no need to explain. Once her wife’s identity of the Shao family is disclosed, it will inevitably bring more or less resistance to work. Bryan understands that she will not be willing to let her take on unnecessary risks.

He compromised and had to admit that now Miriam is indeed no longer like before. She used the trick of “retreating as progress” with ease.

When Miriam heard the sound, she lied lightly, leaned on his shoulder and closed her eyes, “I will sleep for a while.”

“Okay.” He stiffened, motionless.

Lin Shui drove steadily. Miriam slept and woke up, and found that the body had stopped in front of a square gate. She rolled down the car window and looked over, and saw the name of a famous amusement park engraved on the rather Roman-style gate. .

She curled her eyebrows, slightly puzzled, and the car door was opened from outside in the next second. Bryan stood in front of the car and stretched out a hand to her, “I heard that there is a firework show here tonight. I will show you.”

Miriam stared at the big palm that was stretched out, couldn’t help being stunned.

Is this a date?

She was in a daze. She had been with Bryan for so many years. At the beginning, she had planned the trip of the two people more than once with the girlish expectation, but in the end all those plans were sealed in the drawer because of the man’s little words. The reticence made her still unable to raise the courage to speak.

Now, she didn’t expect those anymore, but the man took the initiative to reach out to her.

Seeing her hesitating, Bryan frowned slightly, “What’s the matter?”

“It’s okay.” She smiled lightly, put her warm and strong palm on her hand, and stepped out of the car.

The night scene of the amusement park is very different from the daytime. All the way through the main entrance, the colorful lights on both sides weave the surroundings into a splendid world. Except for the colorful lights, most of the street lights are dimmed, although the pedestrians are like weaving, everything around Still wrapped in a quiet peace of heart.

Miriam followed the influx of the crowd, walking slowly, unknowingly attracted by the surrounding scenery.

She didn’t pay attention, she was the only scenery in the eyes of the man around her.

Bryan looked down at her all the way, with a thick smile floating in his eyes.

The hands that clenched each other tacitly increased their strength, and Miriam turned to stare at the road under her feet, walking extremely slowly, “Bryan, how can such a real sense of existence make me feel scared?”

Bryan was silent, just following her pace, then let go of her hand, and took her shoulders heavily.

He understood the meaning of her words, and because he understood, he couldn't respond.

Miriam pondered for a while, and then frankly, "I used to think that no matter how great love is, no blood family affection, so in many things, I put you in a sacrificial position, but now..."

She paused quickly, raised her eyes and looked at the man affectionately with the light above her head.

"Bryan, I will do something next. These things may require the sacrifice of people around me. I hope you don't blame me when you know it." Miriam put her hands on Bryan's waist, her fingers tightly clenched, and her eyes infused with complex emotions.

Bryan looked down at her, faintly guessing something. He originally had the intention to explore, but after a pair of clear eyes, he forbore all the words in his heart for a moment.

"Okay." He squeezed one of her hands, put the white and tender fist to his lips, and carved a light kiss, "But I still hope you can think of me when you need it."

Miriam was in a daze, pursing her lips and smiling, "Okay."

She was just over, and suddenly felt that she was relaxed, and she took his hand and continued to walk along the crowd.

With brilliant lights above them, they walked all the way to the depths of the castle, found a stairway to sit down, and just cuddled and talked for a long time.

There are young couples walking by from time to time. Miriam looked at them and unconsciously remembered the past.

At midnight, after a brief hustle and bustle, the sky above their heads exploded into a splendid firework. They looked across the artificial lake in front of them, and the fireworks just set off the beautiful castle and the lake in front of them. The beauty made Miriam dumb.

She raised her head, her face filled with a simple smile that she had never seen before.

And all the scenery Bryan saw was hidden in her eyes.

He stared at her dumbly and couldn't help asking, "Miriam, are you so happy?"

Miriam leaned her head high, and without even looking at him when she heard the words, she bent her eyebrows and answered him: "Well, I have never been so happy."

She paused, remembering something, then looked down at him, "Aren't you?"

When Bryan heard this, his heart was ups and downs with a joke. He raised his eyebrows, turned his body to the side, supported his knees with his elbows, and looked at her with his cheeks. "You should have investigated when you knew me. When I was in college..."

"Okay, Bryan." Before he finished speaking, Miriam gave him a very angry glance, blocking the continuation of the topic.

"...There are many girls chasing after him." He refused to listen and insisted on finishing.

Miriam glared at him with a bit of irritation, "It's not that no one is chasing after him. At that time, the chairman of the student union in the courtyard, also..."

Before she finished speaking, she suddenly felt a calm force struck her waist, leading her body forward, and the words about to be spoken were blocked by the man's warm lips in the next second.

His domineering power swept over, and Miriam opened his eyes in a daze, seeing the light of the fireworks above his head from time to time on his side face.

"I am also the chairman of the student union, and you are destined to be Mrs. Shao." His lips separated, and he firmly embraced her in his arms.

Miriam was a little confused, as if drinking wine, her head was heavy, and her eyes were heavy.

The fireworks were not over yet, she stood up suddenly, and took his arm, "Husband, let's go."

Bryan was slightly startled, raised his eyes and stared straight into her eyes, his throat was astringent, "You call me... call again."

Miriam pursed her lips slightly, tilted her head and stared at him, her pink lips lightly opened, "Husband, I'm sleepy."

After that, he raised an eyebrow evilly, and cast a wink at him.

Bryan suddenly felt that his heart was filled with the perception of certain organs of the body, forcing him to get up quickly, grabbing his hands, and lifting the woman sideways, "Old...mother, let's go back to sleep."

Stepping past the crowd behind him, Miriam walked in the direction of the exit. Miriam wrapped her hands around Bryan's neck, her eyes were heavy, and there was only one person in the bottom of her eyes and in the bottom of her heart.

At this time, the straight forward step was blocked by the figure suddenly coming from behind, Bryan paused, staring solemnly at the strange face in front of him.