

Let Me be Your Ex Chapter 483– 484

Chapter 483

The appearance of Miriam caused the two people who had been at odds with each other to a different degree.

She didn't understand Longteng's company structure, but she just understood it when she heard it. Longteng is the lifeblood of the old lady. At this time, she must be clear about which one is more important.

Sure enough, after reacting, Mother Shao took Miriam in her arms and snorted coldly at the man with weird expression, "This is my daughter-in-law. I haven't seen it too much, but I should have heard it?"

The man looked embarrassed. Although he laughed politely and introduced himself, his eyes were obviously unbelieving.

Shao's mother was dissatisfied with Miriam's daughter-in-law. For the past two years, she has been arrogantly introducing Bryan a new object, every time with a big fanfare. This is no secret.

"Sister, I remember that you introduced a doctor to everyone some time ago, saying that it is the future daughter-in-law of the Shao family..." After he frowned, he thought about it, "What's the name? It seems that the surname is Tao?"

Whenever Tao Wan'er was mentioned, Shao's mother was furious.

There is not the slightest desire to win from other women, but she still obeys Bryan's words, helping him and Miriam to lie to herself. Some time ago, I heard that I also made a worthless boyfriend.

Mother Shao happened to meet him at the hospital that weekend. The man looked energetic, but had a silly temperament. Compared with his own son, he was not even worse.

But Tao Wan'er seemed to really like it, and took the opportunity to show her thoughts with Shao's mother, and all the words were persuading her to accept Miriam.

The old man glanced awkwardly to the side, feeling a little lost, and for a while did not know how to respond to the man's words.

But seeing Miriam next to him, she was taken aback, and then her frowned brows stretched out, as if she understood, she smiled: "You mean Tao Wan'er, right? Wan'er and I are friends. She is about to get engaged now. , You, as an elder, make such a rumor, and the consequences can be big or small."

“Engagement?” The man in front of him had a stiff expression. He glanced at Mother Shao and saw that she also had a surprised expression, as if she was unaware.

“The man has a stable and high-paying job in the South City branch of Yingxin Group. He has strong ability and great potential. The two are a match made in heaven.” As she said, she flipped something in her bag, and soon took out one. The pink invitation card came and shook it in his hand, “The engagement banquet will be next week, and the invitation cards are all delivered, don’t you believe it?”

She made an understatement on her face, but the expressions of the other two people were colorful.

After Shao’s mother reacted, she coughed awkwardly, but she could only follow Miriam’s words and said, “I like Xiao Tao. If I can’t be a daughter-in-law, I can recognize it as a wife, but these have nothing to do with you. . Honestly, just stay here, otherwise, when Bryan comes back, he won’t be able to rub the sand in his eyes. I can’t stop what I will do when I get older.”

This is a bit of dignity, and the three words Bryan alone are enough to shake the opponent’s body.

But thinking that in this case, Bryan might come back sooner or later. After a short weighing, he simply stopped Shao’s mother and said, “Anyway, today’s meeting notice has been sent out, and the directors will come in a while, you just leave. appropriate.”

“You can’t wait so much, I’m afraid that all the directors participating in the meeting today were bought by you?” Mother Shao threw her hand away, her eyes soaked with anger, “Are you stupid or when I was stupid, thinking I didn’t know your purpose? Is it? I will not participate in any board resolutions until Bryan returns!”

Bryan was absent. Although Shao’s mother had a relatively controlling interest in the company, she was personally emptied by the major directors. Therefore, she was cautious in doing everything during this period, and she felt exhausted after persisting for a short time.

Mother Shao’s attitude was firm, and the man was not so tough, so she had no idea for a while.

Seeing people walking far away, when they couldn’t stop them, suddenly a few luxury cars stopped in front of the square. Those who got off the cars were the directors who were preparing to attend the meeting.

He slowly breathed a sigh of relief, and saw that Shao’s mother was stopped by those directors. Before he had time to say a word, he was driven by the group of people in the direction of the building behind him.

Upon seeing this, Miriam took the lead to stop, and took advantage of the trend to stop one of the top five and three rough directors, and solemnly announced, "Today the board meeting is cancelled, please go back."

A group of people stopped one after another, looked at Miriam in unison, and looked up and down at her. Someone still didn't recognize her, they snorted very proudly from their noses, "Where did you come out, Long Teng? Is it your turn to speak?"

Miriam glanced in the direction of the voice, and saw a skinny man with cheekbones bulging, looking a bit shrewd. But she knew that the one who was really shrewd was the one she was holding out at the moment.

Sure enough, the man in front of the sky full of hands stretched out his hand to stop the person next to him. He looked at Miriam himself. Although he did not recognize her, he still asked politely: "You are?"

Miriam still held Shao's mother with one hand, and said, "Who I am is not important. What's important is that I am conveying Mr. Shao's meaning. Although he is no longer the person in charge of Long Teng, he has a bit of insight. The people who see the children must also judge the situation and judge the situation, right?"

As soon as she said what she said, the group of men who had been aggressive in front of her hesitated for a while, and they all glanced at each other again, as if thinking about something.

No one can guarantee that Bryan will return to Longteng again. If he stands in the wrong team at this time, the situation will change later and the possible consequences will be unpredictable.

After all, everyone here is convinced of Bryan's leadership ability.

There was silence in the square for a while, Miriam waited for the man in front of him to express his opinion. Unexpectedly, he hadn't spoken yet, and the sharp voice just came up again, "I recognize you, are you Miriam? Some time ago, you and Bryan's The news is very noisy, he is busy with You Mao's affairs now, and he is still in the mood to take care of the trivial matters?"

After speaking, he was the first to stand up, "After today's board meeting, whether he can return to Longteng again, these are two things to say."

Miriam couldn't help but look away, looking at him more.

He looks a little older, and his clothes are still glamorous. At this time, he is looking at people with his chin, and his face is full of disdain.

Miriam felt a force on her arm being squeezed, turned her head to look at Mother Shao, and saw that her forehead was oozing with sweat and her lips were gradually whitening, which seemed to be bad.

The subconscious backhand covered the back of Shao's hand, only to realize that her body was cold.

At this time, Miriam didn't have much idea. After all, she didn't have a semi-branch rights to Long Teng, and she didn't understand everyone present. The only thing she could count on was that she just reached out to stop him, and at first glance, there are still some worried men. .

The atmosphere was about to stand in a stalemate, and to everyone's expectations, a fragmentary but calm voice broke in on the side of the street not far away, shocking everyone to look back.

"Looking at what Director Qiu meant, do you plan to let me come back again?"

At that moment, in Miriam's eyes, Bryan, who slowly stepped down from the car and slowly approached everyone, was like a hero in her childhood memories.

The appearance seemed to bring his own background music. He walked steadily, had a calm face, and dealt with the crowd with a smile. With a surprised look, he walked up to the director Qiu first, and looked down to confirm, "Is that right?"

No extra words were said. In addition to surprise, Director Qiu had more fear in his eyes.

He retreated twice before reluctantly standing still, swallowing his saliva and replied: "No, why did I mean that."

Bryan, who spoke loudly and loudly at the beginning, still has an aura of no anger in the eyes of everyone. Worried about his abilities and wealth, no one dared to say "no" to him easily.

Miriam thought, this is what he calls "status".

While she was still shaking her mind, the man walked up to her without hurries, stood shoulder to shoulder with her, responding to everyone, "It seems that you are intending to reorganize the company's structure. I ask you to consider it carefully."

After a pause, he raised his lips confidently and calmly, "Of course I am not reluctant. I am both a pleading and a reminder, and I will not intervene in the final decision."

Chapter 484

Everyone knows that Bryan opened up the path of the Song family in Kyoto. In addition, Longteng was founded by Shao's father back then. So no matter from which perspective, this matter is worthy of reconsideration.

The confrontation did not last too long. In the end, it was the male director who Miriam reported that he was expecting to compromise first. He smiled and stepped back and said: "This matter was originally questionable, and we did not come here to vote directly.

Since Shao Shao I've always stated our position here, we will definitely give this face, and we still have the heart to look forward to your return. We can only rest assured if Longteng is handed over to you."

He was calm and unhurried, and his words were said to be perfectly convincing. The group of directors who had been in a dilemma listened to them, and they responded one by one. After a short while, the group dispersed.

The crowd in front of the huge Longteng Building Square dispersed. Shao Mu, who had been struggling to support her, was finally exhausted, and turned around and whispered softly: "Miriam..."

Before he could say anything else, his body collapsed with the hand on Miriam's wrist.

"aunt....."

Miriam bent over and supported Mother Shao's arm with one hand. Bryan, who reacted, quickly picked up the old man and hugged it in her arms.

Before walking towards the black car parked on the side of the road, he couldn't help but glance at the man who was still stunned. He saw his sister fainted. He had the heart to help, but when he saw Bryan, he instantly Stopped the action in his hand.

Cold sweat came out layer by layer on his forehead, and the atmosphere did not dare to take another breath.

Bryan only glanced at him coldly, without saying a word, and carried his mother in the back seat of the car in Miriam's flustered voice.

After the hospital check, it was only low blood sugar. Because of the irregular diet and work and rest after the operation, and the psychological pressure, the recovery was not very good, and occasionally he would go to the hospital again for various reasons.

Tao Wan'er was not surprised that Shao's mother was hospitalized again.

Because she helped Bryan deceive her before, and later established a relationship with Song Bo, she completely cut off Shao's mother's mind, so her old man's attitude towards Tao Wan'er is not clear.

Waking up in the hospital, he still twisted his face and didn't want to talk to her.

She had no choice but to push the door and shouted that Miriam, who was waiting, came in. When the two of them were rubbing shoulders at the door, Tao Wan'er glanced at her with a slightly sympathetic look, and then whispered, "The old lady has a bad temper, you Bear it."

Miriam nodded and responded. In fact, she still needs to be reminded. She has never had any expectation of getting along with Shao's mother.

But this time approached, but did not usher in the imaginary cynicism.

Mother Shao leaned on the hospital bed with a drip on the back of her hand, her complexion still not fully recovered. At this time, he heard the footsteps and did not speak, his eyes were empty as if in a daze.

When he approached, Miriam reached out and pointed back, "Bryan has gone to buy you food, and I will be back soon."

The old man didn't respond, but withdrew his eyes a little, staring down at the back of his hand.

Miriam couldn't guess what the other party was thinking now, and she didn't have the intention to think about it. Since the last time her mother's car accident happened, she had determined not to please the old lady again.

Otherwise, I always feel sorry for the one at home. I lay in the hospital for several months without talking. I didn't even see my father for the last time before his death.

Thinking of this, she sighed unconsciously, "Hello..."

"Pour me a glass of water, I'm a little thirsty." She was going to leave, but she unexpectedly said that Shao's mother suddenly spoke and interrupted her.

After hesitating for a moment, after reacting, he followed Shao's gaze and saw the kettle on the side table. After a response, he stretched out his hand.

In the early spring, the weather was still with a hint of chill, and the hot water washed the walls of the cup, stirring up a layer of mist in the sound of the rushing water.

Miriam moved slowly, and unexpectedly heard the old voice echoing behind him.

"Last time about your mother, I apologized to her old man for me." After a heavy sigh, Mother Shao slowly spoke. She looked at Miriam's thin back, as if she had never looked at her so seriously, "that day. I was wrong, and I didn't even look at her afterwards. Is my body okay now?"

The sound of water flowing in my ears stopped abruptly.

Because of the tremor of the body, the water jet splashed out of the wall of the cup, and immediately fell on Miriam's hand, causing her brows to frown, and her body instantly rolled out of cold sweat.

But she subconsciously forbore her, gritted her teeth and stared at the back of her red hand without saying a word.

I could hear Shao's mother saying this. The tremor in her heart had a greater impact than her body pain, so she was unwilling to block the conversation with external force, and she didn't know how to respond for a while.

"Yeah." After a while, her expression condensed, and she walked to Shao's mother with a glass of water, and handed the water to her. "I was discharged from the hospital a year ago, and I will recover more slowly when I get older."

Mother Shao lowered her head and saw the red on the back of her hand, her throat rolled up and down twice, and finally she took the water glass and held it in her hand.

It can be judged that Miriam is trying hard to endure certain emotions.

The old man curled his lips pale, "You mother and daughter must hate me?"

Miriam didn't veto it, which was regarded as a default.

After a long while, she put the red hand behind her back, and answered sincerely, "If it weren't for you to be Bryan's mother, I would never have let go of the accident. To put it bluntly, I can still stand now. Talking to you calmly here is also because of your identity."

She said this quite sensibly, and the old man felt happy after hearing this.

Coincidentally, she and Miriam are surprisingly consistent on this point.

As the atmosphere condensed, the old man suddenly lost his sight. She put the water glass aside and asked, "Do you know why I am looking for you this time?"

After thinking for a while, Miriam curled her lips and smiled, with a somewhat self-deprecating meaning, "I don't know, but I think it's nothing more than anything else."

Mother Shao looked at her, suddenly pointed her finger at the bag hanging on the hanger next to her, leaning forward, unable to reach her for a long time. At this time, it was not surprising to see a delicate arm crossed her, and took the lead off the bag.

"What do you want, I will get it." Miriam took the bag in her hand and looked at Mother Shao calmly.

The old man neatly trimmed the fragments of hair in a dignified manner, and stretched out his hand at random, "There is a blue cloth box in it. Bring it to me."

After hearing what Shao's mother said, he stretched his hand and flipped through it, and as expected, he saw a flannel box, which was somewhat faded, showing a sense of age.

Miriam grabbed the box in her hand, and just about to hand it out, she heard the old man say, "Open it."

She hesitated slightly, but opened it.

The body of the box is quite textured. After opening it, what you see is an emerald green jade bracelet with excellent color. Although Miriam does not understand jade, he can judge that it is very valuable.

“It was originally a pair, but I accidentally dropped one, and I didn’t want to wear the other one.” Shao’s mother heard the rare soft voice, “This was the first investment that Longteng made at that time. At that time, Bryan’s father bought it for me, and it has been many years before he knew it.”

Listening to Mother Shao’s voice, Miriam couldn’t help but raise her head and saw the old man’s eyes move, with a faint smile on his face, as if he was remembering the past.

After being silent for a while, seeing her calm down, he sighed slightly, then raised his hand at Miriam, “It’s yours now.”

At that moment, I suddenly felt that the weight between my fingers was heavy.

Miriam was stunned. For a long time, she didn’t understand what Shao’s mother meant. She only felt that there was a rumble in her head, as if she had heard something terrible.

Mother Shao looked at her without responding for a long time, then she raised her eyebrows and said, “Why are you still stunned, put it on and see.”

“I didn’t understand what you meant.” Looking down at the bracelet, Miriam still did not dare to move, only feeling the burning of her eyes, staring blankly.

Mother Shao was dissatisfied, and frowned again, “You Miriam are not stupid, do you need me to clarify?”
