

Let Me be Your Ex Chapter 495– 496

Chapter 495

Miriam and Bryan only witnessed the engagement ceremony of Tao Waner and Song Bo on the stage together. After the food was ready, the two did not eat more.

After the ceremony, Miriam greeted Song Bo and left the hotel with Bryan.

Bryan had a meeting to prepare for the evening, and the schedule was in a hurry. Miriam also received an emergency call from Shelly on the way back, so the two tacitly canceled their plan to have a simple meal outside before going back. I bought bread and milk in a nearby supermarket and went on the road.

Miriam returned to City Two, first sent An Yan home, and then drove directly to the hospital.

Shelly was in a car accident. She was afraid that her bluffing brother would cause trouble, so she simply didn't notify him. She rummaged through the address book, thinking that the only person to contact was Miriam.

All the way to the hospital without stopping for a while, it was still a little late. By the time Shelly had finished the reduction operation, he had a thick gauze and fixator around his left arm.

What made Miriam horrified was that in addition to her arms, the whole half of her cheek was also covered with gauze, and her exposed eyes were swollen, and it seemed that the situation was not very good.

"How did it happen?" She even hesitated to approach, vaguely remembering that this proud woman once showed off in front of her. The most valuable thing all over her body was her brain, followed by this naturally seductive face.

Although this was said in a joking tone, it was true. Shelly was beautiful, and half of her arrogant aura was due to this impeccable beautiful face.

"It's okay. The doctor said that the swelling can be reduced in a week." His tone was soaked with worry, and Shelly, who was reluctantly adjusting his sitting posture, smiled, "It is well maintained and will not leave scars."

At this time, the woman was optimistic. She couldn't see the slightest worry and pointed to the seat next to her, "Do you bring me anything delicious?"

"You still have the heart to eat, really don't worry about your face at all?" Miriam was dumb, staring at it with widened eyes, and then helplessly spread her hands to indicate, "I rushed all the way, how can I bring you food back? of."

Unexpectedly, when the woman heard this, she sat on the hospital bed and circled her legs with her other intact arm. Her chin was knocked on her knees and looked pitifully. She mumbled in her mouth and reported a bunch of food. .

However, most of them are nutritious and healthy fruits and vegetables, which are in line with Shelly's usual taste. They must be harmless to her injuries. Miriam had no choice but to compromise, and put her bag on her back and got up again. "You wait, I'll go. Buy it for you."

After driving out, I went around all the way, and finally came back with two heavy bags. When I stood at the door of the ward and was about to push the door in, I heard the sound of conversation inside, and the action of opening the door with my hands could not help but stop.

He quickly distinguished the voice of the person, and understood Shelly's real intention to distract her. Miriam put the bag in her hand on the empty seat next to her, turned around and went to the doctor's office to ask Shelly's specific situation.

The doctor turned over the case with a clear voice, "Fortunately, there is a broken arm. Fortunately, there is no misalignment. There is no need to perform an operation to set the bone. Otherwise, it will inevitably leave scars.

As he said, he raised his eyes and glanced at Miriam, and pushed the gold-framed glasses casually, "You are her friend, should you understand?"

Miriam nodded, affirming what the doctor said, but she was also strange in her heart. She looked up and said, "The doctor knows her?"

The young male doctor had an old-fashioned temperament. He licked the corners of his lips when he heard the words. The nurse who happened to enter the door next to him heard it, and he giggled twice and broke the conversation. Not only Dr. Zhao, everyone in the entire outpatient building now knows this palace lady."

Miriam heard it even more strangely, turned her head and glanced at the little nurse, "What do you mean?"

After listening to the female nurse chattering to make things clear, Miriam understood it and stared at the top of the male doctor in front of him with a slightly sorry look, "Excuse me, Doctor Zhao, she really pulled your hair. ?"

Doctor Zhao narrowed his eyes and smiled and waved his hands indifferently."It's okay. After the wound has been treated, Ms. Shelly has already apologized to me. It was not a big deal at first, but she just didn't want to leave scars so she had a temper. It's so beautiful and understandable."

The doctor was reasonable, which made Miriam even more embarrassed. When she had to say something, the nurse next to her joked, "Dr. Zhao evaluates a female patient so that she is not afraid of her fiancée being angry?"

The little nurse tilted her head and waited for a good show. She saw that Dr. Zhao's eyes trembled unknowingly after hearing the three words "fiancee", then he coughed twice in embarrassment, and turned his eyes back to the medical record, serious. To ask.

"The injury on the face is not serious but it is also a trauma. If you want to avoid scars, you must pay attention to the taboo. Her accident was already considered serious in the middle of a battery car. You should be careful when you go out."

"Battery car?" Miriam suddenly woke up. Shelly just walked in and he was kicked out by Shelly before he had time to ask for specific details. I didn't expect that Ms. Shelly, who usually walks with wind, would be injured by the battery car. .

Nodded and thanked him, the little nurse took the things and followed Miriam out. When she was about to turn around the corridor, she was still saying to herself, "I was so scared that I could drive by myself. Scars can't wait for the ambulance. Your friend is really brave."

The word "brave" is used to describe Shelly? Miriam shook her head and smiled, and answered her in Shelly's own words, "Her face is very expensive."

When Miriam returned to the ward, there was no noise inside. She bent down and picked up the two big bags on the chair and knocked on the door to enter.

With Shelly's expectant gaze, she put the food that she bought on the table, "Knowing you want to drive me away, but you don't need to let me run such a big circle? When do you like to eat this? Home sweet cake?"

Saying that he deliberately took out the sweet cake, opened the box and handed it to her, "Eat it."

Shelly doesn't like to eat sweets. When he saw it, he subconsciously turned his face away, and then smiled without guilt, "You know it."

"Do you know what?" Miriam glanced at the trash can next to it filled with a bunch of flowers, then looked at her with a calm face, "I know you grabbed Dr. Zhao's hair as soon as you entered the hospital and dragged him directly into the emergency room. room."

After that, he didn't say anything more, let alone ask why Miller brought Miss Bao to the hospital to see her.

One of the great benefits of the relationship between Miriam and Shelly is that they are both very clever. Many words don't need to be too clear, and they can also guess the meaning of each.

After a pause, Shelly glanced at the bag next to him, "What else can I eat?"

After hearing the words, Miriam turned over the contents one by one, and a table was filled. Finally, she chose a box of washed strawberries and opened it on her own initiative. "This was bought at the imported brand store you mentioned. I finally know. In addition to buying and buying, what do you use your money for?"

"What are you doing?" Shelly opened his mouth and took the strawberry that Miriam handed over.

"Eat." Miriam looked at her with her lips, and commented pertinently, while weighing the weight of her palm with one hand, "Do you know how much this box is?"

"You are Mrs. Shao anyway, do you need to be so stingy?" Shelly looked stiff, frowned and smashed the strawberry in his mouth. The other hand had already quietly stretched out again, and took the box. When he ate, he asked casually, "Do you know how I hurt?"

Miriam nodded, "I heard, battery car."

"Then do you know who hit me on a bike?"

"Who?" Miriam was taken aback when she asked, and she looked up to see that she was still eating seriously, as if all her attention had been reserved for the box of food, and she treated the topic somewhat casually.

Finally he was willing to look up at her, Shelly's eyes were cold, and he faintly uttered three words: "Miss Bao."

Chapter 496

When a box of strawberries was finished, Shelly had already said the whole story.

It turns out that I didn't go to Song Bo's engagement banquet today. Half of the reason was that Shelly himself didn't like the excitement. More importantly, Miller made an appointment with her on the phone the night before and said there was something important. Things to talk about.

She could probably guess what Miller wanted to tell her. The reason for the appointment was a little selfishness of her own. On the phone, she agreed, "Well, I also have something to tell you."

The two agreed to meet at a riverside park near the center of the city. In Linchun, it was one of the most typical landmarks in City Two, because the park was built along the river. Standing in front of the square, there is a sea of flowers in front of you and a sea of flowers behind you. The picture is very beautiful.

Shelly drove over, went to the appointment as scheduled, waited quietly for ten minutes under the agreed fish-shaped sculpture, and finally lost his patience. He dialed the phone originally intended to curse, but unexpectedly was hung up without connecting.

Then I hugged my chest and looked around. When I was about to leave, I saw a battery car in front of me smashed into him. The owner yelled in panic, and finally slammed Shelly into a full face.

He hurt his arm, and his face was bleeding from the flowerbed beside him.

At that time, Shelly had 10,000 swear words in his heart, raised his hand and wiped his chin, and then pulled the woman in the car off with a bloody hand, "Do you have any questions, can you ride a bicycle here?" "

When she picked up the person from the ground, she could see that it was not someone else she was holding with her hand, but it was Miller's girlfriend, Miss Bao, who did not know where to pick it up.

Miss Bao was obviously also frightened, her eyes were red, and she kept panting, "I'm sorry this lady, I'm very sorry, my car broke down, I'll take you to the hospital now..."

As she said, she hurriedly took out her mobile phone from her pocket. The ambulance call had just been called, and she recognized it when she raised her eyes and looked quietly. She stretched out a finger very dumb, "Are you...Ms. Shelly?"

Surprised and panicked, he carved the already-white face into a beautifully touching face.

After clarifying the situation on the phone, she stomped her feet in a hurry, hung up the phone, and explained helplessly with red eyes, "My dad is in the hospital, and I am anxious to get closer. I'm so sorry, Ms. Shelly."

At this time, Shelly was hit and his head was dizzy. He originally planned to wait for the ambulance to come, but unexpectedly, after seeing Miss Bao after thinking about it, he took out his mobile phone and opened his address book familiarly. Called Brother Zheng to come over too, and he was with my dad in the nearby hospital."

Shelly looked down and saw the three words "Dear" on the woman's mobile phone remarks. He suddenly felt disgusting and interrupted, "No, I can go to the hospital by myself."

Then, regardless of Miss Bao's obstruction behind him, she covered the wet wipes that had been soaked in blood and went straight to the parking lot next to her. After getting into the car and seeing the woman catching up in the rearview mirror, she did not hesitate for a moment, stepped on the gas pedal and drove the car out.

Later, it was what Miriam witnessed next.

Five minutes before Miriam arrived at the hospital, Shelly just picked up the call from Miller to explain. Not surprisingly, he also learned about his bruise. No matter what Shelly said, he insisted on carrying the bag. Miss take a look.

"I know which ward you are in. We will be there in ten minutes after you settle down in the old man's house." After saying that, regardless of Shelly's roar, he abruptly hung up the phone.

When Miriam heard this, she couldn't help but burst into laughter. She raised her eyes to observe Shelly with a look of lovelessness, and knew what she cared about.

"You don't want Miller to see you like this?"

Rarely, Shelly didn't explain anything, and sat there alone and depressed.

Ms. Gong, who has always been proud and arrogant, thinks that she is the most beautiful woman in the world, how could she be willing to let other men, especially Miller, see her disfigured appearance, this will cause her soul to be far more traumatic than her body. Trauma.

However, Shelly is not only beautiful but also smart. She has bright eyes and bright heart, and the cautious thoughts of others are usually hard to hide from her eyes.

"Just how could it be so coincidental?" Miriam wrinkled her eyebrows for a while, and then hesitated.

Hearing this, Shelly glanced at her with a faint look, and seemed to make an inadvertent evaluation: "Coincidence? It can be said that more than 80% of the coincidences in the world are achieved by the efforts of one party behind the scenes."

There was something in these words that made Miriam's brows furrowed deeper, and she quickly realized the meaning, so she calmly looked over, "Whose effort do you mean?"

Shelly didn't say anything, just inadvertently glanced at the bouquet she had just thrown into the trash can, and couldn't help but recall the scene where a man and a woman entered the door arm in arm.

"I've heard everything. Xiao Baozi's car has a brake problem and accidentally ran into you. I will apologize to you on her behalf. Medical expenses and nutrition expenses are counted with me. Follow me if you want to eat. Said that if there are scars on the face in the future, the post-treatment costs will also be mine."

As soon as Miller entered the door, when he saw Shelly's face, an unconcealable surprise flashed across his face. After he calmed down, he narrated one by one with a serious face.

It seems that the handling method is generous and decent, and it can be considered unambiguous when it comes to spending money. But the protagonist who encountered the incident is Shelly. She is the person who is least short of money. In the previous two years, she has earned more than many people's hard work in a half-life. At this time, it is only for her to talk with money. Like an insult.

But at the moment she didn't have an attack either, she just stared at the people coldly with her uninjured eye, and ditched all the topics, and only asked indifferently: "Why break the appointment?"

These words were as cold as if they were frozen from the bottom of the cellar.

The atmosphere turned into a stalemate for a moment, and the man held his breath, as if he had no meaning to explain.

Miss Bao, who was standing side by side with Miller, finally had time to interject, "Ms. Shelly, don't be angry, because my dad suddenly suffered a heart attack in the hospital. At that time, I was attending a seminar at school, and Brother Zheng had to be there for me. The hospital takes care of it."

Miss Bao raised her foot and stepped forward, put the bouquet she was holding on to the table next to Shelly, and then retreated to the man's side. When walking along the way, her foot was always limp. It is not difficult to guess where the injury came from. Come.

Shelly also understood that after waiting for so long, he was afraid that he was going to treat the legs of Miss Bao.

Miss Bao replaced Miller to explain, and he still didn't speak up. He knew in his heart that no matter what the reason was, the facts were doomed, and other words were useless.

Shelly agrees with this point. She retracted her gaze rather indifferently, and at the same time curled her lips somewhat self-deprecatingly, "Sorry, this lady has never been played like this in her life. I have taken down this grudge."

When the voice fell, Miss Bao raised her foot again to move forward, eager to explain, "Brother Zheng didn't mean it, Ms. Shelly, if you want to blame it, blame me, after all, I hurt you."

These words were right in Shelly's arms. She said that she was grudges, but she still didn't remember who it was.

But at the moment he still curled his lips and smiled sensibly, "Don't worry, Shelly has always distinguished right from wrong. Miss Bao is also worried about her father, I can understand. But this Mr. Gu..."

She turned and looked up at the man in front of her.

Miller held onto Miss Bao, who was about to beg for mercy, and responded with a cold and firm voice, "What do you want me to do?"

Shelly hooked his lips, his eyes wandered back and forth between the two of them, and then made a faint request.

“I am not short of money, so spending money to solve this method does not work. I want you Miller to come and take care of my diet and daily activities every day from today until I fully recover. You buy what I want to eat and what I want to do. You go to prepare and stay with the hospital for more than six hours a day. There is no time limit when there are special requirements.”

After speaking in one breath, he finally smiled An Ran, his eyes fell on Miller, but Yu Guang looked at Miss Bao next to him.

At this moment, the expression on her face turned green and white, which was very wonderful.