

They would rather believe it was the end of the world than the fact that this young, casually dressed man in front of them actually knew Noah.

So what if he knew Noah? Sven Fender was Noah's direct subordinate. Noah would not make things difficult for Sven just because Tyr asked him to.

Meanwhile, Tyr had already taken his phone out and was giving Noah Lee a call.

Prior to this, when Noah had defeated Kareem with Zachery Smith's help, Tyr had already met him and saved his number.

Once the call was answered, Noah greeted respectfully, "Brother Tyr."

"I am at the Jolly Theme Park now. Do you have a subordinate named Sven Fender?"

"He bullied my wife and daughter, and even threatened to break my limbs. Do as you see fit!"

Thereafter, Tyr hung up.

Meanwhile, Noah, who was enjoying a massage in a parlor, immediately stood up.

A chill travelled from his toes to his forehead.

“Sven Fender, that piece of dog sh*t. Did he mess with Brother Tyr?”

At that instant, Noah felt as if his heart was about to jump out of his chest.

His head was beginning to feel heavy.

“Is that dumb*ss trying to kill me?”

Noah Lee frantically ran downstairs and made several calls as he did so.

“Hurry up and go to Jolly Theme Park.”

“Something major happened!”

Chapter 142 Let's Sleep Together

Although Sven Fender's phone rang several times in the theme park, he did not notice it at all.

Whenever he went on a date with his girlfriend, he would keep his phone on silent because he did not want his fun to be interrupted.

If he looked at his phone right now, he would be shocked.

Within a few minutes, Noah Lee had tried to call him over ten times.

Meanwhile, Sven began laughing at Tyr Summers for his act.

"Yo. Did you really call Master Noah on the phone? What a great actor!"

Sven's face turned cold after making those snippy comments.

"How dare you pretend to be Master Noah's friend? I'm going to break your limbs on that basis alone!"

Sven waved his hand. "Grab him. I'm going to break his limbs myself!"

A dozen large men immediately surrounded Tyr.

However, right then, a sedan rammed through the theme park's gate and was speeding in their direction. As soon as the car stopped, a bald man walked out.

"Everyone, stop right away! Sven Fender, are you mad?"

Sven was stunned. "Baldie, what are you doing? Why do you seem so anxious?"

Baldie felt goosebumps all over his body. He did not even dare look Tyr in the eyes. Baldie immediately kicked Sven aside.

"Even if you want to die, don't drag others into your mess. Do you have any idea who you have gotten into trouble with?"

Sven seemed dumbfounded. He had always been good friends with Baldie since they were both Noah Lee's direct subordinates.

In fact, he had never seen Baldie like this. Baldie would never hit him right away when they met.

Before Sven could react, Baldie turned around and kneeled in front of Tyr.

“Brother Tyr, Master Noah will be arriving very soon. Please don't be angry!”

The people around them became silent. A lot of the observers were still not sure what exactly was going on.

After a moment, several black sedans sped through the theme park's main entrance. The sedans stopped about eight meters away.

With sweat dripping down his forehead, Noah Lee immediately hopped out of the car and ran over with dozens of followers behind.

“Master Noah!” Sven suddenly felt lost.

When Sven recalled how Baldie had reacted, a chill ran down his spine. Noah Lee seemed very mad right then. The sweat on his forehead began to drip down.

Meanwhile, the entourage was walking over to Tyr as quickly as they could. After that, the group of people bowed to Tyr respectfully. "Brother Tyr!"

"Brother Tyr..." All of them greeted Tyr in unison and a respectful manner.

Meanwhile, everyone around them held their breaths in shock. Noah was the new underground king of Khanh City. Yet, he was showing such deep respect to a young man in his twenties. It was quite hard to believe.

Everyone, including the surrounding observers and Sven's followers, was all stunned. People began to feel their scalp prickle.

"Your subordinate wanted to break my limbs!" Tyr exclaimed.

That had nearly made Noah's heart stop beating.

"Brother Tyr, I will offer you closure on this."

Noah turned around and began making his way to Sven. Right then, Sven kneeled on the ground in fear.

"Master Noah, please forgive me!"

Thud...

Noah kicked Sven hard on his chest and fractured one of his chest bones.

“You blind fool. What gave you the courage to mess with Brother Tyr? Do you know who he is?”

Even a fool could guess who Tyr Summers was right now.

Not long ago, when Kareem was killed, Noah could dominate Khanh City's underground with help from the Smith family. There were rumors that there was an even more powerful person apart from Noah and Kareem. That person was the true underground king!

Now, Sven felt as if his world was falling apart. He had messed with this king!

“Break his limbs and carry him away,” Noah commanded.

Baldie immediately ran forward to attack Sven. “Brother, I'm afraid your time is up here. I hope you can be more careful in your next lifetime.”

As Sven cried out in pain, his girlfriend and followers went pale.

Ba-dump. Ba-dump.

They all kneeled on the ground.

“Take them all away.”

Still deeply angered, Noah commanded his followers to take all of these people away. After that, Noah walked respectfully over to Tyr and bowed to him. “Brother Tyr, I will make sure they pay for what they did. Please, Brother Tyr, don't be mad!”

Tyr waved his hands lazily. “Let them live as long as you teach them a lesson.”

“Thank you, Brother Tyr, for having mercy on us!”

After Noah and his followers left, Tyr's family was no longer in the mood to stay in the theme park.

Fortunately, Tyr had asked Winifred to take Blair somewhere else so that Blair did not see what happened. Otherwise, Tyr was worried that it might leave a traumatic memory in Blair's mind.

In the afternoon, Tyr and Winifred took Blair to the aquarium and spent the rest of the day there. They only returned home after dinner.

Although there was a slight hiccup in the morning, Blair still had a happy day.

When it was time for bed, Tyr proceeded to walk to the spare room as usual. However, Blair came running to him.

“Daddy, you can’t sleep here.”

“Why?”

Tyr and Blair were both shocked.

Winifred had a bad feeling about this. Would Blair come up with some sneaky ideas as she did previously? Indeed, Blair was already pulling Tyr to the room she and Winifred slept in. “Daddy, did you and Mommy fight?”

“No, Blair. Why would you think that?” Tyr asked.

“That’s because my classmates told me that our parents would only sleep in separate rooms if they get into a fight. If you didn’t argue, why don’t you sleep together? Daddy, you must sleep with Blair and Mommy tonight. I want you to tell me bedtime stories!”

Winifred's face had turned red. She was about to refuse when Tyr spoke, “Okay, Blair. Daddy will sleep with you two tonight.”

Winifred was shocked.

When did Tyr become this shameless?

Although Tyr and Winifred were married, they had always slept apart because Winifred was still not ready yet.

On the other hand, Tyr did not force anything on her, either. After all, he knew that a six-year gap would mean Winifred needed some time to get used to this.

They would perceive it as a new relationship altogether.

However, how could Tyr let go of such a wonderful opportunity?

Blair immediately started clapping her hands and cheering. “That's awesome, Daddy. From now on, can you always sleep with us?”

Winifred gritted her teeth as she cursed her daughter.

"That won't do, Blair!" Tyr quickly said.

Winifred sighed in relief. She was worried for a second there that Tyr might agree to Blair's request. To be honest, Winifred was still not ready to sleep on the same bed with Tyr.

"Why not, Daddy?" Blair asked.

"That's because Blair will grow up. Once you start attending primary school, you will have to sleep on your own," Tyr explained.

"But Daddy and Mommy will sleep together forever," Blair pointed out.

"Huh?" Winifred was in shock.

Chapter 143 Tell A Story

Winifred Zea's heart began to pound. What did Tyr Summers mean by this? Was he trying to express how he felt about her?

To be honest, Tyr would not have done this in the past. Previously, Tyr would always treat her with extreme respect.

However, somewhere along the line, Tyr seemed to have changed. At the same time, Winifred seemed to have also changed without realizing it.

For example, when Autumn Field was in a dire situation, Winifred ran into Tyr's arms and cried her heart out in the office. Tyr simply held her tightly without pushing her away as well.

During this time, neither of them paid attention to these changes. However, when they reflected on this today, they realized their relationship had evolved.

"Why are you all still standing there? It's getting late. Do you think electricity is free? Hurry up and go to bed.”

Tyr’s mother-in-law, Helen Cole, suddenly walked out of her room and yelled at them.

In reality, she had been eavesdropping on them by her door for a long time.

Now, she and Jacob Zea had both accepted Tyr. It was not because Tyr was rich. Instead, it was because they could feel that Tyr genuinely cared about Winifred and her daughter. Even if Tyr was a beggar, they would never have the ill intentions to force Winifred to leave him.

“Okay, Mom. You always sleep with the television on. Don’t you think that’s a waste of electricity?”

Helen stormed out. “Winifred Zea, do you think you are all grown now and can talk back to your mother? Go to bed. From today on, Tyr Summers, you will sleep in Winifred’s room. Do you know how difficult it is for me to clean up if you two sleep in separate rooms? I am announcing that Tyr’s room will be locked from tomorrow on. Tyr, you will now sleep with Winifred and Blair!”

Winifred was both nervous and afraid. However, she was also a little excited.

Tyr looked at his mother-in-law gratefully. “Mom, we’ll purchase a villa in a few days. We’ll also hire helpers, so you don’t have to be so tired!”

“Go away...” Helen looked annoyedly at Tyr. “Are you mad?”

After that, Helen returned to her room and closed the door behind her with a bang.

Tyr, Winifred, and Blair now slept on the same bed. Just as they did before, Tyr and Winifred slept on opposite ends, as Blair slept in the middle.

“Daddy, can you tell Blair a story?”

“Alright.” Tyr smiled. “Do you want to listen to the story about Grandma Bear?”

“Daddy, what’s Grandma Bear?”

Blair immediately hid under the covers.

Tyr began speaking softly. “Once upon a time, a girl lived with her younger brother in a tiny village. One day, the children’s mother needed to go somewhere far away. Hence, she asked the girl to look after her younger brother at home. In the evening, Grandma Bear pretended to be their grandmother and came to their house. In the end, when they were sleeping, Grandma Bear ate the younger brother’s toes because they were dirty!”

Tyr spent nearly ten minutes to finish telling the story about Grandma Bear to Blair.

By then, Blair had already tucked herself under the covers completely.

“Daddy, why did you tell Blair this story?” Although Blair was afraid, she was attracted by the story as it made her think.

Meanwhile, Winifred began to explain. “Daddy wants to tell Blair through this story that children must stay clean at all times. Otherwise, Grandma Bear will eat their toes.”

Blair immediately dived into Winifred’s arms. “

Mommy, Blair loves being clean. Grandma Bear will definitely not come for Blair!”

Tyr chuckled. “Blair, there is another moral to this story.”

“What is it, Daddy?”

“This story reminds Blair that Blair must make sure Daddy sleeps with you every night,” Tyr said.

“Mommy will protect Blair, while Daddy protects Blair and Mommy.”

Winifred was speechless.

With the moon high up in the sky, its gentle moonlight shone through the window and created a calm ambiance in the room.

Very soon, Blair fell asleep.

On the other hand, Winifred kept her eyes closed and pretended to be asleep. Occasionally, she would peek at Tyr with her eyes slightly open. When she realized Tyr was staring at her, she hurriedly shut her eyes.

Tyr lifted his head and reached over Blair to give Winifred a peck on her cheek. Winifred opened her eyes in fear as she looked at Tyr.

“Sleep!”

Tyr smiled gently at Winifred before kissing Blair on her forehead.

In the following days, Tyr fulfilled his promise by sending Blair to school and picking her up after school. He was spending a lot of his time and energy on his baby daughter because she was his princess.

In the blink of an eye, a month had passed. The weather was now transitioning into the warmer summer.

In the same café as before, Donald Lewis respectfully handed a thick stack of documents to Tyr.

“Brother Tyr, it’s all sorted out. The entire Hill family has been wiped out. I have taken over most of the Hill family’s properties in the central region. I’m now the leader of Khanh City’s property market. The Hill family is done for!”

Tyr did not bother going through the documents in his hands. Besides, he would not understand them anyway.

Tyr was quite pleased with Donald's performance this time. He was certain that Donald had been plotting against the Hill family since a few years ago due to his own ambitions. All Donald lacked was an opportunity. Tyr had given him this opportunity a month ago to make his move. With a lot of money to back Donald up, he was able to defeat the Hill family in a short amount of time.

"You did well."

Donald was excited to have received a compliment from Tyr.

"Thank you, Brother Tyr. Brother Tyr, now that the Lewis family has taken over the large projects from the Hill family, we will try to return you the three billion dollars on top of the interest we owe you."

"On top of the interest you owe me?"

Tyr suddenly frowned.

Donald realized that he had said something offensive. “Brother Tyr, that’s not what I meant. I meant to say that now that we have won, the three billion dollars doesn’t have to be in the Lewis family. Therefore, Brother Tyr, you can gradually reclaim the money!”

Tyr chuckled before drinking the tea in his cup. “The money isn’t important to me, Donald Lewis. I just want you to remember something. The Lewis family is only capable of what it achieved today because of me!”

S

Chapter 144 Past One's Prime

Donald Lewis immediately understood what Tyr Summers was trying to say as he felt a chill down his spine.

Donald immediately kneeled before Tyr. "Brother Tyr, I will always remember that. From today on, the Lewis family will do whatever Brother Tyr asks us to," Donald said as he kneeled.

"Get up. Don't kneel for no reason. I don't like it!" Tyr waved his hands.

Donald quickly stood up.

"Oh, right, Brother Tyr. Recently, we have begun selling the luxurious villas in Lunar Mountain. It is in one of the best regions in Khanh City. Moreover, everything is fully furnished, and residents can start moving in. Would you like me to choose the best one halfway up the mountain for you?"

Donald was a smart person. Perhaps, he had already asked around about Tyr's current circumstances.

Now that Tyr and Winifred Zea were still living in the three-room apartment, Donald guessed that Tyr would probably be thinking about buying a house of his own. Naturally, Donald would want to please Tyr by offering him a villa in Lunar Mountain.

In reality, Tyr really did have this thought on his mind. In fact, he had also set his eyes on the villas in Lunar Mountain!

"Sure."

"Alright, Brother Tyr. I'll inform you once everything has been arranged!"

"Great!"

Meanwhile, when dusk came, it was completely quiet in the Hill family's villa.

Carl Hill had already let go of all servants in the villa. Meanwhile, the other relatives had chosen to leave Carl in his worst moment.

The Khanh family, which used to dominate the property market, was now at the end of the road.

Carl Hill had never expected the Hill family to fall this quickly.

A month ago, the Hill family was still one of the most influential families in Khanh City. However, within a month, they had lost everything.

The Lewis family had planned this for many years. They took the opportunity to attack the Hill family when the latter was in a less favorable state. The methods used were so cruel and sudden that the Hill family were completely unprepared to face them.

Over a month, the Hill family lost over ten times in bids in the property market. In the end, they ended up losing the entire battle.

Now that the Hill family was done for, everybody had left. The large villa, which belonged to the Hill family, was now left with an old man way past his prime and a hopeless handicap.

"Dad, is the Hill family really done for?" Chris Hill, who now lay in bed and was unable to move, refused to accept the truth. He could not understand how the Hill family fell apart this easily.

"It's over. It's all over." Carl took in a deep breath. He no longer knew how it felt to be hopeless because this was the state he lived in since the day the Lewis family began launching attacks against the Hill family. Therefore, Carl was now numb to this feeling.

“Dad... How did this happen?”

Tears began to overflow from Chris's eyes. They had everything they needed to succeed. Why did they end up losing everything?

“It's all because of you. Why did you get into trouble with a person this powerful?” Carl hopelessly picked up a pillow and pressed it against Chris' face. He could hear Chris crying in pain underneath the pillow. However, Carl would not remove the pillow as he continued to laugh and cry simultaneously.

Finally, Chris stopped moving. Carl dragged himself to an old tree outside the villa. By then, he had already prepared a rope to hang himself. Carl made his way onto a chair before placing his neck into the loop and kicked the chair away.

The neighbors only discovered something was amiss within the Hill family's villa seven days later.

By then, the corpses of Carl and Chris were already stinking and rotting badly.

*** N

In the evening, Tyr Summers prepared a feast on his own.

L
Tyr's mother-in-law, Helen Cole, had not been in a good mood all afternoon. She had locked herself in the room when it was time to make dinner. Nobody knew why she was in such a bad mood.

"Dad, what's wrong with Mom?"

Tyr asked Jacob Zea when he placed the dishes on the dining table. "Get Mom to join us for dinner."

"I don't want to be yelled at," Jacob said meekly. "Let her be. We'll eat on our own. Once she's done fuming, she'll be fine."

"What exactly happened?" Winifred Zea asked.

"Do you remember Eliza Garner?" Jacob sighed.

"Aunty Garner?" Winifred was stunned for a moment.

She then nodded. "Do you mean Aunty Garner, who lived across from us when I was a kid? Her son's name is Orion Wesley. He was my classmate in primary school."

"Yeah. That's them," Jacob answered. "Back then, your mother and Eliza Garner used to like comparing their kids. However, Orion Wesley was never able to beat you in anything. Therefore, he was always beaten up by his mother."

"They've moved away for many years. Dad, if you didn't bring them up, I would have forgotten about them," Winifred commented.

"They have returned." Jacob chuckled.

"Returned? Do they live across from us?"

"How could they possibly still live across from us?" Jacob shook his head. "Orion has made it big. Some years ago, he went overseas to study. Not only did he marry a Caucasian woman, he even makes a lot of money. This time, he returned to the country and bought his parents a villa in Lunar Mountain. This morning, Eliza Garner had purposefully come over to our house to invite us as guests next week once they move in.”

Jacob shook his head as he spoke.

“You should have seen that woman’s face. She was so arrogant. When she came to our house, she pointed out everything that seemed old or broken. When she went to the bathroom, she even asked your mother to disinfect the toilet. She said that we use a shared sewage system that isn’t safe and that their villa has its own sewage system. Ahh. You have no idea how angry your mother was. If I hadn’t held her back, she would have kicked Eliza Garner out, literally. That woman has forgotten that she used to stay in a house like this.”

Winifred was silent for a while. She knew about Eliza and how that woman liked comparing herself to others a lot. However, it seemed her attitude had only worsened over time.

“They haven’t been in touch for so many years. Just get mom to reject the offer with an excuse. Can’t we do that?”

Jacob shrugged helplessly. “Your mother is too proud to do that. Be prepared. It's happening on Saturday. Based on your mother's way of doing things, she will definitely drag you all along. If you dare reject her, she will go berserk on you."

Meanwhile, Tyr grabbed a piece of barbecued meat and placed it on Blair's bowl. "We will go on that day. It's Lunar Mountain's villa, right? It's one of the most luxurious areas in Khanh City."

"Yeah. I heard that even the worst unit costs over ten million dollars," Jacob said.

"The area half-way up the mountain is the best area. The villas there go up to a hundred million dollars. You should all be prepared because that family has hated us for a long time. They would probably try to put us to shame in any way possible!"

Tyr chuckled. "Don't worry, Dad. I was thinking of buying a villa for the family too. I heard that we could move in immediately if we pay the full amount. Let's go and buy one of our own!"

Chapter 145 | I Want All Thirteen of Them

Jacob Zea and Winifred Zea looked at Tyr Summers oddly.

Why did Tyr make it sound as if he was buying a cabbage worth five dollars when he was referring to a villa.

Tyr looked at them confusedly. "Is there a problem?"

Winifred and Jacob had no idea how to answer him.

Meanwhile, Helen Cole walked out of her room, gloomily.

"The villas in Lunar Mountain cost tens of millions. They are not vegetables you buy at the market. Do you think you can buy them with a snap of your fingers? Tyr Summers, I know you are rich. However, money shouldn't be wasted like that. Besides, tens of millions isn't an amount you can withdraw at will. Stop acting like a fool. Fortunately, everyone here is part of the family. If you have said this outside, you would have embarrassed us."

Indeed, Winifred did tell Helen about Tyr's capabilities and his background.

However, for someone like Helen, who could not even tell the difference between a Benz and a Mitsubishi car, it was impossible to make her understand what an ultra-rich person was.

Based on Helen's understanding, even if Tyr was rich, he probably only had ten million dollars.

Even with her own company, Winifred only had two hundred million dollars to her name. In fact, half of it was a loan from the bank.

Therefore, Helen did not believe Tyr could afford to buy a villa.

More importantly, she did not believe he could afford luxurious villas in Lunar Mountain.

"Tyr Summers, if you say something stupid like this again, I will tear your mouth apart. It's just a villa. To be honest, I don't really like it. It's huge and difficult to clean up. It's like living in a ghost house. I feel creeped out just thinking about it."

This was a classic case of being jealous. Helen sat down and angrily stuffed a spoonful of rice into her mouth. “I think none of you should go next Saturday. I will go there on my own.”

Jacob and Winifred both looked at Helen in surprise. Was she thinking of bearing all the insults on her own?

“No way, Mom. We must go with you.” Tyr smiled. “Didn’t you say the villas in Lunar Mountain are luxurious? Don’t you think we should all check it out?”

When Tyr arrived at the Lunar Mountain’s villa sales gallery the next day, it was already very crowded.

Indeed, since this was the most luxurious plot of land in Khanh City, many wealthy locals had already laid their eyes on the property.

Now the villas are being sold, many people were here to buy one of their own. The customers clearly outnumbered the salesladies.

“Mister, are you here to buy a villa?”

As soon as Tyr walked through the door, a saleslady approached him.

“Yeah.” Tyr nodded.

“My name is Lina Julliard. I am one of the salespeople here. Please allow me to serve you.” Lina greeted Tyr warmly before pouring him a glass of water inside.

However, just as Tyr was about to accept the glass of water, a slightly plump middle-aged man speaking into an intercom, walked over with a frown.

“Lina Julliard, what are you doing? There are several big bosses still waiting over there. Why are you wasting your time here?”

Lina was stunned. “Manager Luther, this man is here to buy a property too. I’m serving him right now.”

The man named Manager Luther gave Tyr a once-over before a look of annoyance appeared on his face.

“Brother, the apartments on a special discount are on the opposite end. We sell luxurious villas here. I think you might have gone to the wrong place.”

After that, Manager Luther glared at Lina. “What’s wrong with you? Can’t you tell people of different status apart? Do you think a man dressed as poorly as he can afford a villa that costs tens of millions? Lina, this isn’t the first time. If this happens again, you can pack up and leave.”

Lina’s face turned red. “But, Manager Luther, our president once said that anyone who walks through the door is a customer...”

“Didn’t the president tell you to stay alert and adapt along the way?” Manager Luther snapped. “Are you talking back to me? Do you think I won’t fire you right away?”

Lina was having a hard time with Manager Luther’s forceful mannerisms. As a salesperson, Lina’s professionalism far exceeded Manager Luther’s. Tyr wondered how a dumb person like him managed to stay in this position for this long in sales.

Tyr sighed to himself. He was amazed that people like Manager Luther looked down on others based on outward appearances.

“Miss Julliard, you don’t have to go anywhere. Just continue introducing the property to me. I’m here to buy a villa too.”

Manager Luther immediately chuckled before looking Tyr up and down. “You? A villa? Do you know how much one of our villas in Lunar Mountain cost?”

Tyr frowned slightly. However, he could not be bothered to argue with a dumb, arrogant person like Manager Luther. Instead, he walked directly over to the units on display.

“Miss Julliard, which area has the best and most expensive villas?”

“Mister, the best villas in Lunar Mountain are in the region halfway up the mountain,” Lina hurriedly answered. “There are a total of thirteen villas in this region. Each of them costs around seventy million dollars.”

“Okay.” Tyr nodded slightly. “Well, I would like all thirteen of them!”

“What?” Lina was frozen in place.

Meanwhile, Manager Luther walked over and began laughing out loud. “You want all thirteen of them? Lina Julliard, do you see how important it is to be able to judge a person correctly? Look at this fellow you served. He’s a complete nutcase.”

After that, Manager Luther glared at Tyr. “You’d better get lost right away. Otherwise, don’t blame me for treating you badly. Do you know who owns the properties in Lunar Mountain? How dare you come here and make a joke like that? Do you have a death wish?”

Suddenly, a lot of people were looking in Tyr’s way.

Slap.

Tyr Summers would not tolerate arrogant people like Manager Luther. He slapped Manager Luther across the face. “The last person who spoke to me like this is already dead.”

Manager Luther held his face as he looked at Tyr in disbelief. He never thought that Tyr would actually hit him.

Suddenly, everyone began murmuring while they looked in his direction.

“Security, security...” Manager Luther yelled at the top of his lungs. He felt that he had been deeply insulted. Today, he would teach Tyr a lesson. Immediately, a group of security guards came over.

Tyr smiled half-heartedly. “Are you sure you want to kick me out?”

“Not only will I kick you out, but I will break your limbs!” Manager Luther was deeply angered. Now that the Lewis family had become the largest property group in Khanh City, Manager Luther felt he was considered an influential person since he was an employee of the Lewis family. Therefore, he would not tolerate being insulted like that.

Tyr smiled to show his neat, white teeth. “Manager Luther, why don’t you turn around and look behind you?”

Chapter 146 Paying the Full Amount in Cash

“Behind me? What’s going on behind me?” Manager Luther was still in a state of shock.

By then, Lina Julliard and the other salespeople had already frightfully walked behind Manager Luther.

“President.”

“Greetings, president!”

Suddenly, Manager Luther could hear people repeating the word behind him. He shivered and hurriedly turned around. Immediately, the sly look on his face disappeared. Instead, Manager Luther was beaming.

“Presi-”

Slap...

Before Manager Luther could even finish saying the word, Donald Lewis had slapped him across the face.

Suddenly, the entire room became quiet. Manager

Luther's eyes were wide open in fear as he looked at Donald.

"President..."

Thud...

This time, Donald kicked Manager Luther. Donald could feel his body temperature soaring.

"Uhh..." Manager Luther spurted blood from his mouth. "President, I... What did I do wrong?"

"Do you know who you were talking to?" Donald asked.

"This is Brother Tyr. The Lewis family was able to acquire everything it has today, all thanks to Brother Tyr. Who the hell do you think you are to look down upon Brother Tyr? Do you have a death wish?"

Right then, Manager Luther's mind went blank.

Was this Brother Tyr the same Brother Tyr who helped the Lewis family to defeat the Hill family?

Manager Luther's body was trembling all over. In fact, his crotch had become wet from his own urine.

“I’m wrong! President, I know I’m wrong.” Manager Luther, who was acting all high-and-mighty a moment ago, was now begging on his knees.

The veins on Donald’s forehead were very much visible. It was too late to beg for forgiveness now!

“Someone, take this blind dog and toss him out the door!”

Several of Donald’s bodyguards grabbed Manager Luther and took him away. Nobody knew what happened to him in the end.

However, one thing was certain. Since the fellow had done something terrible to Tyr, Donald would not let him off the hook easily.

Donald began walking cautiously over to Tyr before bowing to him. “I’m sorry, Brother Tyr. That dog of mine was stupid and ended up annoying you.”

Tyr waved his hand. “It’s fine. Just teach him a lesson. Also, please be more careful when hiring new employees. Make sure they have good manners.”

“Yes. Thank you for your wise advice, Brother Tyr.”

Tyr turned around to look at Lina. By then, the lady was already sweating profusely from the shock she experienced.

“Come over here.” Tyr waved at her.

Lina half-stumbled her way over. “Sir... Mister... How may I assist you?”

“Am I a beast? Why are you so afraid of me?” Tyr shrugged helplessly before pointing at the thirteen villas halfway up the mountain. “I want all thirteen of them. The commission will all go to you.”

“Ahh...” Lina opened her mouth widely. She did not expect Tyr to be serious.

More importantly, she was stunned that all the commission would go to her. Perhaps, she would not even be able to make this much money in her lifetime of working. Apart from Lina, all the other salespeople and customers seemed to be shocked. They could not believe Tyr had decided to buy thirteen villas in the best region in Lunar Mountain. In fact, he did not even flinch. Could he be any richer?

Many sales people were now looking at Lina jealously. They regretted not approaching Tyr earlier.

Meanwhile, Donald felt a chill down his spine. He was beginning to panic on the inside. Tyr wanted all thirteen villas in the best region in Lunar Mountain. When Donald heard this, he felt as if his heart was being broken.

At first, he wanted to give Tyr one of these villas for free. However, he did not expect Tyr to want all thirteen villas. The total value of the thirteen villas amounted to one billion dollars.

Even if Donald was the one who initiated the villa project in Lunar Mountain, there were many other investors apart from the Lewis family. Discounting the cost and a portion of the dividends, the Lewis family would have earned only three hundred million dollars off the project.

However, if Donald had to give the thirteen villas away, that meant the Lewis family would lose seven hundred million dollars and not make a dime for themselves. It was too much to bear.

However, now that the Lewis family had thoroughly defeated the Hill family and had made it as the top property company in Khanh City, they would make billions of dollars in the years to come.

When Donald thought of this, he felt somewhat better. After all, Tyr was the person who gave the Lewis family what it had today.

It did not seem like Tyr was asking too much from Donald.

Donald then turned to look at Lina, who was still in shock. "What are you doing? Hurry up and prepare the sales contract for Brother Tyr."

Only then did Lina come back to her senses and walked away to get the contract prepared.

However, Tyr called out to her and handed her a silver card. "Use this card. I'm paying everything in cash!"

Boom...

The people around them gasped in surprise.

This was what it meant to be an ultra-rich person. Tyr was paying cash in full for villas, which cost one billion without even flinching.

It was almost as if the man was buying groceries at the supermarket and did not even want the change.

He was filthy rich.

Many of the business owners who came to buy villas today felt embarrassed with themselves when compared to how wealthy Tyr was.

Donald immediately thought of something. "Brother Tyr, let's not allow money to come between us."

"How could the Lewis family accept your money? We'll give you the thirteen villas for free!"

The crowd gasped in shock once again.

They were beginning to feel lost. How powerful was this rich tycoon that the Lewis family's property group's boss wanted to give him thirteen villas?

However, Tyr frowned and began to sound a little unhappy. "I said, I'll use my card to pay the full amount in cash!”

Was it a refusal? Tyr was refusing Donald’s offer. The observers of what unfolded felt as if they were on a roller-coaster ride. Their hearts might soon leap out of their chests from the excitement.

On the other hand, Donald felt greatly disappointed by Tyr’s response. He suddenly recalled something Drake Tucker had told him before.

Donald found out from Drake that Jade Laurell once wanted to give Tyr a necklace that cost eighty million dollars. However, Tyr had rejected her.

However, it was not because Tyr did not appreciate her gesture. Instead, it was because nobody could force Tyr to be in a position of indebtedness unless he agreed.

The fact that Tyr rejected Donald was not a good thing for Donald because a favor from Tyr was worth even more than a billion dollars. However, not everyone deserved to be owed a favor by Tyr.

When Donald thought things through, he felt deeply disappointed because he had missed an opportunity to be like Drake. He missed an opportunity to truly become Tyr Summers' subordinate and to have the opportunity of becoming successful.

Chapter 147 A Family That Loves Showing Off

After the payment of one billion dollars was made, the thirteen villas in the best region of Lunar Mountain now all belonged to Tyr Summers!

Tyr did not buy this many villas just to show off. Instead, it was because Tyr had already come up with a plan for the next few years.

He did not intend to stay in all these villas. Instead, they would be gifts to others.

Who would he give them to? Naturally, he would give them to people he trusted!

After three days, Lina had completed all the necessary steps for the handover. At the same time, she had arranged for people to clean up each villa so that Tyr and his family could move in at any time they wanted.

With a huge loop of villa keys in his hands, Tyr suddenly felt as if he was a landlord.

On the following Saturday, Eliza Garner gave Helen Cole a call at six o'clock in the morning to remind Helen about her housewarming party. Helen scoffed as she realized that b*tch was eager to show off to her. Due to this incident, Helen was in a bad mood the entire morning.

At approximately ten o'clock in the morning, the five got into a car and traveled over to a villa in Lunar Mountain.

As soon as they arrived by the main entrance, they saw a curly-haired, middle-aged woman dressed in expensive clothing waiting for them outside. That woman was Eliza Garner.

"Hmph. That b*tch can't even wait for a few minutes, huh? I bet she is in a hurry to show off to me."

When Helen saw Eliza, she immediately felt annoyed. Once the car got close enough, Eliza approached them.

"Oh, Helen, you are finally here. I came all the way here to pick you guys up. Eh, is this Benz rented? Helen, why did you waste so much money? If you don 't have a car, you can let me know. I would have asked Orion to pick you guys up in his Porsche!"

Helen's facial expression immediately darkened. Ever since the embarrassing incident of buying a car, Helen had spent some time researching car logos.

Therefore, she was now aware that Porsche was in a much higher league compared to Benz. Hence, she did not dwell on the topic of cars. Even if this Benz belonged to her, she would still lose.

Helen laughed drily. "Oh, Sister Garner, look at you, being so welcoming.

"It's not just that, to be honest. The main point is that we live in an area of high-class villas. Not just anyone can come and go as they wish. If I didn't come out to fetch you, you would not have been able to enter!" Eliza was shamelessly showing off.

Helen held her breath as she resisted the urge to kick Eliza in the foot.

Meanwhile, the group of people proceeded to enter the villa compound.

The Wesley family's villa was located in the outermost region, which meant it was also the least expensive area.

The entire villa probably cost around fifteen million dollars, which was enough for Eliza to show off to Helen and her family.

Compared to Helen's house, this was akin to a palace because of the grand decorations inside the villa. Although Eliza said it was a housewarming party, only Helen and her family were invited. Everybody knew what Eliza's intentions were.

Right then, a feast had been prepared in the dining hall.

Eliza Garner's husband, Oberon Wesley, Orion Wesley, and Orion's Caucasian wife all stood next to the dining table.

Once everyone had sat down, Oberon immediately opened a bottle of red wine.

"Come on. We used to be neighbors and the best of friends. After not seeing each other for many years, we must drink up for the lost time. This is a pure red wine Orion had brought over from France. I heard it's from the Coleman Winery. A single bottle costs over three thousand dollars!”

This time, Eliza was not the only person who intended to show off to Helen’s family. Oberon wanted to do the same.

“Actually, three thousand dollars isn’t considered expensive. Dad, I have another bottle, which costs eight thousand dollars. I’ll bring that over for you to try next time.”

Orion chuckled before he explained himself. “Aunty Cole, please don’t misunderstand. I didn’t mean to leave the bottle behind today. However, a special bottle opener is needed for that kind of wine. Since I didn’t have it at home, I ordered one from France, and it will only be arriving tomorrow!”

Helen was so upset that she could not find the words to speak. Meanwhile, Winifred tried to help her out. “It’s fine. We don’t actually have a huge thing for wine.”

Orion laughed. “To be honest, drinking is a way of life. A luxurious life should, of course, be paired with expensive red wine. Ahh, let's not talk about this. Perhaps you wouldn't even understand."

Orion proceeded to pour each of them a glass of wine. "After not having seen each other for long, let's have a toast."

After the toast, Eliza smiled at Helen. "Helen, I remember Orion used to lose to Winifred in almost everything when they were younger. Now, our Orion has finally made a name for himself. He was an important manager in a large company in France and made a small fortune. Now, he has returned to the country to establish a social media company. However, it's not exactly big. I think they probably make around ten million dollars a year. Therefore, we only managed to buy a villa that cost around ten million dollars. Please don't mind how small it is. However, Orion has already told me that we would get a bigger one after two years once the company is more stable. The township in Lunar Mountain is the best villa area in the entire Khanh City. However, our villa isn't in the best position. When the time comes, we will move over to one of the villas halfway up the mountain."

Eliza felt as if she was high up in the clouds when she spoke. It made Helen so angry that she could not find the words to retort.

Meanwhile, Orion quickly added, "Mom, the villas halfway up Lunar Mountain have all been sold out. I heard someone bought all of them last week."

"Really? That's a shame."

"However, that's fine. They expand the township every year. I'm sure there will be a better piece of land in two years," Orion said.

After that, Orion smiled at Winifred. "Winifred, you used to be better than me at everything. I'm sure you are still much better than me now. How have you been in recent years?"

"Not bad," Winifred answered coolly.

"My mom heard from a neighbor that something happened to you a few years ago and that you are now married to a beggar. Is that true?"

"Can it be real?"

Awkwardness filled the room suddenly.

Apart from Winifred, Tyr Summers also seemed equally annoyed.

Orion must have found out about Winifred's past and intentionally wanted to reopen her wounds now.

"Orion Wesley, what do you mean by that?" Helen asked angrily. "My daughter is also running her own company."

Eliza began to chuckle. "Really? Does Winifred have her own company now? What kind of company is it? Is it big? Can it be compared to Orion's company? I'm sure it can't. If it were even remotely close, Helen, you would be staying in a villa now!" Eliza said.

Orion chuckled along. "Aunty Cole, we have known each other for a long time. There's no reason to make something like this up for the sake of your reputation. I've vaguely heard about what happened to Winifred. If your family ever needs help, please let me know. I will do whatever I can to help you," Orion added.

As he spoke, Orion glanced at Tyr from the corner of his eyes. "I believe this must be the beggar whom you have married, Winifred?”

Chapter 148 Mr. Summers, You Are Here

In the end, the fight was brought to Tyr Summers.

Initially, Tyr could not even be bothered to interact with this family of clowns. However, Orion Wesley and his family simply did not know when to draw the line.

“Actually, there’s nothing wrong with being a beggar. The most important thing is having the will to improve. Brother Summers, what do you work as?” Orion asked.

Before Tyr could answer, Eliza Garner began to speak. “What work could he possibly do? I heard that you’ve been lazing around at home ever since you became a part of the Winifred family. I think what Orion said was right. It’s nothing scary about being poor. However, you must have a will to improve. Orion, do you still have any vacancy in your company? Why don’t you hire Little Summers?”

Orion pouted. “Mom, my company does internet stuff. Only IT experts could work there. What would Brother Summers do? However, we are hiring security guards. Why don't you become a security guard, Brother Summers? Don't worry. I won't mistreat you. How do five thousand dollars a month sound?"

Helen finally could not take it anymore as she hit the dining table. "Orion Wesley and Eliza Garner, did you invite us over today so you can insult our family? Five thousand dollars a month for being a security guard. Who's being insulted? I already told you that Winifred runs her own company. Tyr is working in her company as the vice president. He doesn't need a job!"

Eliza chuckled. "Oh, Helen, look at you. Why are you so upset? We're only offering it out of kindness. Why did you have to misunderstand us? Since Winifred is running her own company, we won't try to step in."

Eliza raised her glass. "Come on, Winifred. Aunty would like to make a toast to you. I hope your company does very well and earns a lot of money. In a few years, you'll be able to buy a villa just like Orion!"

Tyr let out a long sigh. "Aunty Garner, actually, we have already bought a villa.”

Apart from Eliza and her family, Helen and Winifred were equally shocked.

“Tyr Summers, what are you yapping on about?”

Winifred asked softly. “At first, I wanted to keep it a surprise until the day after tomorrow. However, it looks like I can’t keep it a secret any longer.” Tyr stood up and smiled at Eliza’s family. “Our villa is actually also in Lunar Mountain’s township!”

“Tyr Summers...” Helen was beginning to panic. “Sit down and stop spewing nonsense. When did we ever buy a villa here?”

“Mom, I came here last week to buy it for you. Why don’t you come with me to check it out?” Tyr asked.

“Great. Let’s go right now. Helen, see how nice your Little Summers is to you.” Eliza was beaming. “He has even bought a villa to surprise you. In fact, it’s right here in Lunar Mountain’s township. We’ll be neighbors again.”

Naturally, Eliza did not believe Tyr bought Helen a villa. He must have been making it all up.

Therefore, Eliza was eager to play along. Once the truth was revealed, the shameful look on Helen's face would be priceless to watch.

"Forget about it. I think Tyr Summers has had a little too much to drink. Even if he did really buy a villa, it's probably still under renovation. Once the renovations are complete, we'll invite you over as our guest."

Helen was trying hard to round things up. Deep inside, she was enraged by Tyr's behavior. He was usually quite reliable. Why did he suddenly behave like this? How embarrassing would it be if their lie was discovered?

Eliza was still smiling slyly. It was clear that Helen felt guilty about making this up. To Eliza, Helen seemed like a clown right now.

However, Tyr continued to speak. "Since Aunty Garner would like to have a look, how could we let her down? I wanted to check if the villa has been cleaned anyway. Why don't we head over there right now?"

Everyone was shocked by Tyr's words. Winifred would not stop tugging at Tyr's shirt. "Tyr Summers, are you being serious? Don't make things worse."

"Winifred, do I look like I'm joking with you?" Tyr smiled as looked deeply into Winifred's eyes.

At that moment, Winifred was stunned. Did this fellow really buy a villa here in advance? Based on how well Winifred understood Tyr, he really might have done something of that sort.

"Tyr Summers, are you serious?" Winifred asked.

"Let's go and check out our new home!"

After the group of people walked outside, Tyr began leading them in the villa's direction.

On their way there, Helen and Jacob were both feeling unsettled. They did not believe that their son-in-law had bought a villa in Lunar Mountain in advance. In fact, Helen was prepared to face the music. At the same time, she felt deeply disappointed with Tyr.

Although Eliza and Orion had said some mean things, they did make sense. A person should not be afraid of poverty. However, he or she must have the will to improve. However, Tyr was behaving in a completely different manner.

Throughout the walk, Eliza and Orion would not stop asking Tyr questions about the villa, including its price, location, and whether he paid the full amount or if he bought it through an installment plan.

At the end of the day, they refused to believe that Tyr bought Helen a villa. Therefore, they were asking these questions to embarrass Tyr and his family.

Not long after, the group of people arrived at the waist of the mountain. Over a dozen luxurious villas came into view. Each of them looked like a palace.

Compared to these villas, the one Eliza lived in was of a completely different level.

“Isn’t this the most luxurious part of the entire Lunar Mountain township? Little Summers, are you saying that the villa you bought is here?”

Eliza pretended to sound exaggerated. “Oh, Helen, your Little Summers is very capable. He has actually bought you a villa here. I bet one of these cost a
