Let me go, Mr. Hill By Shallow South Chapter 1889

"How cold! But it's fine. Even so, I miss you."

As soon as Freya heard Rodney's flirtatious voice on the other end, her face flushed. "I'll stop here. I need to carry on with my work." She hurriedly hung up.

Rodney smirked, knowing that she must have gotten shy.

He was very familiar with her shy side, especially on the bed...

At the mere thought of it, he felt a burning sensation. He could not help but grumble about Young Master Wooten's birthday. Why did Young Master Wooten invite him? It was because of this that he could not do it with his wife at home tonight.

At 6:00 p.m., Rodney drove to the restaurant where the party was being held.

When he arrived, he realized that nobody else was there except for Young Master Wooten.

"Just the two of us?" Rodney was dumbfounded. He thought that he had come to the wrong place.

"What's wrong? Why can't it just be the two of us on my birthday?" Rory Wooten grinned as he poured a cup of coffee for Rodney.

"No. This is just untypical of you." Rodney was glum. "You used to invite at least 20 people to every gathering and even call a few beautiful ladies over."

"So you want me to call a beautiful lady over for you, huh?" Rory winked.

"No. I'm already married," Rodney quickly responded.

"I'm just kidding. Who doesn't know that you're a man of integrity? What's more... we all know that Sarah is the only person you love." Rory passed the menu to Rodney.

Rodney said coldly, "Don't mention that woman. Our relationship is over."

"Ha. Forget it. You said that every time you got drunk for her," Rory said calmly.

"I already have a child." Indeed, Rodney did not want to recall the past.

Rory was under the impression that Rodney could never get back together with Sarah because of the child.

Rory would not believe that he had completely gotten over Sarah. When Sarah and Shaun were previously in a relationship, Rodney felt embarrassed to pour his heart out to Shaun and Chester. Hence, he came looking for him.

"Let's start ordering. The dishes here are quite good," Rory said, "How's the project development in Cairns going?"

“It should be done by the end of this year. By the way, I want to thank you for that. If it hadn’t been for your help, the hooligans in Cairns wouldn’t have stopped.” Rodney raised his glass. “Although my uncle is the prime minister, I have to deal with certain issues in a low-profile manner. If I fail to deal with them properly, other people will perceive me as a bully, which will affect my uncle’s reputation.” “No worries. We go back a long way, after all.” Rory paused for a moment before he said awkwardly, “When you were kicked out of the Snow family previously, it wasn’t my intention to not lend you a hand. It was because your dad warned us and we were all afraid of offending him.” “I got it. It’s all in the past.”

Rodney had gotten over it. He understood that everyone had their personal gains, including himself who was here because he could benefit from Rory.

The two of them talked shop for a while.

A knock sounded on the door, and a server subsequently pushed the door open.

Rodney did not realize it until he heard a glass falling to the floor. He lifted his head and froze the minute he saw a thin and pale face.

Sarah Neeson.

Never did he expect that he would meet this woman under such circumstances.

What did Sarah mean to Rodney?

She used to be his most wonderful crush and first love. After that, she became the humiliation of his life.

She was the one who trampled on his pride underneath her feet.

Moreover, his ten fingers were not enough to count the evil things that Sarah had done.

When she saw Rodney, she was flustered and wanted to turn around to leave. Rory quickly stood up and grabbed her. “Sarah, don’t go.”

“You’ve got the wrong person.” Sarah lowered her head and avoided eye contact with him.

“I recognized you when I came here to eat last time.” Rory pulled her to a chair and pressed down on her to force her to sit down.

Rodney’s handsome face showed a cold expression. “Rory, what do you mean by this?”

“Young Master Rodney, I just happened to see her here last time. I never thought she would end up being a waitress. It’s too terrible.” Rory often saw Rodney defending Sarah back then. He witnessed for himself how well Rodney treated Sarah. He did not think Rodney would forget about Sarah so quickly.

During Rodney's baby's one-month-old celebration banquet, Rory could sense the distance between Freya and Rodney.

"Young Master Wooten, I'm really not Sarah."

Sarah lowered her head and covered her face with her hand. She looked like she was avoiding Rodney.

"If you're not Sarah, how do you know that I'm Young Master Wooten?" Rory sighed.

"Sarah, aren't you a skilled psychologist? How did you end up like this?"

Bang! Rodney hit the table and stood up. His eyes were filled with fury. "She brought everything upon herself. She deserves it. Since you've shown up, follow me to see Shaun."

After he spoke, he rushed over and dragged Sarah out of the chair. "Shaun and the others are looking for you all over the place. Go and recover Shaun's memories."

"I don't know what you're talking about." Sarah was roughly yanked to the floor by Rodney. Her face was as pale as a sheet.

"Young Master Snow, what are you doing?" Rory saw Sarah's pitiful expression. He quickly stopped Rodney.

"What the f*ck do you know?" Rodney spat out vulgar words due to his anger. "This woman is evil. She used to take advantage of my money and treated me as a backup. When I was no longer of use to her, she kicked me away without hesitation.

What was more hateful was that she went mad and did many evil things..."

Sarah bit her lip and lowered her head without saying a word. Her tears fell to the floor.

Rory could not bear seeing this. "Young Master Rodney, you must've misunderstood her."

"Misunderstood?" Rodney laughed angrily. "I saw it with my own eyes. She was entering the hotel while being all intimate with President Yard of Helios Investment Group. I caught her red-handed."

Rory sighed. "I didn't want to reveal some things, but if I don't do it today, you might actually skin her alive..."

"Young Master Wooten..." Sarah interrupted him nervously. "It's all in the past. I don't want to talk about it anymore."

"But you can't let other people keep misunderstanding you," Rory said with a straight face.

"Young

Master Snow, Sarah and President Yard of Helios Investment Group were just acting back then..."

“Acting?” Rodney sneered. “Do you think I’m blind?”

“It’s true. She initially asked me to put on a performance with her, ” Rory said, “Back then, you were chased out of the Snow family and Osher Corporation was met with many obstacles. Your relationship with your friends was estranged, and everything you did wasn’t going well. Sarah thought you weren’t happy at that time. You were distracted whenever you were with her. She knew you had ambitions for your career, and she understood your pain of not being able to go back home. She knew that as long as you were with her, you wouldn’t be forgiven by your parents and family. Since you definitely wouldn’t break up with her, she kept staying in the hotel on purpose to distance herself from you. “She deliberately looked for President Yard to act as if they were making out in front of you. That was all planned. At first, she looked for me, but I didn’t want to ruin my relationship with you. After all, if you were to return to the Snow family, no good would come from offending you. She really went through a lot for your sake.” After Rodney heard that, it was as if thunder had sounded in his head.
