Let me go, Mr. Hill By Shallow South Chapter 2048

Snow Corporation had 12 directors in total. Besides the directors, Jessica, Carson, the general manager, and a few more senior managers participated in the meeting.

After Rodney entered, he sat beside Carson.

“Carson, why didn’t you pick up my call just now?” Rodney asked.

“Did you call me? I didn’t know. Dad called me to the office just now.”

Carson took out his phone as he spoke. There was indeed a missed call.

“Alright. We’re having a general meeting today for the matters regarding Rodney, who’s in charge of our subsidiary company.”

Jason leaned against the back of the leather chair. He exuded the strong aura of someone who was in a high position. His gaze swept across the meeting room and landed on the person concerned, Rodney. “President Snow, although this is your private matter, your actions have gravely impacted the image of Snow Corporation. I hope you can propose a solution to this.”

Rodney understood right away. Since Jason mentioned a proposal, it meant he was not thinking of dismissing him from his position.

He quickly stood up and bowed humbly. “I apologize for bringing trouble to Snow Corporation due to my personal matters. On the way here, I’ve already thought of a plan. I just need a day to handle this properly.”

“How will you take care of this problem?”

Director Sands, who was experienced, looked at Rodney aggressively.

“It’s already a clear fact that you’re having an affair. What’s worse is that you started the affair not long after your wife gave birth. Not only that, your mistress is pregnant with your child and there’s concrete evidence of her miscarriage. You're being scolded all over the internet. There are more than tens of thousands of comments on the company's Facebook requesting your dismissal. Our official website has also crashed because the server has overloaded. Due to the identities of your wife and the Snow family, you've angered the whole country."

"How I choose to take care of this matter is my own business. I'll give everyone a satisfactory answer," Rodney said calmly, "If my scandal is still being talked about in the comments on the internet before tomorrow evening, I'll resign."

"You don't have to resign. We think that you don't have the right to be the subsidiary company's president at all," Director White said.

"Director Snow, Rodney's your son. You and Old Master Snow have high hopes for him, and you even have the thought of letting him succeed Snow Corporation. However, based on our observation in these few years, he may be capable in the business world, but his character is despicable."

Director Taylor stepped up and criticized Rodney openly. "He said he'll take care of this issue, but we're all clever people. Rodney's only way of solving this is to push the blame to his wife. Never mind if his wife is a commoner, but she's the prime minister's goddaughter.

Of course, the prime minister is Rodney's biological uncle. However, the problem lies in whether the prime minister is on Freya's side or his nephew's side."

After frowning for a moment, Jason smiled. "The prime minister is my brother. I know his thoughts better than anybody else. Currently, everyone is dissatisfied with Rodney.

However, I would like to remind all of you of something. The alternative energy project of the subsidiary company that Rodney is in charge of is costly. It's also the most profitable project that our company has had in the recent ten years. Rodney has been in charge of it all along. If everyone wants to dismiss him, I'm afraid it'll impact the company's future development greatly."

"I don't think there'll be any issues."

Director Sands looked at Carson. "The alternative energy company is jointly managed by Rodney and Carson. If Rodney is dismissed, Carson can manage it too."

At that moment, everyone's gazes focused on Carson.

Rodney did not look at his brother. He raised his eyebrows. "Carson may be the vice president, but I'm the one who developed the external procedures and production line myself. He has no clue about them at all."

In other words, it was impossible for Carson to replace Rodney's position.

"Carson, what do you think?" Jessica asked calmly.

Carson jolted. After a few seconds, he raised his head. "I can do it.

Although I'm not clear about many procedures, General Manager Quinn of the subsidiary company knows them well. He has already agreed to help me. I believe there won't be a problem."

Rodney's expression changed upon hearing Carson's words.

He did not expect that Carson wanted to replace his position and that General Manager

Quinn had betrayed him.

General Manager Quinn was Rodney's most trusted subordinate.

Therefore, he had transferred General Manager Quinn to the alternative energy company to be his employee.

Rodney glanced at the people in the meeting room.

He saw that Jason was quite shocked, but the other directors did not seem surprised.

At that moment, he understood everything. It was a trap.

Rodney looked around, and his gaze finally focused on Carson, who did not dare to look at him. Then, he looked at Jessica, who was sitting calmly beside Jason. One of them was his biological brother, while the other was his biological sister.

A wave of coldness gradually crept within him.

After a moment, Rodney laughed coldly. "It seems like everyone has come prepared. But don't you think that all of you are exaggerating things?

You're saying that I'm having an affair, but how many people here have one or even two mistresses by their sides? How are you all better than me? Let's do it this way. Why don't all of you post photos of your mistresses for everyone to see? I'm not the only one who has a mistress in Snow Corporation. All of you are the same. Maybe my actions will even pale in comparison to the things that you all have done."

"Rodney, what do you mean by that? Are you threatening us?" One of the directors slapped the table and stood up.

"I'm not threatening you guys." Rodney shrugged his shoulders. "I'm just thinking of a way to clear my name because my reputation is in shambles now. It's called... diverting attention."

"Director Snow, do something about your son." Director Sands was furious.

Jason pinched the middle of his brows. He did not expect that things would escalate like this.

He did not want to reprimand his son, but he knew that it was the only way Rodney would not be dismissed.

Therefore, he acted like he was scolding Rodney. "If you dare do that, I won't acknowledge you as my son."

"Dad, it's not the first time you're refusing to acknowledge me as your son. You even kicked me out of the family last time." Rodney was smiling.

Jason slammed the table and looked at the directors apologetically. Jessica glanced at Jason, who was trying to mediate the situation. Then, she looked at Rodney, who was sneering.

She closed the laptop in front of her and stood up slowly. "Ladies and gentlemen, I apologize on behalf of my brother's actions. I can assure you that your private matters will never be leaked."

"Eldest Young Lady Snow, since you said so, we'll believe you."

The directors nodded as they looked at Jessica. They got even angrier at Rodney now. "

Director Snow, does your son think that we can't have any private secrets at all? We're all doing business here and working for the benefit of the company.

However, your son threatened us. We won't tolerate the things he has done nor let him continue to stay in the company."

Jason's expression hardened.

Rodney raised his head and looked at Jessica. "Sister, do you think you can agree to the board of directors' request yourself?"

"Of course," Jessica replied indifferently. Her deep eyes were like a bottomless well.

"President Snow, don't say that you weren't given a chance. Now, the board of directors can cast their votes. Those who agree to Rodney's dismissal, please raise your hands."

"Jessica..." Jason glanced at his daughter beside him in a warning.

Director Sands immediately said, "Director Snow, I think Jessica's idea is great. Let's vote.

Hasn't the company been doing this all along? I'm raising my hand."

Soon, go percent of the people in the meeting room raised their hands.

The others

abstained from voting.

Jessica lowered her head and looked at her father. "

Dad, look. go percent of the directors don't want Rodney to maintain his position in the subsidiary company. According to the company's regulations, his position will be revoked.

Let's stop here."

Jason glanced at Jessica coldly and sneered. "Fine. Revoke Rodney's position. The meeting ends here. Jessica, come to my office."

He left in long strides with a dark expression after he spoke.

The company's directors congratulated Carson with a smile. "Carson, we have high hopes for you. Do your job well. Good luck."

"Thank you, Uncles and Aunts." Carson lowered his head and bowed. He thanked them awkwardly.

Rodney sat without moving at the side. His flirty face looked ruthless as if it was shrouded in ice.

The directors and senior managers did not think of going over to agitate him. Everyone gradually left. Soon, only the three siblings of the Snow family were left in the meeting room.

Rodney stood up, filled with hostility. He smashed Carson's laptop and grabbed his collar.

"Carson, if you wanted the position of president, you could've just told me. You're my biological brother, and I've always taken care of you. You can't join hands with Jessica and stab me from the back."

Carson's lips trembled, but he could only lower his head and apologize.

"I'm sorry, Second Brother."

"Don't blame Carson. I'm the one who forced him."

Jessica slowly walked over. It was winter. She was wearing a sweater with a white woolen coat outside. She had a tall figure, and her gaze was dark. "Rodney, do you really trust Carson? If you trust him, why is he clueless about so many company matters even though he has been working with you for so long?”

“Enough. Stop driving a wedge between us.” Rodney shouted angrily like a firecracker that was ignited. He glared at Jessica in disbelief. “Jessica, have you forgotten that you’re my biological sister? You’ve always been the one who cared for me and tolerated me the most since I was young. I never thought you’d be the one to stab me from behind when I needed you the most. You really concealed yourself well. It’s terrifying.”

“That may be the case. I just don’t want to be the one who willingly keeps giving.” Jessica shrugged. She suddenly felt sad.

Although Rodney and Carson were her brothers, their understanding of her was not as well as Ryan’s.

Maybe she had sacrificed so much that they took her for granted.

Rodney sneered and glared at Jessica. “Well, you’ve been in this high position for so long. I guess you’re unwilling to come back down and still want to climb higher. But do you think Dad and Grandpa will agree? You’re going against the whole Snow family by doing this. I admit that you’ve won today, but let’s see how long your victory can last. Those directors will be begging me to return to the company in no time. Just wait and see.”

“Are you sure? Rodney, you really don’t know me well.”

Jessica smiled nonchalantly. “Since I’ve decided to make a move, that means I have full confidence.

What do you think you rely on the most?”
