

Let me go, Mr. Hill Chapter 2747

Chapter 2747

After a long silence, Charity asked, "How does it feel like to have a child?"

"Let's begin with what happened after my divorce from Shaun. At the time, my parents were not real parents, and neither was my Mom. When I found my father, he already had his own family and children, so he feels he is the most redundant person in the world."

Catherine sighed, "After being tortured by Shaun and fleeing abroad, I really felt like life is very boring. Aside from Freya, there was no one to greet me during the New Year. I didn't like children much before Suzie and Lucas were born, but no matter how hard and tired I was, I went home and looked at the little face of my child, my child acting liked a spoiled brat at me would melt my heart."

"It's as if someone in this world was connected to me, and no one could get rid of it. Children were very simple and treat me as if I was only the entire world for them, and after I discovered that my world was too much colorful."

"Was it really that magical?" Charity wondered for a long time.

"You have to be a little entangled to live." Catherine wholeheartedly agreed.

It is fortunate that Charity is still alive.

However, She noticed something strange about Charity.

"Listen to me, maybe... In the future, I'll think about artificial insemination." Charity said after a while. "I'll go to the sperm bank to pick better sperm."

Catherine was taken aback.

After talking so much, Charity informed her that she was going to undergo artificial insemination?

"Take your time, Charity. you're still young." Catherine softly consoled her.

"I'm not in a hurry because the company hasn't picked up yet."

...

Chester, on the other hand, walked into the office with an unhappy body.

“You still know how many days have passed since you returned, the phone can’t get through. You have not come company, the hospital since few days and it’s such a big thing that Director Judson’s father has an operation. I would like to ask you personally, you are good, you clearly agreed, and later you refused, and it is fortunate that the Director Judson’s father’s operation did not go wrong. If he died, Director Judson would absolutely despise you.”

Chester ignored his father, Hank Jewell’s accusation. Voice.

Sit up straight and lean against the sofa.

Despite the infusion, the body was still extremely uncomfortable. However, the first time his father saw him, he only accused him.

He didn’t care.

Ah.....

Hank Jewell slammed the table and said, “Chester, speak up. Do you still want to sit in this seat? Dalton and Sullivan both called to see when you could help Jewell’s family. Do you know that newly emerging hospitals have taken away half of our hospital business in various locations, and some doctors are even ready to quit?”

“I want to The board of directors is convened, and I want to pass Eliza’s approval of the company’s directors as soon as possible.” Chester said lightly.

Hank Jewell exclaimed, “What are you insane? That woman shorted Jewell’s stock price before, and made it clear that she came prepared, and you don’t need to beware of her at this time but also to agree to her joining the board of directors. What do you want?”

“I’ve already made a decision on this matter, and I just wanted to let you know. I have the final say in the affairs of the company. you don’t have to worry about anything. just look after my mother.” Chester leaned back, his face expressionless.

“You...”

Let me go, Mr. Hill Chapter 2748

Chapter 2748

“Besides, if you want to manage it, you don’t have the ability.” Chester cast a light glance at his father.

Hank Jewell’s arrogant face flushed, “I’m no longer capable. If it weren’t for me, you wouldn’t be able to come to this world “

“Without me, the Jewell family would have gone bankrupt.” Chester reminded him once more.

Hank Jewell was irritated, “You disobedient son, everyone else is a son of filial piety. Take a look at yourself, are you my son?”

Chester sighed, “This isn’t the first time you’ve realized I’m a sc*mbag that looks like a broken jar.”

Hank Jewell was suddenly dumbfounded.

A person can call himself a sc*mbag, what else can he say?

Hank Jewell said, “I’m not sure how you got to be this way, Chester. When you were a child, you grew up in a well-off environment. you didn’t lack food and clothing, and you were dressed by everyone. The famous brand I envy is also a beautiful young master Jewell, when you go out.”

Chester sneered. “You were really beautiful when you were young, you ate well and dressed well, but you were just a punching bag for me and my mother. It’s really bad, you forgot it so quickly, the company’s management was not going well during those years, and when you get home, whenever I make you dislike me, you’ll start hitting me, and after hitting me, your mood will be smooth.”

“At that time, I was too tired from work, and you cried when I got home, I was just upset.” Hank Jewell explained.

Chester sneered, “Yeah, I fell and cried out in pain. I’m exhausted from working out, I’m hungry, and I need to eat something to fill my stomach. If you say you won’t let me eat snacks, I’ll just suffer through the hunger and become your punching bag once more. How about one day? I’ll get tired of crying and beat you up when you’re old, fall, or starve?”

“How can a son, an unfilial son, beat his father, be careful of being struck by lightning?” Hank Jewell was embarrassed by his appearance and turned around to leave in rage.

Chester sneered and held a cigarette to his mouth. He suddenly felt quite boring.

After a cigarette was over, let Kaiden call Lawyer Long over.

Lawyer Long entered the office half an hour later, “Mr. Jewell, you asked me to come here...”

“I own 20% of the stock and would like to give Eliza 10%. I’ll do it for me.” Chester said, tossing the equity book in front of him.

“Gift...gift?” Lawyer Long was stunned, thinking he was hallucinating.

He completely stammered.

“Yeah.” Chester sighed heavily and appeared sluggish.

“Are you... President Jewell?” asked Lawyer Long quietly.

“What exactly do you mean?” Chester swung the ashtray.

Lawyer Long said, “This is Jewell’s equity and 10% means that is ten billion dollars. This is still a gift and you won’t be dropped by Eliza.”

If it was someone else, but who is Chester?

Extremely refined egoist and extremely selfish person.

He would do such a thing?

Chester said coldly, “I’m fine. Do as I said, this is what I owe Eliza, and this is also a personal matter between us. You don’t need to ask any further questions.”

Lawyer Long said, “Even if she murders her parents, she probably won’t have to pay as much.”

“Crack.”

Chester slammed the table and stood up, his eyes filled with rage, saying, “Just do it if you want to, what nonsense.”

Let me go, Mr. Hill Chapter 2749

Chapter 2749

Lawyer Long was terrified, but he had to say something: “Mr. Jewell, once Eliza receives 10% of the shares, her shares will be equal to your father’s shares, and your father’s ability is unquestionably not the same. Eliza’s opponent may not be able to retain the chairmanship once Eliza is elected.”

Lawyer Long did not say anything else after said this statement.

Eliza is not one of the Chadwick family’s idiots. She is knowledgeable and capable.

Chester will almost certainly be deposed if Eliza becomes chairman.

Lawyer Long has no idea why Chester is so stupid.

Chester said, closing his eyes halfway, "But I know. If one day, even if Eliza wants Jewell's Corporation, I can give it to her."

Lawyer Long was stunned.

...

The next day.

After lawyer Long completed the necessary procedures, he went to Neeson's Corporation.

"Miss Eliza, this is the 10% percent of Jewell's shares that our President Jewell gave you. You and Hank Jewell will be Jewell's largest shareholders in the future if you sign."

Charity's pretty face was a little puzzled.

Lawyer Long sighed quietly as Eliza blinked her eyes, the charm inadvertently revealed in her pupils.

"I refuse. I don't require it." Charity pushed the document away ten seconds later.

Lawyer Long was taken aback and couldn't believe it. How could a woman say no to something so appealing?

"Ms. Eliza, I may not have made it clear, but you have 10% of the shares plus your own, for a total of 20%, and you can receive $100 million each year."

"I'm not going to sign." Charity was adamant.

Lawyer Long began to have doubts about his life.

–What's the matter, are the Jewell's Corporation shares no longer fragrant?

–One is desperate to send it, while the other is not.

"And then...and then I'll call Mr. Jewell." Lawyer Long stated.

Charity said as she lifted her eyelids, "Please inform him that he is not bothering me. It is more atonement to me than $100 million."

Lawyer Long nodded and went outside to speak with Chester. After Eliza, relay this sentence to Chester.

Chester was obviously quiet after speaking.

“Look, Young Master Jewell...”

“Okay, I do as Eliza wishes, not to disturb or entangle.” Chester said quietly after a full minute of silence.

Lawyer Long was puzzled. When Chester said his statement, he felt like his skin was being ripped apart.

He appeared to be calm, but it appeared to be a decision that Chester would never make.

“Master Jewell said that he will not disturb or pester you in the future.” Lawyer Long said after returning to the office.

“I hope he can follow through on his promises.” Charity stated flatly.

Lawyer Long wanted to persuade, but when he saw her expression, he was at a loss for words. He only seemed to comprehend why Chester appeared to be a different person.

—Is a woman who can turn down $100 million an ordinary woman?

Charity’s brows furrowed as Lawyer Long walked away.

She raised her brows.

Chester’s meaning is clear to her. This equity will not only allow her to return to Jewell’s vengeance for him, but will also allow her to repay the guilt with money.

Of course, she despised Chester. But it’s also clear whether it is hatred or something else.

If Charity and Chester continue to entangle in this manner, it will only deepen.

She was particularly aware of his true identity.

Let me go, Mr. Hill Chapter 2750

Chapter 2750

“What did Chester want?” Charity could make a guess. Probably wanting to forgive him and rekindle their relationship. But she didn’t want to do it.

Aside from the two’s grudges and grievances, she was also obsessed with cleanliness. Chester had been with a lot of women before, and she considered it dirty.

“I’m back in Australia, didn’t you promise to accompany me to buy clothes, when will you fulfill your promise?” Miguel’s hearty voice came over the phone at this point.

Charity looked at the time and pondered for a while. After a second, she said, "Let's go tonight."

Miguel: "Okay. I'll come get you after work."

Charity: "No, I'll go over alone..."

"I'll come get you and let Gage and the others leave work early." Miguel interrupted her, "Occasionally give them a vacation."

"...Okay." Charity raised her brow.

After hanging up the phone, the secretary Judson walked in and said, "Miss Eliza, Dominick Castonguay rejected us. His agent meant that our Neeson's reputation is not as good as before, and it has been going downhill, and there are better sports brands now. I'm not going to consider us."

"What about the figure skating champion Calliope Hewitt, the endorsement fee can be increased by another two million." Charity frowned and turned the pen.

"Calliope also refused. Her agent People say that before Calliope won the Winter Olympics medal, sports brands had already provided her with financial support, and they must not be ungrateful." Secretary Judson sighed.

Charity rubbed her brows. If Neeson Corporation wants to make a strong comeback, she needs to capitalize on the end of the Winter Olympics. Finding a champion spokesperson quickly can help Neeson's reputation.

"In fact, before many champions became famous, many companies approached them to invest." Secretary Judson said.

"I went over the records. Didn't the Neeson family set aside $5 million each year to support those athletes?"

"After an investigation by our marketing department, the athletes selected every time did not win the championship." Secretary Judson was embarrassed.

Charity squinted, "Once it's a coincidence, twice it can be a coincidence, but every time it's like this... there's a problem. You go find out who the company sponsors each year, and what are they doing now?"

Secretary Judson quickly left, and in the afternoon, a stack of files was delivered to Charity's desk.

Charity smiled after a while of staring at it. It was exactly what she had predicted.

She called the Human Resources Department and said, "Let Manager Ortiz from the Marketing Department resign. You tell him that if he doesn't leave, I'll give the evidence to the lawyer that he and the athlete secretly collaborated with the athletes to defraud Neeson's subsidy fees, and the consequences will be at his own risk."

"Um..., Manager Ortiz is probably not easy to mess with..." The manager of the personnel department smacked his tongue, and Neeson was indeed a steadfast one, and the new officer took office three fires.

"Regardless of how simple it is, this is my company, not his." You can leave if you don't dare to do it." Charity said and hung up the phone indifferently.

...

Half past six o'clock.

Charity exited the elevator carrying her bag.

A burly man burst out of the shadows and shoved Charity.

Charity took two steps back after being caught off guard by her high heels.

"Stinky three-eight." Manager Ortiz scolded her and rushed up to pull her hair, "You came to our company with a broken shoe that a man slept on, you really think you are so arrogant and you want to fire me just a few days after taking office. How old are you?"