

Love So Sweet 544

544 Love Nest

Recently, whenever he was not busy driving his sister around to meet various people, Zhang Yi Hai was working on his apartment.

He did not plan to have any renovation and instead, he decorated the place according to his preferences and what he understood from Fang Su Jin's liking.

After working on the place for a few days, Zhang Yi Hai finally invited his girlfriend over to look around.

When they arrived at the entrance, the first thing that Zhang Yi Hai did was to register Fang Su Jin's fingerprint, so that it would be easier for her to come around.

Fang Su Jin listened to the mechanical voice, telling them that her fingerprints has been recorded, and turned to Zhang Yi Hai again. "Does this mean that I can get access to every of your apartment?" There was a teasing look in her smile.

"Mmm... you can come around and stay whenever you like." Zhang Yi Hai took the opportunity to peck at his girlfriend's lips. Then, he pushed the door to let him in. "Let me take you around for a tour. You can tell me if there's anything lacking."

"Are you planning to move out?"

Zhang Yi Hai chuckled. "Of course, not." He led his girlfriend in and pressed her body into the wall in the hallway. "Su Jin, this is considered our love nest. We'll use this place to date, alright?"

Her face turned bright red upon hearing his words. "What love nest?" She put her hands on his chest and pushed his body away.

Zhang Yi Hai watched as Fang Su Jin turned around to enter the apartment. As the girl began to look around the place, Zhang Yi Hai would follow her around without saying a word.

The two of them moved from the living room until they reached the dining area.

Then, Fang Su Jin looked around the kitchen and was surprised to see that there were already a few snacks in the kitchen cabinet as well as in the refrigerator.

"If there is anything that you like, you can tell me," Zhang Yi Hai spoke. "I will buy them for you."

Fang Su Jin did not say anything but instead, continued to walk around the place. She came to the living room again and stood in front of the glass sliding door that led to the small balcony. The city view from this spot looked quite good.

After a while, her gaze fell on the door next to her.

Fang Su Jin raised her brow at her boyfriend and asked, "Can I enter this place?"

Zhang Yi Hai chuckled. "Go ahead."

Fang Su Jin pushed the door and looked around. There was a long desk and a computer chair instead. At the side was a tall cabinet. "This is your office?" It was not hard for her to figure out, judging from the layout.

"Mhm..." Zhang Yi Hai nodded. "I think I can use this place as a temporary office before I figure out what I am going to do with my company."

At this time, Zhang Yi Hai and his business partners were only working remotely. They would only meet up once in a while and would prefer video conferences instead.

Fang Su Jin looked around and came out again. She moved to the next door and looked at his boyfriend again. "What about this door?"

"Su Jin, you can enter any room you like. I won't keep a secret from you."

Fang Su Jin narrowed her eyes as she looked at her boyfriend. Then, she pushed the door and stepped inside.

To her surprise, Fang Su Jin found that this room was empty. She stared at the room with a dazed look in her eyes before turning to Zhang Yi Hai again. "You haven't decided what you are going to do with this room?"

Zhang Yi Hai moved to wrap his arms around Fang Su Jin's waist, giving her a back hug. Then, he rested his chin on her shoulder. "You can decide how you are going to decorate this room. Su Jin, this would be your office. It's fine if you're going to turn this room into your mini studio as well."

Fang Su Jin was stunned upon hearing his words. She did not expect that Zhang Yi Hai would let her have a space on her own at this place.

She looked out the ceiling to floor window and thought that the view from here looked quite good as well. She could already imagine herself staying in this room to paint.

"You already have the access to this room," Zhang Yi Hai said. "You can come here and decorate this place whenever you want."

Fang Su Jin turned around in his embrace. She stood on tiptoe and peck on Zhang Yi Hai's lips. "Zhang Yi Hai, you are so nice."

The smile on his face widened. "Then, you should reward me more."

Fang Su Jin was going to ask him what he wanted for a reward but was worried that this man was going to spout some nonsense. She pushed him away and walked out to the living room again.

Finally, there was only one more door at the end of the hall.

Fang Su Jin glanced at her boyfriend before walking over and entering.

Her gaze immediately fell on the bed in front of her. Judging from the spacious room, Fang Su Jin figured that this should be the master bedroom.

However, why was it that there was nothing else in this room other than the bed?

Fang Su Jin wanted to turn around and ask, but she continued to stand at the door without moving.

Zhang Yi Hai moved to hug his girlfriend again. He kissed her cheek and spoke, "Su Jin, I hope that you can help me to decorate this room. I don't know much about what you need. Therefore, it is best to let you do it instead." He turned her around to face him and smiled, "Alright?"

Fang Su Jin was mesmerized by the smile and nodded absentmindedly.

The young man let out a chuckle. Then, he leaned over to kiss her on the lips. After a while, he pulled away and asked, "Do you want to try the bed first?"

Fang Su Jin came to her senses and slapped his chest. "Who wanted to try the bed?" She pushed him away with her red face and walked out of the room again.

Zhang Yi Hai was about to give her a chase when his phone suddenly rang.

He took his phone out and frowned when he saw his father's name on the caller ID.
