

Love So Sweet 556

556 Why Don't You Like Him Now?

"The person had already left. Why are you still standing here?"

Hearing the voice, Fang Su Jin turned around and saw that her father was looking at her with a deep frown on his face.

"Dad..." She lowered her gaze.

Father Fang gave his daughter a lookover. With a snort, he then turned around and walked into the house again. Seeing this, Fang Su Jin quickly chased after her father.

"Dad... you, what did you talk to Zhang Yi Hai about?" Fang Su Jin asked as they were in the living room.

Father Fang turned around with an unhappy look on his face. "What is it? Does that kid say something to you?"

"No. But dad, you and Yi Hai both spent a long time in your study," Fang Su Jin said. "What did the two of you talk about?"

Since she could not find the answer through Zhang Yi Hai, Fang Su Jin thought that she might be able to get her answer through her father.

"What else could I talk to him about? I was asking him if the government was making the right move to invest in a foreign country." Father Fang averted his gaze and coughed.

Fang Su Jin frowned. She knew that her father was talking nonsense. Seeing that it was not easy to talk to her father, Fang Su Jin grabbed her father's sleeve and tried to act coquettishly. "Dad..."

No matter how old she was, Fang Su Jin found that this tactic would always work against her father.

Father Fang made the mistake to look at her daughter. Seeing the pitiful look on her face made his heart soft.

"What else could I possibly say to him?" Father Fang heaved a sigh. "Of course, I would ask whether he was serious about you."

"Dad, we are really serious." Fang Su Jin looked her father in the eyes. "I like him."

Seeing his daughter like this made him regret that he did not bully Zhang Yi Hai a little more. He should let Zhang Yi Hai suffer a little bit.

Father Fang closed his eyes. Then, he looked at his daughter again and sighed. "What is it that you like about him? Because he's younger?"

"Age had nothing to do with this. I did not date Yi Hai just because he's younger."

Fang Su Jin pouted. What did her father mean by this? Did he think that she had some preferences? In the beginning, if it was not for his young age, she would not hesitate to date him.

“Dad, previously, you always liked Yi Hai,” Fang Su Jin said. “Each time he drop me back, you would always invite him to go inside for a cup of tea. Why don’t you like him now?”

Father Fang heaved a sigh. “I like that he was young but not ignorant about current affairs. I did not like him as the person who was chasing after you. They a different.”

Fang Su Jin did not think that it was different. In the end, the person was still Zhang Yi Hai, right?

“As your father, of course, I would want you to have the best,” Father Fang continued.

But looking at his lovesick daughter, it seemed that she already thought that Zhang Yi Hai was the best.

“Dad, you don’t know how many times he helped me when I was in trouble,” Fang Su Jin lowered her gaze.

Father Fang raised his brow as he waited for his daughter to continue.

“You know how it is with that F Country’s agent. The last time he tried to harass me, it was Zhang Yi Hai who had stopped him. Later, it was Lin Fang and it was also Yi Hai who helped me.”

Actually, there were a few more incidents. But she did not want to tell her father about it. If her father started to worry excessively, would she still be able to step out of the house?

Father Fang knew that Mika had harassed his daughter when she had an exhibition in Capital City months ago. Teacher Jiang had also mentioned this matter to him, saying that the first time, his daughter was unable to go to F Country because of this man’s attitude.

“Yi Hai was always calm and compose when he was around. He might be younger, but he’s quite mature for his age.”

People said a younger man would be more childish. But between her and Zhang Yi Hai, Fang Su Jin thought that she was the childish one.

Father Fang recalled his conversation with Zhang Yi Hai earlier.

He never thought that the young man would mention marriage when he come.

Father Fang thought that Zhang Yi Hai was too young to get married. After all, he had just graduated. Usually, a young man his age would want to focus on his career first.

Moreover, father Fang had heard that Zhang Yi Hai did not want to work for their family’s hotel but instead, start up a company on his own.

Starting up a company would require a lot of time and money. He worried that if Zhang Yi Hai was dating his daughter, the man would not have the time to accompany his daughter.

However, Zhang Yi Hai had assured him that he would always make time for Su Jin.

Zhang Yi Hai always took consideration of Fang Su Jin’s age and planned to marry her after his graduation. The young man already had a few houses and a car. With the money he had, he would be able to support his daughter while she continued to paint as much as she liked.

When Mother Fang heard about this, she was quite happy. After all, she was always worried about their daughter's life events.

Mother Fang thought that it was better for them to get married earlier.

Father Fang heaved a long, heavy breath. He looked at his anxious daughter and spoke, "Alright, stop praising him, and let me think properly. I already said that I will keep my eyes on him first." Father Fang snorted. "If he bullied my daughter just once, I will not agree to you two dating."

Fang Su Jin's eyes lit up. She leaned over to hug her father's arms and smiled brightly.
