

Love So Sweet 587

587 Who Wants to Talk to Him?

Fang Su Jin laughed. "You can go ahead and try."

A long, heavy sigh escaped him. Zhang Yi Hai leaned over to kiss his girlfriend's lips one more time.

Even if he wanted to keep his girlfriend for a night, Zhang Yi Hai did not dare to go against Father Fang. He was still trying to win Father Fang's heart and did not dare to do anything that would make the elder man change his opinion towards him.

Zhang Yi Hai had to be extra careful with Father Fang.

He hugged his girlfriend and took her into the room that he had prepared for her.

Fang Su Jin swept her gaze around the room with a dazed look on her face.

Not too long ago, this room was still empty.

Zhang Yi Hai told her that this room was prepared for her so that she could come over and draw whenever she wanted to.

Back then, Fang Su Jin had told him a few things that she might need. She did not expect that he would prepare everything within a short time.

.....

Fang Su Jin entered the room and touched the paint on the shelf.

Once upon a time, she had gone shopping for paints and Zhang Yi Hai had paid for her items. The brand of paint on the shelf was the same as the one that she had bought back then.

Fang Su Jin did not expect that Zhang Yi Hai would still remember it.

Moreover, the room was exactly as she had envisioned.

However, Fang Su Jin also knew that the paints were a bit expensive. But her boyfriend bought the whole set. She could not imagine just how much he had spent to prepare this mini studio for her.

A pair of strong arms were hugging her from behind.

Fang Su Jin allowed herself to lean into Zhang Yi Hai's wide chest and felt the man resting his chin on her forehead.

With a slight turn, Zhang Yi Hai was kissing her cheek. "Do you like this room?"

"Un." Fang Su Jin nodded. "I like it."

Fang Su Jin could imagine herself sitting in this room and painting while she was looking at the city scenery outside the window.

After looking around the room, the two of them decided to spend their time in the living room. Zhang Yi Hai thought that he did not mind spending his time with his girlfriend without doing anything. It was enough as long as he could have her in his arms.

Fang Su Jin snuggled to get into a comfortable position in Zhang Yi Hai's arms. She held the remote control and decided to watch a drama that she has been following.

Coincidentally, the television was playing an episode that she hasn't watched before.

The female lead was heartbroken to know that the man she had loved with all her heart was only using her.

It turned out that the man hated her parents and blamed them for what happened to his father. He was just a little boy when his father had to go to jail.

However, Fang Su Jin did not think that the female lead's parents should be blamed.

She thought that the male was too hateful and the female lead was too pitiful. Fang Su Jin thought of the amount of time, energy, and affection that the female lead had spent for this man and could not help but cry.

By this time, Zhang Yi Hai was now used to seeing his girlfriend crying after watching a drama.

Zhang Yi Hai pulled his girlfriend into his embrace and let her cry and vent her feelings. He stroked her long hair as he tried to comfort her.

"Alright. Don't cry too much," Zhang Yi Hai reminded her. "Otherwise, your eyes might swell again. How would I send you back to your parents? Your father would think that I'm bullying you."

Fang Su Jin wanted to continue and cry, but Zhang Yi Hai's words made her want to laugh.

In the end, Fang Su Jin finally stopped crying. She's still worried about her boyfriend and did not want her father to think that he was bullying her.

The couple spent their time together in the small apartment. They had their dinner together before Zhang Yi Hai finally sent his girlfriend back to her parent's house.

The vehicle entered the housing area and Zhang Yi Hai parked his car at his usual spot.

Worried that Father Fang would appear soon, Zhang Yi Hai turned off the light before he leaned over to kiss his girlfriend.

After spending a long time in the car, Fang Su Jin finally stepped out unwillingly. She turned around and walked to the house. Then, she stood at the door to watch Zhang Yi Hai drive away.

Only then did she turn around and head inside.

Fang Su Jin changed her slipper and entered the house. However, a few seconds later, her steps halted upon noticing that her father was standing in front of her.

The elder man was looking out the window with a deep frown on his face.

“Dad, what are you doing?” Fang Su Jin put a hand on her chest. She almost had a heart attack seeing her father standing in the dark alone without making a sound.

Father Fang turned around slowly to look at his daughter. He glanced at the clock and the frown on his face deepened. “You’re five minutes late.”

Fang Su Jin stared at her father speechlessly.

She was already this big and her father suddenly decided to give her a curfew.

It was then that Fang Su Jin recalled something that her mother had told her the other day. She observed her father for a while before she finally spoke, “Dad, if you wanted to invite Yi Hai in and talk to him, you could have done so.”

Father Fang clicked his tongue. “Who wants to talk to him?”

Father Fang turned around and left without waiting for his daughter to react.

It has been a while since Father Fang had discussed his favorite topic with someone. These days, he thought that the people he met did not have the same insight as Zhang Yi Hai. Because of that, he became unhappy.

Father Fang wanted to talk to Zhang Yi Hai. But whenever he recalled that this man was dating his daughter, Father Fang became uncomfortable.

Fang Su Jin watched her father’s retreating back and laughed.

She thought that her father was a little adorable like this.