

Love Will 447

Chapter 447

**There's still no news about Savanna?" The office was filled with the strong smell of tobacco, and on the short table beside Brandon, the ash in the tray had piled up into a small mountain.

He stood in front of the huge floor-to-ceiling window in the office. In the light, his tall and straight back was unusually lonely.

Savanna had been missing for almost a month.

This month, Brandon had not had a sound sleep. Occasionally, even when he had a light sleep, he would also dream that something had happened to Savanna and then he would suddenly wake up

Gradually, he no longer dared to stay at home because every corner of the house was filled with Savanna's aura.

The feeling of loneliness was like shackles, firmly locking his heart and making him unable to breathe.

"Mr. Cassel, we have tried our best to find her, but we have not found any clues about her."

As soon as Jim finished speaking, an ashtray directly smashed over.

He nimbly rolled to the side and dodged it.

"What a bunch of good-for-nothing. You are useless. You can't even find her. She's still nursing, and where can she hide?"

The latter half sentence was completely self-deception.

Not only Jim, but Brandon also searched all the places he could think of.

But he just couldn't find her.

Brandon clearly knew that Savanna was hiding from him.

Just like when she had hidden in Ireland, this time, she hid even more mysteriously and heartlessly.

"Savanna, are you really that cruel?" Brandon extinguished the cigarette that had burned out in the ashtray. "Even if you don't want me, do you not want Tye anymore?"

Brandon did not believe that Savanna was so cruel to give up her son.

He strode out of the office and drove to Love Wings Child Learning Institute.

Tye was in the middle of language training, and Brandon stared at him quietly through the glass window.
