Ma'am The World is Waiting For Your Divorce (Skyler and Jocelyn)

Chapter 181

Chapter 181

The designers surrounding her also followed. Jocelyn glanced at her and said lightly, "Okay, what advice are you going to give me, Miss Rothschild?"

Bella covered her lips and chuckled. Her voice sounded so pretentious that Jocelyn got goosebumps. "Miss White, don't say that. I can't give you any advice. You got an allergic reaction during the competition yesterday, but you still insisted on finishing the design draft. I admire you so much! By the way, how is your body?" She heard that Jocelyn had won the Century Jewelry Competition before, so she wanted to praise Jocelyn while disparaging others. She thought that even though Jocelyn braced herself and finished the competition in a commendable manner even if she had an allergic reaction yesterday, she still would not win the competition.

She was the most likely to win among this group of people. In front of Jocelyn, who was slightly famous before, Bella suddenly had a huge sense of superiority.

Jocelyn glanced at her but did not expose what she was thinking. Her tone was neither humble nor arrogant when she said, "Thank you for your concern, I am much better now."

When Bella saw the reporter taking a photo, she immediately took Jocelyn's hand affectionately, and said with a smile, "Miss White, I know you are very talented. You have won the Century Jewelry Competition before, but you have encountered a special circumstance this time. So, don't worry too much, it's just a competition. If you can't win this time, you can try again next time."

Bella was behaving like she had the trophy in her bag. Jocelyn was not used to being so close to strangers. Therefore, she pulled her hand away stiffly from Bella's.

After hearing what Bella said, everyone was in an uproar. "No way, Jocelyn won the Century Jewelry Competition award!" "Gosh, you've utterly embarrassed yourself this time. Bella had a crushing defeat against you!”

“You can’t say that, after all, she had an allergic reaction.”

“Maybe that’s just an antic. Who can finish drawing their design draft after they get an allergic reaction, I don’t believe her.”

Everyone was discussing among themselves. When Bella saw that she had reached her goal, she was smiling brightly.

She even came forward and said something to help Jocelyn, “Don’t say nonsense. Miss White is sick this time, so she didn’t do her best. Don’t just speak without thinking.”

“Bella, you’re too kind. You’re even helping her.”

“Bella is so nice and she’s so talented.”

“Maybe Jocelyn deliberately gave herself the allergic reaction as a way out since she knew she couldn’t win, and she didn’t want to lose face.”

“Bella was even helping her when she’s doing that. What an angel!”

Jocelyn was not blind or deaf so she could see and hear clearly. However, she stood at one side coldly and did not speak. Lexie looked at everyone, a look of disgust flashed in her eyes. Her expression was also filled with displeasure.

She could not take it anymore and was about to fly into a fit of rage but was stopped by Jocelyn.

Jocelyn glanced at her and shook her head slightly.

Lexie’s eyes flashed and she glanced coldly at the nosey group of designers. Her eyes were frigid.

Before the party started, both Bella’s character and influence received praise.

She looked like she was on cloud nine and she would start floating on air soon.

At ten o’clock, the party started on time. The host came to the stage. “Hello everyone, all the designers have come from afar to participate in the Greene City Ocean Heart Jewelry Competition. In order to welcome everyone, the organizer specially held today’s party and is planning to announce the winners at the party today.” The crowd looked expectant. The host chuckled. “I know you can’t wait to know the result. Alright, I won’t keep you on the hook. Before the party starts, I will satisfy everyone’s curiosity, okay?” “Okay!” The voices of the people at the party were scraggly, but their answers were surprisingly consistent. The host smiled. "First of all, let's announce the third place, Peggy Schuman from Cloud City and also..."

Three people got third place. The winners were overjoyed and the ones whose names had not been called were praying internally, hoping that they would be on the list for the second place.

The host continued to read the list of winners, and two people got second place. Now, the designers who did not win anything looked dejected and disappointed.

There was only one first place spot and it was also the champion of the competition.

The host kept everyone on the hook. "Why don't you all guess who will win the first place this time?"

As soon as the host finished speaking, several designers surrounding Bella shouted one after another, "Bella!"

The host looked down at the name on the card and his expression was distorted for a moment.

He raised his head again and his expression returned to its natural state. He smiled and said, "Next, please congratulate the champion of Greene City Ocean Heart Jewelry Competition, Miss Jocelyn White from Mauve City. Everyone, please give her a round of applause!"

Chapter 182

After the host finished announcing the list of winners, the expressions on the faces of the designers in this circle were very interesting.

They glanced at Bella, then at Jocelyn. In the next second, everyone tried to distance themselves from Bella. There were different expressions on their faces. Contemptuous, ridicule, speechless...

Bella stared at the host on stage in disbelief, her mouth crooked with anger, and her delicate little face became distorted. She never thought that this would be the result.

A circle of pragmatic designers came to congratulate Jocelyn. Yet, Jocelyn's expression was always indifferent. The group of reporters also reacted and hurriedly took pictures of Jocelyn. Some of the smart reporters remembered just now that this group of people said Jocelyn had an allergic reaction during the competition. She could still win after getting an allergic reaction, what an antic!

Hence, they quickly and carefully asked someone to inquire about the situation at that time and recorded it.

The host was on stage and announced the last encouragement prize, and the winner was Bella, who thought she was the champion and was complacent.

However, no one was paying attention to her now.

Bella had never been so embarrassed since she was a child.

Her uncle was just a judge who could only rate each contestant, but not decide the final result.

However, when her uncle said that she was very good, she was full of confidence and thought she would win the first prize, but she never expected that she would receive a consolation prize as encouragement.

Bella walked away sullenly when no one was paying attention.

At the end of the party, Jocelyn received the trophy, and her name was already trending on the Internet #geniusdesignerjocelynwhite #receivedanawardevenwhenshewassick

[How amazing! It's rumored that she was sick and yet she still got the champion. Marvelous indeed!]

[It's not a rumor. She did get an allergic reaction. The organizer even posted a video of her during the competition. Her face looked so pale, and her body, neck, and face were covered in red spots. What a poor girl, but I am impressed!]

(She's superhuman. Who can finish a competition when they're sick and even get the first prize?]

[Which jewelry designer could be so amazing except for Jocelyn? Who else? Who else? From now on, Jocelyn is my idol. Anyone unconvinced, please step forward. I'll kill all of you!]

(She is Jocelyn White, a genius jewelry designer with patience, resilience, and talent!]

Among the hashtags, a new hashtag appeared out of the blue and started trending. At the same time, it was even getting more and more popular.

#jocelynwhitethenewjosiesonnetjr “Josie Sonnet Jr.? Are they talking about Jocelyn?” “Yeah! Go search her design draft online and all of them are so astonishing. She’s so truly talented.”

“How long has Jocelyn gained fame? How can she compete with Josie? Josie is an international jewelry designer.”

“Why not? Jocelyn is even more amazing than Josie back in the day. Josie got three consecutive champions in three months, and she was praised to the heavens online. On the contrary, Jocelyn got three consecutive champions in just half a month, so she’s much better! She is definitely worthy to be called Josie Jr.” “Hey, did you notice that Jocelyn looks kind of like Josie up-close? Are they relatives?” “Hey, you’re so nose. Do you want to look up their ancestry?”

This topic was extremely popular on the Internet and at this moment, the hospital posted the proof that Jocelyn almost went into anaphylactic shock after getting an allergic reaction.

At this moment, Jocelyn’s resilience and talent were praised to the high heavens.

Which designer was like this?

It was also at this moment that Jocelyn felt she finally had the first show of her talent and made a name for herself in the jewelry world.

On the plane going back to Mauve City, Jocelyn sat with Lexie. Davis went back in advance since he needed to take care of something.

As for Yuni, she failed to drive a wedge between Jocelyn and Lexie, so she was hiding from the two.

Plus, since Skyler threw a tantrum last night, he seemed to have disappeared. He had always been unpredictable, so Jocelyn did not think much about him. Inside the departure lounge, Lexie looked at the trending topics online and she was in a bad mood.

“Why are they calling you Josie Jr.? You have a name!” She sounded enraged and her small face was getting colder and colder.

Jocelyn sighed helplessly. “Don’t overthink, this is how everyone’s acknowledging my ability. I am pretty optimistic about this. Plus, Josie has been popular for so many years, and to be honest, my ability can’t compare to hers”

Lexie said gloomily, “You’re much better than her!” Jocelyn burst into laughter. “That’s just in your heart, I know.”

Lexie pressed her lips together and looked at Jocelyn. She did not say anything anymore. Jocelyn went back to work the next day after being back in Mauve City. When Jocelyn fell asleep last night, Skyler had not come back. Jocelyn thought he did not come back to No. 1, North Court. After she ate breakfast, she planned to go to work.

In the end, the moment she picked up her car keys, Skyler came downstairs. “I’ll drive you to work today.”

Jocelyn shook her head quickly. “No need, I can drive.”

Skyler frowned and looked at her with no expression on his face. “You can drive me then.”

Chapter 183

Jocelyn choked. Could she refuse? Skyler stared at Jocelyn and did not say anything. He lost his temper that night and never showed up in front of Jocelyn again. Now, he knew very well that he was bothered by that. Jocelyn is willing to listen to his words and talk to him just because she remembered his life-saving grace. However, in her heart, they were still in the relationship dictated by the agreement. Skyler felt agitated. It was what he wanted in the first place, and now he did not want it anymore.

He was upset when he saw Jocelyn because her cold attitude toward him made him uncomfortable, and he wanted to find a place to vent his emotions. However, he started missing Jocelyn when he could not see her. When he recalled the various warnings he made to Jocelyn at the beginning, Skyler finally felt what it was like to shoot himself in the foot.

They had not seen each other for two days. When Skyler looked at Jocelyn at this moment, his mood seemed to calm down. Jocelyn did not notice his abnormality. She thought about it seriously and said sincerely, "I'm going to the alumni party at night. If I send you to work, I won't be able to send you back at night." "You're saying so many things, but you just don't want to send me, right?" Jocelyn shook her head quickly. "No, I'm telling the truth." Skyler snorted coldly, his voice frigid, "You just need to take me to work. You don't have to worry about how I'm getting off work."

Jocelyn's expression was still hesitant.

Skyler's expression became a little unpleasant. Many people begged to send him to and from work, but he only wanted her to do so.

He had never felt such urgency to get close to a person before.

His feelings and self-confidence were constantly competing with one another. He looked at Jocelyn deeply, and he had no choice but to take out his trump card, "I have a back injury and I'll affect my wound if I drive." Jocelyn's face changed slightly, and she immediately looked at him with a worried expression. "I'll drive you to work. I can take you back first at night and then go to the alumni party." Skyler felt bitterness in his heart. Jocelyn was finally willing to send him to work and her attitude was also spectacular.

It was a pity as she was just feeling guilty since he got hurt because of her. Skyler got into Jocelyn's car, feeling horrible and sweet at the same time. If one had never liked someone before, they would not understand the contradictory feeling.

Skyler knew that he could force Jocelyn to get a marriage certificate with him and even not get a divorce, but he could not force Jocelyn to fall in love with him sincerely and from the bottom of her heart.

Jocelyn started the car and Skyler sat in the passenger seat. He had a dark look on his face and it was unknown what he was thinking.

Jocelyn took the initiative to ask him, "Is your wound getting better?"

Skyler glanced at her sideways, peeled off a piece of candy, and said in a low voice, "Yea, it's getting better. Your design for the competition this time is pretty good. Congratulations."

The faint mint smell spread in the car.

Jocelyn pursed her lips and said, "Thank you."

The theme of the Ocean Heart Jewelry Competition was to design a piece of jewelry based on the heart of the ocean.

Her inspiration came from the artwork in Ocean Park, which was a bronze statue of the heart of the sea. She made changes and deformations on the two intersecting hearts and surrounded them with lace that looks like waves so that the meaning and beauty of the design coexisted.

Skyler did not speak anymore. He looked out the car window, it was unknown what he was thinking as his expression was always cold and indifferent.

They were almost at the company and Jocelyn finally remembered what happened with Giada.

"By the way, Mr. Moore, what happened to Giada? Did she have something to do with my allergic reaction?" Jocelyn asked casually Skyler's eyes sank and his expression was gloomy. "She's not the one who gave you the allergic reaction. However, she was suspected of kidnapping and assault, so this time, I won't let her come out and continue wreaking havoc."

Jocelyn understood and it seemed that this time Giada would not be let out without serving some time in prison

However, this was fine Giada was a bad person and letting her out would be a danger to society

Skyler raised an eyebrow and glanced at Jocelyn when he noticed that she was not speaking "Are you feeling sorry for her again?" Jocelyn shook her head. "No, she deserves it, but does she really have nothing to do with my allergic reaction?"

Skyler glanced at her and said vaguely, "You'll find out later."

Jocelyn had no idea what Skyler meant by that.

It was not until she arrived at the company that she saw the company-wide notice that Fiona was fired, so she guessed that this matter should have something to do with Fiona. Come to think of it, the reason Davis returned to Mauve City ahead of time was to deal with this matter.

The fact that Skyler was making Fiona being fired so public meant he was trying to get her out of the jewelry industry. No one would dare to hire Fiona now unless they wanted to offend Skyler. One had to know that unless they did not want a place in the Century Jewelry Competition, they should not hire Fiona again after she was fired from Prosperity Jewelry. For some reason, Jocelyn remembered when they were eating in Moon Pavilion, Fiona looked thoughtful when she heard that Jocelyn was allergic. Also, the reason she did not want to join the Ocean Heart Jewelry Competition might be to create an alibi for herself.

However, she did not think that Skyler would find out after she planned for so long.

During lunch, David told Jocelyn the truth. "She has a relative working in the kitchen of the hotel we booked. He tampered with the porridge and added seafood. Back when I was having breakfast with Yuni, Fiona was there with us, so she knew Yuni had a habit of taking porridge for the people she was eating with. Hence, Fiona decided to tamper with the porridge." Jocelyn suddenly realized what was going on. To be honest, the time between those actions was so long that she could not even connect the two.

At the same time, Skyler was eating in the president's office when he received an international phone call.

"Skyler, how can you be so out of line?" Josie's enraged and stifling voice came from the phone.

Ma'am, The World Is Waiting For Your Divorce Chapter 184

Chapter 184

Chapter 184

Skyler slowly took the phone a little further away, a trace of impatience flashed across his eyebrows. "What do you want?"

Josie's voice sounded angry and aggrieved. "Fiona meant something to me, how can you treat her like that? What heinous thing did she do? Do you need to cut off her hands like this? She won't be able to hold a paintbrush in her life anymore!"

Skyler completely ignored her anger and said indifferently, "It's her fault so she can't blame anyone else."

She hurt Jocelyn, so it was more than heinous. He almost lost Jocelyn from the anaphylactic shock. So, this was lenient by his standards. Skyler's attitude was a huge blow to Josie.

Her voice dropped and she said with deep sadness, "Skyler, you've changed. Since you got the marriage certificate with Jocelyn, you've turned into such a stranger to me."

After he heard Josie mentioning Jocelyn, Skyler's expression turned completely cold, "This has nothing to do with her. Fiona is jealous of her and wants to take action against her, so I just let Fiona get what she deserves. Josie, you know my bottom line, don't make me despise you."

Josie took a breath. "Skyler, don't say that, I didn't mean to provoke you. Fiona and I were friends after all. Aren't you slapping me across the face by doing that?" Skyler looked indifferent. "You have been abroad for more than a month, what face am I slapping?"

Josie was silent.

She did not speak, and Skyler's voice sounded impatient. "I'll hang up first."

"Wait!" Josie raised her voice suddenly. "Skyler, I read on the Internet that Jocelyn looks a bit like me, right?"

Skyler frowned. "It's all nonsense!"

Josie sounded a little stubborn. "But she does look like me, at least from her pictures, Skyler, are you treating her like a replacement for me? If not, I can come back now and you can break up with her, okay?" Skyler's voice turned cold immediately, and it was laced with intense anger and warning, "Josie!"

His expression looked very off-colored. "Don't let me hear something like this ever again, if not, I won't go easy on you. Also, Jocelyn is Jocelyn and she's nobody's replacement."

Josie could not believe that Skyler would be impressed by another woman in such a short period.

Her voice was a little hysterical. "But it's an indisputable fact that she looks like me!"

Skyler just hung up the phone, refusing to listen to her nonsense anymore. He looked sullen and he massaged his eyebrows tiredly. Back then, if Josie did not get into an accident for the newly established company, he would not be with her because he wanted to take responsibility. Six years ago, he had a good relationship with Abel.

The Crain family was in the jewelry business, and Skyler had just established a foothold in the jewelry industry. Although Abel was a bit of a scoundrel, he was also like-minded with Skyler. Hence, the two hit it off and became friends.

Back then, Dean, Abel's eldest brother, was interested in Josie when he first started interacting with her. Abel would treat Josie like she was his sister-in-law.

One time, Skyler needed to take care of something at the last minute, so he asked Josie to negotiate something on his behalf.

As a result, Dean's buddy acted on their initiative and drugged Josie to put her in Dean's bed.

If that was just the case, there might be room for recovery. However, that guy was too impulsive so not only did he drink the drugged wine, but he also gave it to Dean. That night, the three of them got together in a state of confusion. After that, Dean was enraged, and he wanted to send his friend to the police. In the end, the two got into an accident on the way to the police station and died. At the same time, Josie lost all hope and she only wanted to die. Hence, she decided to commit suicide.

Before she died, she confessed her feelings for Skyler and said that she did not dare to like Skyler anymore after what happened. Initially, Skyler should be the one going to the negotiation, but Josie went for him at the last minute and got into trouble. Hence, Skyler could not forgive himself. Plus, in order to calm Josie down after what happened to her, Skyler agreed to stay with her, and he said he would not mind what happened. He also comforted her that she did not intend for this to happen.

When Josie and Skyler showed up in front of others, they were already a couple.

Chapter 185

For some unknown reason, Abel stubbornly believed that Skyler must have something to do with the death of his elder brother Dean. He always believed that Skyler killed Dean and that friend in order to avenge his girlfriend. He also refused to believe Skyler's explanation. Since then, Abel's emotions towards Josie had become extremely complicated, and he would always cause trouble for Skyler.

He knew that his elder brother was at fault, but it was not enough for him to die. So, his friendship with Skyler had ended since then. Dean died and Abel was the only child left in the Crain family. The living would continue to live. Since then, the relationship between Skyler, Abel, and Josie had become what it was later. Skyler was in a tepid relationship with Josie for a few years and he hyped her to the admiration of everyone in the jewelry industry.

He even... He even planned to marry her in the end as compensation.

It was a pity that she was never content. She wanted fame, fortune, status, and his love. She wanted too much, and naturally; he could not give it to her. Skyler also knew that Abel told him to stay away from Jocelyn because Jocelyn would be the next Josie.

However, how was that possible? Jocelyn and Josie were completely different.

Before this, Skyler did not know what emotions were until he met Jocelyn. From when he asked Jocelyn to keep a distance from him, to being attracted to her gradually. He was constantly denying it and staying away from Jocelyn, but in the end, he could not control his heart.

Only then did he know that liking someone was something he could not help and could not control.

Plus, the reason why he was still tolerant towards Josie was just because of what happened in the past. He hoped Josie would not exhaust his patience again.

At seven o'clock in the evening, Jocelyn and Lexie appeared at the entrance of the May First Hotel

The two got out of the car one after another, and the doorman took the car keys before going to park the car.

Jocelyn was wearing a white professional suit and Lexie was wearing a retro black dress. Then, the two walked toward the hotel lobby.

Lexie looked at Jocelyn with some worry. "What if Snow comes too?"

Jocelyn's eyes flashed with coldness. "It's fine. I found Howard as my boyfriend to clear the relationship back then, and now, I already have a marriage certificate. Do you think I'll be scared if she says I am pestering Walter? "Besides, who are they? One is the daughter of a jewelry empire, and the other is the heir of the Keele family. I have self-awareness and I won't have any wishful thinking. Plus, it's all over, don't worry, it's not a problem," Jocelyn mocked herself and curled her lips.

Lexie glanced at her helplessly. "Jocelyn, can I tell you that the more nervous you are, the more you talk?"

CT

Jocelyn's face froze. Her expression was slightly embarrassed, and her voice sounded a little unnatural. "We're best friends so please show me some respect and don't tear me down so readily." Lexie nodded. Then, she reached out and shook Jocelyn's hand. "It's okay, no matter what the situation is, I will always be with you." After they took a few steps, they saw a graceful figure walking over. The other party was wearing a light green toga dress, making her look innocent and charming. Lexie raised her chin slightly. "Jocelyn, that's Renee from the same major as you."

Jocelyn turned a blind eye. "Don't pay attention to her." Jocelyn was at odds with Renee back when they went to school. If she went over to talk to her now, she would be courting trouble.

However, even if she did not want to court trouble, the other party liked to create trouble. Renee swayed her hips and walked quickly in front of Jocelyn to block her. "Hey, isn't this Jocelyn? You've never attended any of our parties after graduating for two years, so why did you come to the alumni party today? Is it because Mr. Keele is back so you want to curry favor? Too bad, he's engaged."

The hotel's reception was at one side, but Renee ignored it completely and continued to insult Jocelyn like there was no one around them.

Jocelyn had a close relationship with Walter back then but then she was warned by his fiancé.

Not a lot of people knew about this, but Renee was one of them who knew.

Jocelyn had an unpleasant expression on her face. "Renee, move out of the way. I don't want to spew nonsense with you."

Renee scoffed, "What? You didn't get to be his girlfriend in the past two years, and you still want to try now? Do you seriously think Mr. Keele has dumbled down after two years abroad and will fancy you again?"

Jocelyn's face turned pale. She was always fearless. However, this was her weakness and also her privacy that no one knew.

Since this had indeed happened in the past, she did not know how to retort when others scolded her.

She did like Walter, and it was an undeniable truth. Even if she had no idea Walter had a fiancé back then, she could not deny the fact that she did fall for a man with a fiancé.

People always said that the ones who erred unknowingly needed not be held responsible, but Jocelyn felt that she needed to be held responsible. –

She should not fall for Walter back then. After Renee said that she saw Jocelyn lowering her eyes and did not say anything. She immediately covered her lips and started cackling sarcastically. “Say, Jocelyn, you’re so hilarious. Do you seriously think that way? I’m going to die from laughter.” Lexie directly took a step forward. She was filled with evil tendencies, and she wanted to rip Renee’s mouth off her face.

At this moment, a clear but cold voice sounded, “What are you guys doing?”

Ma’am, The World Is Waiting For Your Divorce Chapter 186

Ma’am The World is Waiting For Your Divorce (Skyler and Jocelyn)

Chapter 186

Chapter 186

Jocelyn froze when she heard this voice.

She had already met Walter at the airport, even though Walter did not see her at the time.

Jocelyn bit her lip. She really did not expect that she would meet him again in two years in such an embarrassing situation. Walter appeared when she was being insulted so much that she could not raise her head.

Walter could not bear to look away from Jocelyn when he saw her lowering her head, not looking at him. He only heard Renee’s last sentence just now, but even so, he could guess that Renee must have said something mean. Moreover, it must be something that satirized Jocelyn so that was why she was powerless to refute.

Walter was angry and distressed when saw this little girl whom he protected for so long getting bullied again. Lexie was glaring at him with a straight face. Her eyes were burning as if she was feeling injustice for Jocelyn.

Walter was a little helpless. He looked at the reception indifferently and said in an unassailable tone, “What happened just now?”

The receptionist was smart. This was the future heir of the hotel, so he must not be negligent.

Fortunately, she had a good memory and she told Walter about the conversation between Jocelyn and Renee just now.

Renee clenched her skirt guiltily.

There was a deep anger in Walter's eyes.

He looked at Renee. "Renee, right? I remember you... When you were in university, you loved causing trouble for Jo, right?"

Renee smiled dryly and looked up at Walter, her voice extremely unnatural, "W-Walter, I was joking with her back then!"

Walter was expressionless. "Don't call me that, I don't like people who try to weasel their way into a relationship with me."

Renee could see that although Walter was not flying into a fit of rage, he was definitely angry.

She blinked and opened her mouth to please Walter, trying to ease her current embarrassment, "Mr. Keele, I was only bickering with Jocelyn just now, please don't take it to heart.

"It's just that we have heard about you and Miss Sonnet returning to the country together. Miss Sonnet and you are a talented and perfect match made in heaven, and it's so enviable. As your juniors, we're so happy for you."

She did not believe that Walter would disrespect her since she had praised them so much. After all, one should not slap the face of a smiling person.

In the end, Walter really did not show her any respect. He was so indifferent that he looked like a stranger. "What's so envious about that? What does my business have to do with you? Why are you trying to weasel your way into a relationship with me?"

Renee could not smile anymore. She looked at Walter stiffly and said, "Mr. Keele, please give me some respect and don't be so harsh." Walter looked at her sarcastically and sneered, "Respect? Do you still want respect? Should you have that? Are you worthy of others giving your respect? It's one thing to leave the house without your brain and now you're saying I am being harsh. When you attacked and ridiculed others, did you never once think to control your damn mouth?"

Walter's tone was sharp and unkind, "Miss Lawson, I should advise you, if you want others to respect you, you must first learn to respect others!"

Renee's face was as red as a tomato.

She bit her lip tightly. "Mr. Keele, it was my fault, I should go now."

After Renee finished speaking, she turned to leave.

However, Walter's voice called out to her coldly, "Stop!" Renee turned around in embarrassment. "Mr. Keele, how else can I help you?"

Walter looked at her indifferently. "Apologize to Jocelyn or get out of the May First Hotel!"

Renee's eyes turned red in an instant.

Today, the entire May First Hotel stopped operating to cater to the alumni party of Mauve University and this was all provided by Walter.

Who was Walter? He was the eldest son of the Keele family. If he said feces smelled good, then everyone had to say that it smelled good.

If she went out of here today, her family's social connection might even be affected because of her, let alone her relationship with her friends.

Renee's eyes were red, and she stared at Jocelyn, concealing her deep hatred toward Jocelyn in the bottom of her eyes.

She gritted her teeth and apologized reluctantly, "Jocelyn, I'm sorry. I was wrong. I shouldn't spew nonsense just now and belittle you. It's my fault and I am apologizing to you, please forgive me."

Walter turned to look at Jocelyn.

Jocelyn finally lifted her head and looked at Renee, her voice was so cold that it was terrifying, "Should I accept your apology just because you apologized?"

Renee panicked and she subconsciously looked at Walter.

Walter's voice was as cold as Jocelyn's. "Miss Lawson, you should at least be sincere when you apologize, do you understand?"

Renee's tears started falling from her eyes. She looked at Jocelyn and restrained all her negative emotions. "Jocelyn, I was truly wrong. Please forgive me."

Jocelyn stood there unmoved.

When Reese saw that Walter was not saying anything, she gritted her teeth and bent down to kneel on the ground of the lobby. "I'll kneel for you, please forgive me, okay?"

Jocelyn finally said something, "Enough, that's not necessary."

After she said that, she finally looked at Water, "Walter, let's go."

Waiter nodded. "Alright, let's go upstairs."

Lexie's cold and small face was not so terrifying anymore.

The trio went upstairs. Behind them, Renee's gaze looked substantial and intense hatred enveloped her.

She wanted to eat Jocelyn right now so she could avenge the embarrassment she felt today.

Jocelyn, Lexie, and Walter went into the elevator.

Jocelyn had a complicated expression on her face. "Walter, you... didn't have to do that."

Walter had always been a gentleman, and he had never been so ungentlemanly or so unkind to a girl. However, today, his behavior was the exact opposite of what he used to be. Walter knew what she meant, and his tone was indifferent, "Jo, that was nothing when it comes to protecting someone I care about." Jocelyn pursed her lips; her expression was tense

For a while, she did not know what to say.

She really could not get used to how Walter was still as nice to her as he was two years ago. Obviously, their relationship was long gone, so why was he still doing this? Jocelyn bit her lip, feeling inexplicably depressed.

Walter saw that something was wrong with her, and he told himself that he had to take this slow.

He changed the subject, "Jo, I heard that you are working at Prosperity Jewelry now, right?" Jocelyn nodded absently. "Yeah."

Walter smiled; his tone as gentle as a spring breeze. "If you need anything in the future, you can ask me for help. If someone causes trouble for you in the company, you can also come to me. I have... acquaintances in Prosperity."

Jocelyn opened her mouth but did not know what to say for a long time. Finally, she hummed softly and nodded mechanically.

After getting out of the elevator, Walter said, "Jo, you guys go get together with the alumni first. I need to handle something and I'll go over later." Jocelyn knew he was organizing the party today so he must be busier than she was. She nodded and watched Walter leave.

Lexie's eyes flashed and she suddenly said, "What an affectionate nickname. The name of your cat is also derived from your name too, right?"

Jocelyn was stunned. "I genuinely never realized that, but Skyler was the one who named the cat."

Lexie teased, "Walter and Skyler have such great taste in names."

Jocelyn pursed her lips and said nothing. After staying silent for a while, Lexie said after some hesitation, "Jocelyn, does Walter... still like you?" When Jocelyn heard this, she was like a cat whose tail had been stepped on. She quickly retorted, "Nonsense. He never likes me so what do you mean still likes me?"

Lexie pressed her lips together and did not mind Jocelyn's reaction. "He's behaving the way he did two years ago, and he can't stand you being wronged."

Jocelyn's voice sounded a little numb. "Maybe... he just sees me as his little sister."

Lexie was stunned. Walter had a fiancé, and he was still so nice to Jocelyn.

“Yeah... Perhaps she’s just like a little sister.’

Lexie curled her lips sarcastically and grabbed Jocelyn. “Let’s go find seats.”

Jocelyn nodded.

The May First Hotel, which was used to host the alumni party, was not big, but it was enough to fit all the alumni.

The hall, dining hall, and the meeting hall on the top floor were all turned into a buffet. They only needed to take the elevator to go between the halls, so it was very convenient. Even the dorm rooms were vacated to accommodate the alumni who could not go home tonight.

Jocelyn and Lexie met a lot of familiar faces when they entered the hall. Once they entered society, everyone’s temperament was not the same as it was when they were back in school.

In the end, Jocelyn and Lexie sat down on a sofa.

Soon, the sofa was sat with a lot of alumni, and they were chatting and laughing among themselves.

When Walter came in, he walked straight to Jocelyn even when there were so many empty seats.

He looked at Lexie with a smile and then said with a soft smile, “Lexie, can you make room for me?”

Lexie pressed her lips together, nodded, and got up to sit on the other side.

Walter sat next to Jocelyn and immediately, Jocelyn’s body became stiff. When Jordan saw this, he made a face at Walter and then chuckled. “The reason we’re here today is to exchange contacts among alumni. In the future, we can help each other out at work and connect more. It’s meaningless to just sit here and chat. Why don’t we play King’s Game?”

Walter looked like an easy-mannered nobleman, but he was very unapproachable.

It was easy to talk to him, but it was hard to open one’s heart to him

However, Jordan was one of Walter’s close friends and they had always been close.

Walter did not say anything, which meant he tacitly agreed to this. Everyone else sitting there was making noise asking how to play this game. Jordan took out a box with dice. "It's like this, we will roll the dice. There are six dice, and we'll take turns rolling them. The one with the biggest number will be the big king and the one with the smallest number will be the small king. I'll change the rules a little. We can take turns being the dealer and, in every round, the dealer can ask the big and small king to do something. If either of them refuses, they will have to drink ten shots. What do you think?" When everyone heard that they were going to play a game, the atmosphere in the room immediately became lively. Everyone said they were not opposed to it.

Jordan rolled the dice first. He got a two, two threes, one four, one five, and one six.

A total of 23 points. It was not too high or too low.

Everyone continued rolling the dice.

When it was Jocelyn's turn, she rolled the lowest point in this game. Five ones and a two, a total of seven points. She could only pray that someone would get six points, if not, she would be the small king. Walter grabbed the dice and rolled them absent-mindedly.

Jordan's ears moved and he winked at Walter. Then, Walter stopped the dice. After he revealed the dice, there were six sixes, and it was 36 points. Undoubtedly, he was the big king. Jocelyn opened her mouth, and she did not know what to say for a very long time. After that, all the other players got between seven and 36 points. Jordan smiled amorously and said with a smirk, "Well... I won't make things hard for you. The two kings should kiss, what do you guys think?" Everyone loved amorous jokes, not to mention one of them was Walter. This chance was so rare to come by! Everyone started heckling, "Kiss! Kiss!"

Walter looked at Jocelyn with a smile on his face. It was as if everyone was making a joke that did not really matter.

Jocelyn's eyes sank. Her voice was clear and emotionless when she said with an extraordinarily serious expression, "I will drink ten shots as punishment."

Upon hearing this, everyone froze. Even Jordan was dumbfounded.

He said, "Jocelyn, don't. How disappointing will this be? Isn't that just a kiss?" Jocelyn raised her eyes and glanced at him lightly. "I have a boyfriend and Walter also has a fiancé, so this is inappropriate." Walter frowned as if trying to explain something "Jo..." Jocelyn did not pay attention to him. After she finished speaking, she took the wine bottle in one hand and the wine glass in the other before drinking directly. Ten shots were not a small amount nor was it a large amount. Yet, she still finished them without a word. Walter's expression was unreadable, and no one could tell what he was thinking. When he recalled Jocelyn saying that she had a boyfriend, he fell silent. From the beginning to the end, he did not say a word. After Jocelyn finished drinking, he poured himself a drink in silence and drank it. The alumni all had different expressions on their faces.

After taking ten shots, Walter stood up expressionlessly. "Everyone, please have fun. I'll step outside for a bit."

As soon as Walter left, Jordan could not stop rubbing his eyebrows.

He looked at Walter apologetically. He had a look that said, 'Dude, I just wanted to help you.'

He really did not expect that Jocelyn would be so disrespectful to make him go overboard as soon as the game started.

As soon as Walter left, Jordan smiled dryly and said to the crowd, "Everyone, please continue, I'll go out for a bit too."

Jocelyn had a complicated look on her face when she saw someone secretly looking at her.

Jocelyn pursed her lips and wanted to stand up when Renee walked over.

She sat right beside Jocelyn and said to everyone with a laugh, "Are we going to stop playing after Walter left? We can't do that, we're all alumni so we have to be treated equally."

After she said that, she rolled the dice with a smirk.

It had to be said that Renee was amazing at hyping things up. Soon, the scene became lively again.

Renee lowered her head and whispered in Jocelyn's ear. "Jocelyn, how does it feel to use other people's fiancé as support?"

Even though Renee was berated by Walter, she had been rivals with Jocelyn for so many years, so she knew where Jocelyn's weakness was. Jocelyn had no expression on her face, but her heart tightened slightly. She never wanted Walter to stand up for her. Lexie sat beside them, and she heard everything. She looked at Renee like she was warning her, "Renee, enough is enough. Walter just couldn't stand your behavior."

However, Renee ignored her.

Instead, she looked at Jocelyn and deliberately raised her voice, "Jocelyn, I heard that you have a boyfriend from afar. Who is he? Why don't you ask him to come here so we can meet him?"

Jocelyn's eyes darkened. "He's busy."

Renee pouted and she looked contemptuous. "No way! He should have time to come to pick you up no matter how busy he is, right? Let everyone meet him. We want to see who the partner of the former campus belle of Mauve University is!"

Renee started to look at Jocelyn provocatively. She could not curse at Jocelyn in case Walter had dirt on her.

However, she had to seek revenge for what happened in the lobby just now.

Jocelyn frowned slightly. "Renee, do you think you're getting to me?"

Renee looked innocent and said in front of all the alumni, "Jocelyn is asking me if I'm getting to her. I swear I don't mean any harm. I just want to meet her partner yet she's coming up with excuses. Why do I feel that her partner doesn't love her?"

She looked at Jocelyn with a look of sympathy, "Say, Jocelyn, if he doesn't care about you, I think you should just break up with him. I'll introduce you to another one and I'm sure you'll be satisfied with him. He's rich and handsome. Plus, you can bring him out anytime you want!"

After Renee said that everyone started heckling. "Yeah, Jocelyn, bring him to meet us!" "If he refuses, it means he doesn't care about you." "You're the campus belle of all the boys in Mauve University back then. Don't defile yourself like that!"

When Jocelyn heard that, she felt as if she was being barbecued. She looked coldly at Renee who was basking in the schadenfreude and stood up. "I'll go outside to call my boyfriend to tell him to come pick me up." Renee stopped her at once. Then, she lifted her chin and said, "Don't. Call him here. Let us see how he treats you so we can help you decide."

Jocelyn looked at Renee and lowered her eyes to call Skyler.

Renee then nosily put him on speaker. Everyone held their breath and stared at Jocelyn's phone. Jocelyn looked slightly off color, but at least she maintained an elegant demeanor.

The phone rang twice before someone answered.

An attractive voice came from the phone. "Hello?"

The other party's voice was deep and hoarse. It was as deep as a cello, and it was so pleasant to the ears.

Everyone was shocked when they heard his voice. They seemed to be wondering who this voice belonged to and how handsome the person on the other end must be.

After all, Jocelyn was such a proud and self-respecting beauty, so it was pretty unlikely for her to find an ugly partner.

Jocelyn ignored everyone's gaze, pursed her lips, and said softly, "Are you busy?" She did not call him President Moore or Mr. Moore, and she did not call him by his name too for fear of exposing herself. It was quiet on the other end of the phone. Skyler was silent for two seconds before he said, "I'm not busy, what's the matter?" Someone jokingly mouthed with a smile on their lips, "Ask him what he's doing." Jocelyn saw everyone's look of anticipation and continued, "Are you..." Before Jocelyn could ask, Skyler answered, "I'm in a bar." "It's pretty quiet over there." Jocelyn was a little surprised.

Skyler's voice seemed to be tinged with a chuckle, "I'm in the private room."

Jocelyn suddenly remembered that Skyler's private room in Vintage Bar was so soundproof that no noise could penetrate the walls. It was pin-drop silent from the outside. She hesitated for a second and said, "Well, if you're at a bar, I'll hang up first."

The alumni were getting anxious. Their faces changed slightly, and someone cried, "Jocelyn, you can't do this!"

Skyler's voice was cold. "Who's that?"

Jocelyn was a little helpless. "It's one of the alumni. I'm at the alumni party? Everyone wants to meet you. I originally planned to ask you to come to pick me up, but you had something to drink too so you can't drive."

After listening to Jocelyn, Skyler understood and said, "It doesn't matter, I will let the driver drive me, you go have fun first."

Nothing was exposed and it worked out perfectly. Jocelyn finally breathed a sigh of relief and hung up the phone.

As soon as she hung up the phone, everyone asked with envy.

"Jocelyn, your boyfriend's voice is so nice, he must be very handsome."

Jocelyn was silent for a second. Skyler's outrageously handsome face appeared in her mind, and she nodded, "Well, he is really good-looking."

Some of them were so envious that their eyes turned green. "Wow, his voice is so good that it will make someone pregnant and he's also good-looking. Is he trying to kill us?"

"Jocelyn, your boyfriend is also rich, right? He has a driver taking him everywhere," The other party asked with a smile and admiration.

Jocelyn felt uncomfortable, not knowing how to answer this kind of question. "He's pretty well -off I guess."

Renee could not stand this anymore. She was just taunting Jocelyn, but unexpectedly, she gave her a chance to boast.

Her face turned dark. "Maybe it's just a designated driver. Why is he pretending to be rich?"

Jocelyn gave her a speechless look and said nothing.

The people in this circle also saw that Renee was here to cause trouble so they did not say a word and looked at each other in dismay.

Renee was suddenly embarrassed.

Jocelyn glanced at her lightly and said bluntly, "Yeab it might be a designated driver."

Renee's face changed and she did not say anything.

At the same time, Vintage Bar. Jim glanced at Skyler and asked with a smile, "Who is that?" Skyler gave him a sideways look. "Jocelyn." Jim looked sloppy. "Why did she call you in the middle of the night? Is she doing a spot check?" Skyler glanced at Jim casually, shook the glass in his hand, and ignored him. Jim could not bear being left alone. "It's just the two of us here so you should say something. Don't make me perform a one-man show." Skyler snorted softly, "I think you're pretty happy to be alone." Jim rolled his eyes. "I'm sad now." Skyler was showing an expression that said, 'Even if you're sad, it doesn't matter to me.' "I'll pick her up after I finish this drink." Jim rolled his eyes and raised his eyebrows. "Pick up Jocelyn? Did she just call you to pick her up?"

Skyler leaned back on the couch, gave Jim a side-eye, and said nothing.

Jim pursed his lips and complained, "You're so boring. Whoever drinks with you will probably be pissed to death in minutes. Only I can endure the humiliation for so many years and I have already gotten used to it." Skyler took a sip of wine, and his expression was unreadable under the light of the private room.

He was silent for a long time. Then, he suddenly said inadvertently, "Jim, how do you usually... How do you pursue women?"

After Skyler said this, a dim light flashed in his eyes.

Jim was stunned for a moment and then immediately, he became more energetic. He leaned toward Skyler. "No way, Skyler, who do you fancy?" Skyler glanced at him lightly. "Answer the question, stop talking nonsense." Jim looked at him with a cheeky grin. "Tsk tsk tsk, you can't judge a book by its cover indeed. The ten-thousand-year-old iceberg is about to melt, let me guess, do you fancy that Rhode person?"

After all, during this time, it was rumored that Skyler had an affair with Rhode.

Not only did Skyler not stop the rumors, but Rhode not only rose, but she was also safe and sound and this was worth thinking about.

Skyler's eyes darkened, "What nonsense are you spewing? I told you to answer my question, do you not understand human language?" Jim pointed. "I'm just curious. You can't even quench my curiosity and yet you're asking me about your relationship problems." If Skyler's face darkened in front of other people, they might be terrified.

However, Jim was not the same. It was because even if Skyler darkened his face in front of him, he would not do anything to harm him.

See, Jim was extremely arrogant in front of Skyler.

Skyler looked at Jim coldly to see what he would say, Jim stared at Skyler. "Tell me. What's so good about Rhode? You gave her the sponsorship and are so protective over her. I can't even ask about her!

Skyler looked at him in annoyance. "It's not Rhode!!!

Chapter 190

Chapter 190

Jim's eyes widened immediately. "What? It's not Rhode? Then why are you so nice to her?" Skyler's eyes flashed. "I'm not nice to her. She's from the countryside and it wasn't easy for her to get to this point. I don't need to eradicate her over such a trivial matter." In fact, the truth was that Skyler kissed Jocelyn that night while depending on the alcohol for courage.

For the first time, he acted according to his heart!

As a result, he was slapped by Jocelyn. Skyler left the North Court Villa and returned to the villa Jim hosted the party in. Rhode was still in the villa at the time, and when she saw Skyler come back, she poured him a drink without saying a word. Skyler was emotional for the first time in years that night. He asked Rhode why she came to this kind of party.

Rhode then told him about her situation.

She said that she was from the countryside, and she had six sisters. They were extremely poor. She came out to work hard and made her debut unexpectedly. She thought her dream was within reach, but after entering this field, she realized that this was a paradise for the rich. If she did not have money or power, it would be very hard for her if she wanted resources, She also told Skyler that she knew there was no free lunch in this world. She did not want to pretend to be innocent, she just wanted to get ahead and get out of that impoverished place as much as possible. Normally, Skyler would not care about such a thing at all.

There were many poor people in the world, and it was impossible for him to provide relief to all of them.

However, that night, it might be because Rhode had accompanied him through the most contradictory and the worst time of his life, so he understood Rhode a little bit.

Therefore, he acquiesced to the following scandals and resources. However, who was Jim? He was the master playboy who had so many women but never got into any trouble.

When Skyler said a girl from the countryside, Jim automatically started imagining a sob story. He could not stop from sighing ruefully, "It seems Rhode came up with this sob story in front of you." Skyler gave him a side-eye and did not deny it.

Jim's eyes shone. "However, if you don't like her, who do you like?" He thought about it and suddenly, his expression became tense, and she looked at Skyler in disbelief, "Damn, do you like Jocelyn?"

Skyler's expression was tense, and he leaned on the sofa, not saying a word, Jim said to himself, "No way, you seriously fell for Jocelyn. Although she's good at fighting playing billiards, talented, and looks ethereal, but... I thought you two became husband and wife halfway and after you got through this, you'll break and burn all the bridges."

Skyler froze and said nothing.

Jim leaned in and stared at Skyler's face. He looked left and right like he was looking at some rare treasure.

He could not help shaking his head. A complicated expression on his face. "No way, you really like her. Did you ask me relationship questions just to pursue her? No, no, this is a rare encounter in a thousand years. This is such a historical memorial, a moment of significance! I must remember this."

Jim was so annoying that Skyler could not help looking at him coldly, "Can you answer the question?"

Jim sneered. Then, he cleared his throat. "Okay, I won't keep you on the hook. We're even closer than brothers anyway, so I won't hide anything from you Pursuing a woman is actually quite tacky."

Skyler looked at him blankly, still not speaking

Jim continued to keep Skyler on tenterhooks. "Women are all emotional animals. Of course, different ways work for different people. However, they also have something in common.

They like romance, and they prefer a lover who's always nice to them."

Skyler frowned slightly, going straight to the core of the question, and said sarcastically, "Have you ever done that to a woman? Is there any experimental basis for your words?" Jim suddenly laughed dryly. "Don't bring me down. Forget it, I'll go straight to the point. If you want to pursue Jocelyn, just drive her to and from work, send her flowers and gifts, and go on a dinner date with her. Persevere and remember to do something romantic for her every day. After some time, you will naturally get her. After that, it's time to..." Jim said, winking at Skyler with a meaningful look.

Skyler frowned, an incomprehensible expression on his face. "Then what?"

Jim coughed twice in embarrassment. "And then it's time to do what two people should do, of course! Do you need to ask me about this?"

Skyler was silent. He looked at Jim and suddenly he wondered if it was reliable to ask this playboy for advice.

Jim thought Skyler did not understand, so he winked at him. "Skyler, don't tell me you're so innocent that you don't understand what I was saying."

Skyler gave him a cold look and lowered his eyes. It was unknown what he was thinking. However, he kindly gave Jim an answer. "I understand." Jim immediately beamed. His tone was amorous when he said, "That's about it."

Skyler then looked at him coldly and apathetically before asking another question. "How can you be sure that she's in love with you?"

Jim snapped his finger like he had experience in this. "This is easy. If she's jealous because of you, then it means she's in love with you." When Skyler heard the word 'jealous', his eyes darkened, and he did not say anything.

Jim tried his best to come up with a plan for Skyler. "I think you shouldn't explain your relationship with Rhode to her. You can use it to test Jocelyn to see if she'll get jealous."

Skyler did not say anything, but instead, he was starting to wonder if this plan would work in his heart.

Jim understood that Skyler was serious this time. Back then he was dating Josie, he did not take it seriously at all. He lamented, "Tch tch, look at you. The ten-thousand-year-old iceberg has finally melted. However, it's good that you have the marriage certificate so you can tie her down and take this slow."

While Jim was lamenting, Skyler asked a lethal question all of a sudden, "Can I not confess my feelings to her?"
