

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 1024

The data analysis was very fast.

Fortunately, the computer configuration of Lan Pavilion was still okay. Otherwise, with such fast data, the computer processor wouldn't be able to keep up at all. It could only freeze.

Lan Pavilion's machine's reaction was a little slow. At least the progress bar was still moving forward.

Qiao Nian calculated the time. It would take about three minutes to analyze the results.

She crossed her arms in front of her chest and waited silently.

"..." This was the first time Ye Wangchuan saw her display her hacking skills openly in front of him. The hand speed Qiao Nian had just displayed was much faster than what she displayed at the Ninth Branch.

It could be seen that she had already restrained herself in the Ninth Branch.

Otherwise, Luo Qing and the others would be stunned.

Not to mention Zhou Wei.

If Zhou Wei had seen Qiao Nian operate the computer with her own eyes, she probably would not be conceited enough to think that her skills could compare to Qiao Nian's.

Unfortunately, there were no ifs.

"Who are you investigating?" Ye Wangchuan pushed the foam from his tea away. He was quite indifferent to this. Others might not understand what Qiao Nian was doing, but he knew very well how powerful she was just now. She had written a programming processor and created an IP tracker. Such a talent could easily crush Zhou Hengfeng in the country.

No wonder so many powerful hackers in the Red Alliance admired her. She wasn't called Sun for nothing.

Qiao Nian raised her eyes lazily and did not hide it from him. "Jiang Li."

"?"

"He's been acting strange these past few days. His reply to my message was also strange. I'm checking where he is."

Jiang Li said he was filming a variety show in Two Rivers City.

If she found out that his IP address was in Two Rivers City, it meant that she was thinking too much. If Jiang Li's IP address was not in Two Rivers City, then he was hiding something from her.

Qiao Nian narrowed her eyes and restrained the wantonness in them. She placed her hand on the table and tapped it casually. Those who were familiar with her knew this small action of hers. Usually, when she was bored enough to knock her fingers on the table, it meant that she was feeling more anxious. At least, she was not calm.

Three minutes was not long.

Soon, the results of the tracking were out.

IP tracking failed!

The green words were square and looked like an arrogant provocation to Qiao Nian.

"Tsk, interesting." She smiled, her dark eyes filled with interest as if something had finally interested her.

The IP tracking failure could only mean one thing. Jiang Li was in a place that blocked signals, and there might be a large signal jammer or an anti-tracking system there.

As far as she knew, there was no such place in the country, and there was no need for a large anti-tracking system.

There was a place with such a habit.

The illegal district!

Light flashed in Qiao Nian's eyes. Her cold white hand supported her chin, and the smile on her face was casual and arrogant.

Not investigating further, she turned off the computer, picked up her things, and stood up. She then placed her hands in her pockets and said to the man, "I'm going out for a while. Help me tell Qin Si."

...

Qing University.

In the principal's office.

When Qiao Nian reached the door, she knocked politely, but her posture was quite arrogant.

"Please come in."

Soon, a middle-aged man's calm voice came from inside.

Qiao Nian opened the door and entered.

In the dark-colored office, there was another bookshelf connected to a wall. The bookshelf was filled with all kinds of books. Beside it was a green plant. The emerald color was quite likable. In addition, the most eye-catching thing in the entire office was the desk. There was a brush and an inkstone on the table. There was also flamboyant calligraphy on the wall—Teaching and Cultivation.
