

MADAM'S IDENTITIES SHOCKS THE ENTIRE CITY AGAIN Chapter 1460

After a moment of thought, Qiao Nian replied, [I'm free after 10 tomorrow. How is it?]

Then, she replied to Robert.

[Not tomorrow. Maybe the day after!]

...

G Electric's headquarters.

After Wen Ruxia sent Qiao Nian the message, someone immediately knocked on the door.

She saw Qiao Nian's QQ light up. Qiao Nian didn't seem to be around, so she didn't reply to her message for the time being.

She pushed her swivel chair back and took her hands off the table. "Come in," she said casually.

Outside.

Wen Ruxia's assistant entered and carefully placed a folder on her desk. "Manager Wen, this is the preliminary plan for the variety show reported by the planning department for this quarter. Please take a look at it."

"Hmm." Wen Ruxia picked up the folder and flipped it open.

She read quickly.

After all, every TV station had to come up with quite a few variety shows every year. There were different types of variety shows, but the bottom line was the same—celebrities.

It depended on who invited more celebrities and whose celebrities were more popular.

She wasn't in charge of variety shows and she had a high background. She wasn't particularly interested in these small shows.

Wen Ruxia skimmed through it and realized that the preliminary proposal for the variety show submitted by the planning department this season was similar to the previous ones.

The invitees were much the same.

The male celebrities invited included Duan Lei.

The name she saw the most was Bai Lin, one of the most popular female celebrities.

Bai Lin had a backing. She had been popular since her debut. After becoming popular through an online drama, she was now in the limelight in the entertainment industry.

Not long ago, she had single-handedly tied Jiang Li up and created a neighborhood couple.

Because the man was handsome and the woman was beautiful, this CP also attracted a lot of CP fans. Wen Ruxia had more or less heard some rumors that such a CP existed.

Except she wasn't much interested in any of that.

Jiang Li's career in the entertainment industry did not mean that he had to rely on it like everyone else.

No matter what, the Jiang family had Old Master Jiang. Jiang Li had a lot of fun in the entertainment circle. If he didn't want to play, he could choose to leave the circle at any time. After leaving the circle, he could do whatever he wanted.

Neighborhood CP.

It was just a marketing tactic by the weaker party.

Wen Ruxia's gaze swept past Bai Lin's name. She picked up her fountain pen from the pen holder and signed her name.

Then, she handed the folder to her assistant. "Take this to the planning department."

"OK."

The assistant was about to go out with the folder when he remembered something. She stopped and turned back to her. "Ah, Manager Wen, there's something else."

"?"

Wen Ruxia frowned slightly and listened to her patiently. "What else?"

The assistant didn't dare to beat around the bush and told her everything in detail. "After Director George Lucas's plane landed, Bai Lin went to the airport to pick him up. Now, many people on the Internet are saying that Bai Lin is the female lead of this MV promotional video and wants to combine with Jiang Li to film it. Some of the CP fans are already in a frenzy and even created a super hot topic on Weibo..."

Wen Ruxia originally thought that she was talking about trivial matters again. Hearing this, she slammed the teacup on the table, her capable eyes filled with anger. "She ran to the airport to pick him up? She even got the paparazzi to wait there and take photos?"

"I don't know if the paparazzi at the airport were hired by them, but Bai Lin did go to pick him up."